PLAN TO GRANT ROOSEVELT BIG POWERS IS CUT

House Democrats Balk at Garner Scheme.

NEW PROJECT IS ADVANCED

Modified Authority to Slice Funds Drawn by Huddleston.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Garner plan to give Franklin D. Roosevelt "Mussolini" powers to slash expenditures last night was regarded as definitely dead for this session, following violent House reaction to the sweeping authorization.

In its stead, a modified authorization is being worked out, on the framework of a resolution introduced by Representative Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama. This would give the President power to cut costs 10 per cent within specific constitutional limits.

Meanwhile conferees on the Treasury-Postoffice bill, proposed as the vehicle for the exceptional grant of power, were appointed yesterday by House and Senate. House conferees will carry the modified draft to conference today or Monday.

What Resolution Provides.

The Huddleston resolution would empower the President to make 10 per cent appropriation cuts in any manner that would not impair contractual obligations. Specific authority would be given, however, to slash Federal or veterans' compensation.

Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, following a conference yesterday with Speaker Garner, said this resolution can be so rewritten as to make the authority clearly within the Constitution. He said it could be done by making the President the agent of Congress in carrying out certain specific instructions.

Lacking this, independent legislation would have to be enacted before either veterans' or Federal compensation could be touched, he said.

"It would just be the Bratton amendment, considerably broadened," said the South Carolinian author of the Senate proposal to empower Mr. Roosevelt to reorganize the Federal Government.

Garner Plan Denounced.

The Bratton amendment empowers the heads of departments and independent establishments to make 5 per cent cuts in all appropriations. This, rather than the Byrnes reorganization amendment, would open the door for conference consideration of the additional grant of power.

The original Garner proposal, to give Mr. Roosevelt carte blanche authority, extending even to abolition of Government departments and ocean and air mail subsidies, was denounced on both sides of the Capitol yester-

SENATE GROUP BARS NEW DRY FUND CUT

Action on Army Supply Bill Possible Today; Fight Over Repeal Is Next.

By J. BERNARD M'DONNELL.

With preliminary skirmishes out of the way, wets and drys in the Senate found themselves yesterday on the verge of their long-awaited major battle, and, although the wets probably will get licked again, they will have the satisfaction of giving the drys the nearest thing to a licking they have had since prohibition was put into the Constitution.

They crossed swords yesterday in the Appropriations Committee and the wets lost their attempt to cut by 10 per cent the prohibition enforcement funds, which already had been reduced by the House 15 per cent below the budget recommendations for the next fiscal year.

By a vote of 12 to 9, the committee overrode its subcommittee, which had considered the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor appropriation bill, in which enforcement funds are carried. The subcommittee had cut the funds 10 per cent below the House figure. The full committee yesterday restored the fund to the $8,440,000 approved by the House.

But the drys found some solace in the restrictions the committee placed on the use of the money. It may not under the committee draft, be used for wire tapping to collect evidence of liquor law violation, and though informers may use it to buy liquor as evidence they may not use any of it to buy drinks for themselves.

Before the enforcement fund fight is brought to issue on the floor however, the opposing forces will battle over the much-qualified so-called prohibition repeal amendment which was the best repeal resolution that Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, a wet, could get reported out of the Judiciary Committee, which has been recognized by the drys as one of their citadels of strength for many years.

The repeal resolution pleases neither the wets nor the drys and conforms to the pledges given so solemnly in their party platforms by

Airmen Find Members Of Rescue Party Safe

Westport, Conn., Feb. 10 (U.P.).—Ten members of a rescue party aboard the schooner Saugatuck, which was lost while searching for missing clam fishers, were found safe at a lighthouse in Long Island Sound tonight

Missing more than 24 hours while storms swept the 15-mile strip of water between Connecticut and Long Island, they had anchored near the Middle Ground light, off Bridgeport, and sought shelter in the lighthouse. They were discovered by airplane searchers.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee yesterday increased to $750,000 funds for the Federal Trade Commission, which were cut to approximately $500,000 by the House.

Ballplayer's Wife Kills Her Brother

Mate of Thomas, Fielder for Giants, Claims Threat on Life.

Ocala, Fla., Feb. 10 (U.P.).—Mrs. Herb Thomas, wife of the New York Giants' new center fielder recently purchased from Montreal, today shot and killed her brother, Bruce Close, 26, of Columbus, Ohio, at Astor, on the St. Johns River, east of here, it was revealed late this afternoon at a preliminary hearing before Judge E. N. Talley at Tavares, near here.

Mrs. Thomas claimed her brother had threatened to kill her and her three small children, and had entered her room armed with a shotgun and pistol. Mrs. Thomas told Sheriff W. D. Gibson of Lake County she had shot in self-defense.

The preliminary hearing before Judge Talley resulted in a finding of justifiable homicide.

R. F. C. BELIEVED SOON TO SLASH INTEREST RATE

Report Follows Visit of Al Smith on Loan for New York.

CONGRESS MAY ACT TO FORCE REDUCTION

Would Spur Employment on Self-Liquidating Jobs, Is Claim.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Intimations that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may cut down its interest rates seeped out from the tightly guarded portals of this gigantic money lending agency yesterday.

Word circulated that the corporation is seriously considering cutting its rates on self-liquidating projects, which now run between 5 and 6 per cent down to 4½ per cent. It pays the Federal Government 3½ per cent for its money.

This shift of direction is due to the forcible argument made before the corporation directors Thursday by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

"Two Glass Eyes."

"The R. F. C.," he said, "can act like a suspicious banker with two glass eyes or it can exercise its social responsibility and put men to work."

His shot went home. Yesterday word was going around that the corporation may shortly fall into line with the prevailing tendency in the financial world to scale down interest charges. The chief objection to this is that if the interest rate is placed too low, the incentive to pay off the loan will be removed. Public protest some time back forced the R. F. C. to cut down to 5½ per cent interest rates to farmers on live-stock loans which were running as high as 7 per cent. The farmers now pay for inspection and loan fees which they did not pay under the 7 per cent rate.

The question as to how much R. F. C. money may be expected to come back arose forcibly to attention yesterday when the Couzens Senate subcommittee discovered that collateral put up as security for railroad loans has in some instances melted to fractional values.

Some Figures Cited.

Following are some of the figures:

Railroads.	R. F. C. Loan	Market Value of Collateral
Central of Georgia	$2.903.000	$898.000
Missouri Pacific	17.100.000	7.392.000
Southern Railway	14.723.000	11.743.000
St. Louis San Francisco	5.190.000	829.000
Chicago Northwestern	18.193.000	16.356.000

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee, described by Chairman Couzens as a so-called Insull road, owes the R. F. C. $1,065,000. Officials of the fiscal agency were unable to estimate the value of the security behind this loan.

"Probably you had better wipe it off to profit and loss," observed Couzens.

When he appeared before the R. F. C. Thursday, Smith, seeking to soften the Government money-lending board

Impeachment Vote Favors President

Clashes Loom in Uruguay in Controversy Over Executive Power.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Feb. 10 (U. P.).—The chamber of deputies tonight voted down a bill asking impeachment of President Gabriel Terra and Minister of Interior de Michelli and sent it to a committee

Military vigilance in this city and on the northern frontier was maintained as the chamber sought to reach a decision on the proposed plebiscite for reapportionment of executive powers. President Gabriel Terra, backed by the Blanco party, is seeking to displace the Colorado party—controlled national administrative council—from its present position of sharing executive functions with him.

It was believed the deputies' action would result in either an armed clash or conciliation between the two parties. Lengthy party caucuses were held today.

KidnapTerm

Parent Who Abducted Own Child From Its Mother Gets Year and Day.

For kidnaping his own 5-year-old son, William S. Barr yesterday was sentenced to serve a year and a day in jail by Chief Justice A. A. Wheat in District Supreme Court.

Barr's wife, Dorothy W. Barr, had been given custody of the boy, William W. Barr, by a court order, and despite this, it was said, the father took the child away.

Barr pleaded guilty to the charge last week and yesterday attempted to withdraw his plea because he said he was under the misapprehension that his plea was to a suit in equity. Chief Justice Wheat refused to permit him to withdraw the plea.

RIGID QUIZ NEARING IN LINDBERGH CASE

U. S. Takes Over Suspects; Told of Charges, Wife of One Collapses.

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Expert Federal investigators tonight moved swiftly nearer their first big attempt to draw from two young men and a woman a confession that they sought to extort $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, threatening peril for his infant second son.

The assignment of John M. Keith, of the United States Bureau of Investigation, to the case here was seen by Federal and local authorities in Roanoke as the advent of a sweeping investigation into the plot which recalled the fatal kidnaping of the infant Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., less than a year ago.

Elsie Harvey, 26-year-old woman held by the authorities on two separate charges — conspiracy and mailing threatening communications—was released during the night under a $5,000 bond. Norman Harvey, her husband, and Joe Bryant, still were in jail. No move was made to post the $25,000 bond required for each of them. They were held on the same charges.

They didn't know it, but I. M. Stapleton, District Federal agent, was ready to put them through rigid interrogation upon the arrival of Keith.

Nannie V. Harvey, Norman's mother, posted real estate as security for the girl, who during the afternoon collapsed when United States Commissioner Charles Fox, jr., informed her of the charges the United States had preferred against her and the two young men. She was taken to the Harvey home on "Poorhouse road," several miles from the city. She is under bond to appear in the commissioner's preliminary hearing Monday morning.

Meanwhile United States District Attorney Joseph Shaffer, a former member of Congress, made it known from his home in Wytheville, Va., that he would arrive here Sunday to take charge of the prosecution. Thus far he has been represented by his assistant, T. K. Parsons, who today

NAVY STRENGTH IN PACIFIC WILL BE AUGMENTED

Entire Scouting Fleet to Join Battle Force Until July, 1934.

JAPAN TO MANEUVER ALSO IN SAME AREA

Adams Says Bratton Amendment Would Cripple Defense for Years.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The American battle fleet in the Pacific will be reinforced by the addition of the entire scouting fleet during this year and until July 1, 1934, it was officially announced here yesterday. The combined force of the American fleets on the West Coast will number about 122 units under Admiral Richard Henry Leigh, commander in chief.

This brief statement from the Navy Department yesterday was almost coincident with the reported determination of Japan to retire from the League of Nations rather than submit to the recommendations of the Lytton report. However, a still more significant implication was given to the new naval orders when it became known that the Japanese navy intends to hold its five-year special maneuvers in three months also in the Pacific.

The Japanese general board is working on a comprehensive plan to test new cruisers and new equipment, especially the naval planes.

Near Communication Lines.

The locals of the maneuvers will be the mysteriously guarded mandated islands of the Caroline, the Marshall and the Bonin groups, which have been the subject of considerable litigation between the League of Nations and the Japanese government.

The Japanese government has been accused of fortifying these islands in contravention of the implicit agreement of the league and the mandate power. The Japanese foreign office replies, however, that these islands are not fortified but that the harbors have been improved so as to admit the entrance of big ships, probably battleships and similar vessels.

Nevertheless, the projected Japanese naval war games will be so constituted that they will automatically cut athwart the lines of communication between the Philippines and Guam, both possessions of the United

October Bank Holdup Suspect Is Arrested

Man in Miami Is Linked in Capital Attempt; Gas Routed Gang.

Solution of the attempt to rob the branch bank of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank at 3401 Connecticut avenue on October 21 was believed near with the arrest yesterday in Miami, Fla., of Edward Dee, 35, of Philadelphia.

With the apprehension of Dee, whose picture has been identified as that of one of the band that was thwarted by tear gas in the hold-up attempt, the authorities redoubled their efforts for the arrest of the other members of the band.

An Associated Press dispatch from Miami said Dee was turned over to the Dade County sheriff's department last night by Miami Beach police. He was arrested on a charge involving a woman, set forth in a bill of criminal information filed by the county solicitor's office.

A warrant charging Dee with attempted bank robbery, was sworn out two months ago by Detective Sergt. Floyd A. Truscott, who appeared before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and obtained

Bodies of 45 Are Found; 280 in Hospitals.

HOUSES RAZED BY EXPLOSION

Calls Sent to Nearby Towns for Nurses and Doctors.

Neunkirchen, Germany (Saturday), Feb. 11 (U.P.).—Rescue workers worked feverishly through the night for bodies of scores killed and mutilated when the gas tank of this industrial city in the Saar Basin exploded last evening, demolishing buildings and spreading death and destruction.

Police heading the rescue work in the shattered area said that at 1:30 a. m. 45 bodies had been recovered from the ruins in addition to seven others killed in the vicinity by flying masonry as houses crumbled beneath the terrific blast.

The dead were expected to total far more, however, as bodies were recovered. Upward of 280 were in hospitals, critically injured.

Relief Calls Sent Out.

Rescue squads established emergency hospitals in the vicinity of the disaster. Many auxiliary first-aid stations were set up. Medical supplies were commandeered in drug stores. Orders for more supplies and experienced doctors and nurses were rushed to nearby towns.

Fifty of the injured were given little chance to recover.

Local police said they would not be able accurately to gauge the number of dead until late in the day.

It was learned that 500 persons were working in the gas works and the adjacent benzol plant at the time of the disaster—6:10 p. m. yesterday.

Pitiful Scenes Enacted.

However, none knew how many had escaped. The relatives of missing workers sought to break through police lines, and pitiful scenes were enacted as they were kept back.

Police at the scene and at headquarters said it was definitely established that most of the victims were women and children.

Most of the bodies recovered so far were from debris of 28 houses occupied by workers in the neighborhood around the gas works. Their little community was practically razed. The scene was one of utmost confusion as the work proceeded.

Hurled Half a Mile.

The force of the explosion was shown by the fact that the great lid of the gas tank, about 150 feet in diameter, was hurled nearly half a mile, and dropped on the railroad tracks.

A street car passing the gas works at the time of the explosion was demolished. Only the chassis remained, like a skeleton, on the tracks.

The gas tank which exploded was of the most modern construction. It was the second largest in Germany, and had been ragarded practically as explosion proof

BIG HELP TO NATION IN NEW POSTOFFICE

"Buy More Stamps" Drive Promised in Return for Appropriation.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

One of the most interesting public works by which it is hoped to spend the United States Treasury out of the red and restore prosperity is the self-liquidating postoffice which has been awarded to the little town of Larcenia, a typical American community deriving its name from the larcenous sentiments of its citizens in their dealings with the Government. There are 1,200 inhabitants, or Larcenists, as they are called by the local newspaper, the Weekly Chisel, which carries at its masthead the civic shield bearing the symbolic crossed blackjacks and jimmies.

Larcenia's representative in Congress is the Hon. Will Cadge, an indefatigable toiler on behalf of his constituency, with a special zeal for pension cases, who is proud of the fact that the citizens of his community draw out of the Treasury more money per capita in monthly checks than those of any other district in the country. The credit for this record he graciously shares, however, with the attorneys at law practicing in Larcenia, who have given and still give the most effective cooperation in preparing claims, on a commission basis. The total monthly

Tokyo Holds Fleet Move Tells Alarm

Calls Other Belief About Pratt's Orders to Stay in Pacific Childish.

Tokyo (Saturday), Feb. 11 (U.P.).—Rear Admiral William V. Pratt has decided to keep the combined American fleet in Pacific waters because of American uneasiness over the Japanese situation, it was believed in high quarters here today.

Authorities unofficially said it would be childish to give any other interpretation to Admiral Pratt's announcement the fleet would be kept on the Pacific until July 1, 1934.

The decision had been expected by Japanese. They believed American authorities would not want to return the Atlantic fleet to its Eastern base when they might face a possibility of having to return to the Pacific at any time.

Japanese sources, however, denied that the United States had any basis for belief the fleet might be needed for action against Japan.

Film Comedian Is Held On Visit Permit Charge

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (U.P.).—Frank Atkinson, film comedian and a wartime ace of the British Flying Corps was arrested tonight on charges of overstaying his visiting permit to the United States.

Atkinson, who was credited with bringing down 21 German planes in battle, was taken to the Federal immigration office here to have bail set on the complaint.

LINDSAY WILL SPEED BACK TO POST IN U. S.

Will Bring Outline of Policy on Debt Negotiations "Big 5" Approves.

London, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Only an unexpected hitch over Great Britain's program for war debt settlement will prevent Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States, from leaving England Tuesday and racing to Washington to resume negotiations with President-elect Roosevelt.

Sir Ronald may arrive in Washington only a day after Mr. Roosevelt's return from the South.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and other members of the cabinet will meet at No. 10 Downing street Monday morning, with the ambassador in attendance, for final approval of the policy which the "Big Five" will submit to the ministry and then will entrust to the ambassador.

No official hint of the conclusions the "Big Five" of the cabinet have reached, as a result of five long sessions this week, was available today as Parliament adjourned for the week-end.

The Washington talks will be free and open discussions of the whole range of economic financial and political problems involved in intergovernmental obligations, but so far as can be learned here no material change has taken place in the three main points of the British policy regarding the debts conference. These points are:

1. Any settlement must be final.

2. No decisions can be taken to prejudice later decisions to be reached at the World Economic Conference in London.

3. The Lausanne reparations settlement must stand.

At the same time it is evident to political quarters here that Sir Ronald has acquainted the British government with a clear-cut view of what may be expected at Washington, and that his swift mission home ought to contribute materially to the success of the Washington conference is generally accepted.

Hot Motor Halts Argentine Flight

Headwinds Over Coast of Africa Force French Fliers Down.

Casablanca, Morocco, Feb. 10 (U.P.). The projected flight of two French airmen from Marseille, France, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, ended abruptly here tonight when motor trouble forced them to land.

Two fliers, Lucien Boussoutrot and Maurice Rossi, veterans of other distance flights, brought their huge plane to earth at 8:20 p. m., after a little more than twelve hours in the air.

Their motor became overheated bucking heavy headwinds after they reached the northwest coast of Africa, they reported, and after pushing on in the hope the weather would improve and the motor cool at a less arduous cruising speed, they were forced to come down.

More Snow Is Due Today, With 24-Degree Recording

Flakes May Turn Into Rain, Bureau Forecasts; Depth of 2 Inches Reached at 2 A. M.; Four Hurt in Accidents.

Snow again!

Colder Sunday!

So the Weather Bureau forecasts for Washington.

The snow began early last night. Two inches had fallen by 2 a. m. today. The Weather Bureau could not explain why the four snowfalls of the winter have occurred on Saturday.

The forecaster did say, however that the thermometer would reach only 24 degrees today. It was also forecast that the snow might change to rain.

Crossing the street in the blinding snow at Georgia avenue and Harvard street northwest, last night, Miss Betty Brooks, 23, was knocked down by an automobile. She was treated at Emergency Hospital for bruises and abrasions to the arms and legs.

According to police, the car which struck Miss Brooks, who lives at 705 Fourth street northwest was operated by Walter E. Knowles, of 1413 Girard street northwest.

Shortly before the snow began falling, Walter Coe, 31, of 332 Seaton street northeast, who, according to police, was trying to cross Sixteenth street, at R street northwest, was knocked down and seriously injured by an automobile.

Robert A. Anderson, 22, of 617 Rock Creek Church road northwest, who police said was driving the car, was attempting to pass the intersection on a changing light, according to Private E. R. McNale, investigating the case. Coe was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for a fractured hip and left wrist.

Mrs. Ina J. Harding, 65, of 2805 Ontario road northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital for a fracture of the left ankle, received, according to witnesses, when she slipped and fell on the sidewalk at Fourteenth street and Columbia road northwest. She was removed to the hospital in a taxicab.

FARM LEADER RAPS COURSE IN SENATE

O'Neal Criticizes Committee Handling of Proposed Relief Legislation.

(Associated Press.)

Outspoken disapproval of the way two Senate committees are handling farm relief legislation was expressed in open letters sent last night to all of their members by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"It is evident that these committees, judged by committee prints of the allotment and farm mortgage bills, are not following the recommendations of farm organizations on the two major agricultural projects of this session," said O'Neal in making public the letters.

The farm leader wrote to the members of the agriculture and banking committees which hope to report shortly on the big farm relief bills which they have been considering.

New Complications Appear.

The agricultural committee meets today on the allotment plan measure passed by the House while a banking subcommittee continues its struggle with farm mortgage legislation.

New complications had beset the mortgage proposals last night, with the addition of demands that the small urban home owner as well as the farmer be protected against foreclosure for two years under the Hull farm mortgage "moratorium" bill.

Lest this new controversial element defeat his emergency farm relief measure, Senator Hull (Democrat) of Tennessee, promptly proposed that the aid for the city dweller be made the subject of a separate bill. A decision is expected on this angle today.

Meanwhile, confidence was expressed by Southern senators that the Smith bill to help the cotton farmer by reducing the surplus would be reported to the Senate today.

Various Features Protested.

O'Neal in his letters objected vigorously to proposals for confining the domestic allotment bill to two products—wheat and cotton—and for cutting out its acreage control features. The Hull mortgage bill also drew his fire.

The move for including the owner-occupants of small homes in cities was started by Senators Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, and Steiwer (Republican), Oregon. They argued that this class of person as well as the farmer needs help to keep from losing his home.

Preparatory to taking up the matter again today, Senator Walcott sought to learn from the Federal Home Loan Board how great an additional expense would be involved by extending the assistance to city homes.

Under the Hull bill, $500,000,000 would be provided for loans to the holders of farm mortgages in an amount sufficient to cover back taxes, defaulted interest and installments. In return, the mortgage holder would have to agree not to foreclose for two years.

Crop Loan Totals Are Made Public

Minneapolis Office Lends Largest Amount With Returns Lowest.

(Associated Press.)

Of $64,204,508 disbursed by the Department of Agriculture last year in crop production loans to farmers, a total of $18,083,751 has been collected, leaving $46,120,751 unpaid. The summary of collections announced by the department yesterday also shows that of 507,632 loans made, either all or a part of 383,088 loans remains uncollected. The average collected on each loan is $35.62 while the average loan made was $126.

States served out of the Minneapolis regional office obtained the largest total, $24,243,335, and have repaid the smallest ratio, 11.16 per cent.

The Washington office, serving Eastern and some Southern States, made loans totaling $16,559,651, of which 39.59 per cent has been repaid. At St. Louis, loans of $4,053,536 were made, of which 41.47 per cent has been repaid, while the Memphis office loaned $18,232,633 with 33.84 per cent repaid. The Salt Lake City office loaned $2,208,657, with the rate of collections 44.14 per cent.

U. S. NAVY STRENGTH IN PACIFIC TO GROW

States, and the Hawaiian Islands. At the present time the United States battle and scouting fleet is engaged in war games off the Pacific Coast. The scouting force has recently terminated the subordinate phase of the maneuvers with the Hawaiian Corps Area of the Army.

Economy Called Reason.

The underlying reason for concentration of both scout and battle forces in the Pacific at this time is economy, the chief of naval operations, Admiral William V. Pratt, declared. The congressional demand for further naval economy embodied in the Bratton amendment will, however, entail more serious consequences than the compulsory maintenance of the combined fleets on the Pacific Coast. Secretary of the Navy Adams, in a letter to Senator Bingham, declared that such a move "would cripple our national defense for years, seriously injure the morale of the service and, together with the discharge of 4,500 civilian employes, would result in an increase of unemployment amounting to 14,650."

The total of the Navy budget at present amounts to $308,669,562, direct appropriations. To reduce this amount by even 5 per cent would compel the following restrictions on naval operations, the Secretary of the Navy declared. He added:

"First, the fleet would be kept on the West Coast. It would result in the closing down of certain Eastern navy yards, slow down the work on ships now building and modernizing at a great loss of time and increase of cost.

"Second, it would restrict reserve activities at a cost of about $1,500,000. This reduction would leave in full commission about 66 per cent of the number of British ships and 56 per cent of the number of Japanese ships which are in full commission or fully manned.

"Third, it would reduce the Marine Corps by about 1,150 men, resulting in a cut of about $1,000,000."

revenue sent into Larcenia from Washington is approximately $2,000, about 80 per cent of which is in compensation for cases of chronic fatigue, cut finger, toothache and falling hair incurred since the war. The prize case of the local bar is the 80 per cent disability rating, with appropriate pension, obtained for a veteran of 1898, whose case was officially diagnosed as yawning fever. The victim is the Larcenia County judge. He yawns all the time.

Larcenia's total contribution to the Government in income taxes last year was $325, but Representative Cadge obtained a refund of $150 to his constituents for the year of 1931 by vigorous representations to the Internal revenue department and by the same process may yet be able to reduce Larcenia's net for 1932 to $250. He has set as his goal a figure of no dollars, net, but the internal revenue people are very rapacious and progress toward this ideal is slow and laborious.

The appropriation for the new Larcenia Postoffice is $125,000 and the plans call for a three-story building with modern mechanical devices to sort and distribute the daily turnover of approximately 2,000 letters, catalogues and Government documents, which latter are carried free under the congressional frank of the Hon. Cadge, and comprise about one-fourth of the traffic. There will be a modern machine to cancel the stamps on the daily mail business of about 250 pieces, including post-cards, and the most up-to-date sorting and conveying machines to save foot-work by the postal staff and promote efficiency in the local postal service. It took a hard fight by Congressman Cadge to obtain the stamp-canceling machine which will cost $350, but he won his point when he showed that the present antiquated postoffice was using up two ink-pads, three bottles of ink and four cancellation stamps regularly every year.

Will Pay "Big Dividends."

"Cheap equipment is poor economy," Congressman Cadge declared. "In the course of time this machine will pay for itself and, over the long haul, this investment, which seems so big now, will begin to pay dividends in efficiency and permanence.

The present postoffice in Larcenia is distinctly beneath the character of the town, consisting of an ordinary store room next door to the new Merchants' House. The Government pays a monthly rental of $35 for these quarters under an old lease, although the Elite Cafe, a similar room which bounds the postoffice on the other side, never has rented for more than $25 and is now down to $20 with one month's rent free. The staff consists of the postmaster and his wife, who is assistant postmaster, and one R. F. D. carrier who is a pensioner with a 90 per cent disability incurred when he slipped on a rock and sprained his ankle while out fishing in defense of Old Glory in the spring of 1927. The carrier ekes out his living playing professional football with the Larcenia Porch-Climbers in the fall and as a professional wrestler in the winter season. In the summer months he takes a furlough and enters a Government hospital for treatment, but his case is deemed to be beyond medical science and the treatment consists almost entirely of complete relaxation. Last summer, however, he sacrificed this opportunity and risked his health to march to Washington and demand the bonus.

Under the plan of self-liquidation, the Larcenia Postoffice is expected to pay for itself in the course of a long term of years and thereafter to yield a profit in the form of savings. This plan anticipates, of course, that Larcenia will enjoy a vigorous expansion when prosperity returns and that the community in time will achieve a size commensurate with that of the postal facilities. There were a disloyal minority of citizens who opposed the project on the ground that the old postoffice was good enough, but they were denounced as unworthy of the name of Larcenist and local sentiment overwhelmingly indorsed the improvement with the slogan "Don't Sell Larcenia Short."

"Support Postoffice."

A drive is now being organized to begin the day the new edifice is dedicated, with the slogan "Support the Postoffice; Buy More Stamps." The Postoffice Department in Washington insists that there is no profit in stamps, but Congressman Cadge and a local business men's committee headed by Mayor Mace, have prepared figures to show that if enough stamps are sold a profit will develop.

"Look at the 5-and-10-cent stores," Mayor Mace declared. "They make profits, don't they, and I want to tell you right here and now, every true Larcenist worth the name is going to get behind this proposition and put his shoulder to the wheel and put this thing over the top 100 per cent in the old never-say-die Larcenia spirit. And I don't mean maybe. The chamber of commerce is behind this to a man and I want to see every loyal citizen buy his share of stamps to the utmost of his ability. And how!" (Prolonged cheers.)

Construction of the postoffice is temporarily interrupted at present by a strike among the local workmen. There was great unemployment in Larcenia until the postoffice job began and common labor was to be had for 35 cents an hour. When construction started, however, the operation of the law of supply and demand forced up the wages to 60 cents an hour. A compromise is expected at the strikers' own figure, as the local union has telegraphed Congressman Cadge, threatening to blacklist him as an enemy of organized labor. It may be necessary to increase the Federal appropriation somewhat to cover this unexpected development, but Congressman Cadge is known as a stanch friend of labor and he is already at work to obtain additional funds.

GARNER PLAN OF BROAD POWERS FOR ROOSEVELT TO CUT KILLED

It was during debate on the proposal to send the Treasury-Postaffice bill to conference yesterday that rebellion broke out in the House Democratic ranks.

Representatives Cochran, Missouri, and Rankin, Mississippi, were among the Democrats stating their opposition in no uncertain terms, while Republican Floor Leader Snell again led the attack from the Republican side.

Unlimited Power Sought.

"I want to serve notice to conferees on this bill that I will not stand for broad, unlimited power for the President to cut down statutory gratuities," said Representative Rankin.

"I am not willing to make the Congress of the United States appear like a lot of cowards," said Representative Cochran, who is chairman of the House Committee on Expenditures.

Representative Snell said the proposal is either an admission of partisan opposition to a Republican President's program, or else a Democratic confession "that the party is absolutely inefficient to meet the responsibility of a majority in the House of Representatives."

"Bunk," countered Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas. "That statement is so ridiculous that nobody is paying any attention to it."

When objections were made to sending the bill immediately to conference, Representative Pou (Democrat), North Carolina, brought up a special rule calling for a roll call on the issue that shut off debate. It carried, 327 to 1.

"It is the most serious moment in the history of our country, and here we are in the midst of political discussion," said Representative Pou.

"I think it is time to rise above all that. We did during the war. If we don't, we may be cleaned out of the House and Senate, and some one may be put in who can do it.

It is not the time to give a continental dam about what a party has done in the past."

Speaker Garner told newspapermen he is willing to "go the limit" in giving Mr. Roosevelt power to cut costs, with the limit fixed as the Constitution.

"I want to give the President unlimited power to reduce the cost of Government," he said. "Practical experience has shown that Congress is not going to do it. Unless we let the President have the power, we can not redeem the Democratic platform pledge for a 25 per cent cut in Government costs.

"Gov. Roosevelt is willing to take the responsibility, and Congress ought to be willing to give it to him."

House conferees on the Treasury-Postoffice bill named yesterday include Representatives Burns, Arnold and Ludlows, Democrats, and Wood and Thatcher, Republicans. Senate conferees are Senators Oddie, Smoot, Bingham, Dickinson, Keyes and Moses, Republicans, and Glass, McKellar, Bratton, Byrnes and Thomas, of Oklahoma, Democrats.

RICH LEITER LIBRARY WILL BE AUCTIONED

Rare Books and Manuscripts to Go Under Hammer at New York.

Representing a panorama of American history, a collection of rare books and manuscripts from the library of the late Levi Z. Leiter, of this city, will go on sale at the American Anderson Galleries in New York City next Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The collection is from the shelves of the enormous library of the Leiter home at 1500 New Hampshire avenue northwest, and the sale has been ordered by Thomas Leiter, the young grandson of the original owner, and son of the late Joseph Leiter.

The sale will be one of the most important of its kind ever held in the United States, and booklovers from the Capital and throughout the Nation are expected to be present at the Anderson Galleries to bid for the precious volumes, letter and pamphlets.

The collection is composed of 268 lots and includes original letters of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and other great Americans. The chief subjects covered in the collection are history, travel, geography and controversial literature of a religious, social and political nature, and works relating to the colonization and Revolutionary periods are richly represented.

Material on "Lost Cause."

Included also in the collection are 800 books, pamphlets and other material relating to the Confederate States. This collection is said to be exceeded only by those in the Library of Congress and the Boston Athenaeum Library. The books present a record of the Confederacy and of the characteristics and lives of the people of that time.

The letters of George Washington, described as priceless, include one he wrote from Valley Forge to Henry Laurens, President of Congress, describing the pitiful condition of his army, and another to Mr. Laurens expressing opposition to a French-American invasion of Canada.

The history books explain that Washington was opposed to this plan because it was too complicated and extensive and would require too great resources in men and money. In this private letter, however, he reveals that his real fear was that the presence of a large army of French troops in Quebec might tempt France to hold Canada as a pledge and security for the debt then due France. Lafayette had proposed that such an invasion be made in the campaign of 1779.

A unique specimen in the collection is Thomas Jefferson's "Notes on the State of Virginia." This was Jefferson's own copy and contains manuscript notes on the margin and on extra insertions.

Revolutionary Papers.

Revolutionary material of unparalelled value is contained in the Hartley papers. There are 200 letters and documents, most of which are in the handwriting of David Hartley, plenipotentiary of George III, pertaining to the settlement of peace with the American commissioners. These letters and papers form a complete history of the negotiations from the time of Hartley's appointment until the ratification of the treaty in September, 1783.

Another unique part of the collection is the first charter of New York City, printed by John Peter Zenger in 1735. Pennsylvania is represented with the letters of William Penn, from 1683 to 1688. New England, New Jersey, Maryland, Carolina and Florida are among the other States represented, together with the writings of other Americans of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Many of the books to be offered for sale came from three great nineteenth century collectors of Americana—Brinley, Menzies and Rice—and many of them still bear their half-century-old sale numbers. Mr. Leiter, who collected these books and papers, together with thousands of others, rose from the position of clerk in a country store to be one of the leading capitalists in the United States. He died in 1904.

Mills Helps Hoover On New York Talk

Secretary Cancels Trip to Kansas City Because He Is Too Busy.

(Associated Press.)

With Secretary Mills as an aid, President Hoover spent nearly two hours yesterday in preparation of the speech he will deliver in New York Monday before the National Republican Club—the valedictory address of his administration.

The Treasury Secretary said virtually his entire time at the White House was spent in "going over" the address. Earlier, high administration sources reported Mr. Hoover wanted to steer away from strictly political subjects in his talk.

Mills yesterday canceled an appearance he was to have made in Kansas City tonight before a Young Republican group, saying he found himself "with an unusual amount of work to do here." He sent John J. Hopkins, his special assistant, to read the address.

House Committee Votes Against Tariff Raises

(Associated Press.)

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday voted 13 to 11 against action on any bill designed to provide automatic increases in tariff to offset imports from countries with depreciated currencies. Chairman Collier said, however, that the adverse decision was applicable to this session of Congress only.

This action does not prevent a vote Monday in the House on the Crowther bill, which is supported by the Republicans. The vote on the measure, which has received 145 signatures to petition it out of the Ways and Means Committee, is automatic.

Kendrick Bill Asks U. S. To Give Up Public Lands

(Associated Press.)

Transfer of the remaining public lands from the Government to the Western States, along with mineral rights as well as surface rights, was called for yesterday in a bill by Senator Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming.

$75,000,000 U. S. Issue Is Far Oversubscribed

Secretary of the Treasury Mills announced yesterday that the tenders for $75,000,000, or thereabouts, of 91-day Treasury bills, dated February 15, 1933, and maturing May 17, 1933, which were offered last Wednesday, totaled $281,122,000.

The highest bid made was 99.975, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.10 per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.938, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.25 per cent on an annual basis. Only part of the amount bid for at the latter price was accepted. The total amount of bids accepted was $75,202,000. The average price of Treasury bills to be issued is 99.942. The average rate on a bank discount basis is about 0.23 per cent.

HASTINGS FRAMING BANKRUPTCY RELIEF

Senator Embodies Roosevelt Views on Rail Problem in Farm Aid Bill.

(Associated Press.)

A new bankruptcy relief bill embracing some views of a representative of President-elect Roosevelt on railroad reorganization and the farm debtor clause proposed by Democratic Leader Robinson was molded into shape yesterday by Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, for action by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Hastings, chairman of the subcommittee but who himself has revised the bill recently passed by the House, will seek full committee approval next week.

The railroad reorganization section was rewritten, Hastings said in a formal report yet to be considered by the subcommittee, after conferences between Prof. A. A. Berle, New York economist and representative of the President-elect, and Justice Department and Interstate Commerce Commission officials.

Generally this section provides for avoidance of receiverships through court approval of proposed railroad reorganizations—all under Commerce Commission supervision.

Under the new draft, an individual debtor could escape bankruptcy if he could gain approval of a majority of his creditors as to number and amount of money involved, to an extension or scaling down of the debt and then receive the further approval of a court.

The House bill would have permitted a debtor to obtain a readjustment with court approval only, regardless of whether a majority of the creditors approved.

The Robinson clause relating to farmers provides for the appointment of referees or conciliation commissioners for each county upon application of 15 farmers who desire relief under this section. The commissioner would be paid $10 a case by the Government. Another $10, to be paid by the farmer with his application, is intended to cover all other costs.

Rockefeller Study Plan Attacked by Dry League

(Associated Press.)

A statement by the Antisaloon League yesterday said John D. Rockefeller, jr.'s investigation of foreign liquor systems will reveal "that nowhere in the world is there now, or has there been, a system which, other things equal, reduces the evils of alcoholism as effectively as prohibition."

Investigation by a committee for Rockefeller was announced in New York Thursday with word that it was to be made "on the assumption that the eighteenth amendment will be ultimately repealed, and that the problem of control of the liquor traffic will be one upon which the fullest accurate information will be of value."

$500,000 IS ADDED TO R. O. T. C. FUNDS

House Figure Is Increased to $3,840,000 by Vote of Senate.

(Associated Press.)

Almost $500,000 was added to the Army appropriation bill by the Senate yesterday for operation of reserve officers training corps camps.

The Senate agreed without a record vote to a motion by Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, increasing the House figure from $3,354,211 to $3,840,000. The New York Senator pointed out the budget had recommended $3,912,000.

A committee recommendation for an increase of $500,000 in the fund for Army clothing also was voted by the Senate, 38 to 26, despite the vigorous opposition of Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas.

Again following the recommendation of its committee, the Senate without debate struck from the bill a House amendment to prevent retirement pay from going to any officer earning more than $3,000 a year.

This amendment was inserted by the House to prevent such men as Gen. James G. Harbord and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd from obtaining retirement pay and drawing large salaries from private concerns at the same time.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, attacked the size of the appropriations for the Army, saying that despite demands for economy, the bill carried about $800,000 more than 1933 appropriations.

He said the bill "virtually exempted" military activities from the economy program, while nonmilitary items had been cut almost 50 per cent.

Dakota Radio Station Must Quit in 20 Days

(Associated Press.)

The Radio Commission yesterday denied an application by Station KGDA, of Mitchell, S. Dak., for permission to move to Aberdeen and ordered it off the air in 20 days.

The commission said "it does not appear that the service rendered by Station KGDA in Mitchell has been particularly desirable from a listener's standpoint and it is clear that the station's operation has been wholly unsuccessful from a financial standpoint."

Medalie Attacked By House Member

New York Prosecutor Is Scored by Dickstein for Vote Probe.

(Associated Press.)

George Z. Medalie, United States Attorney in New York City, was charged in the House yesterday by Representative Dickstein (Democrat), New York, with "using that office for his own purpose and feathering his own nest." The Tammany member accompanied his charge with a resolution demanding an investigation of Medalie's official conduct.

"What I say is enough for impeachment," Dickstein told the House. "The matter has gone so far that I think the House ought to know something about the condition of that office.

"The Federal District Attorney of New York is under the belief that the Republican party was reelected at the last election, and from the day after election to the present time he has sent out thousands of subpenas to innocent victims to find out if they saw anything wrong in the polling places."

Medalie was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for United States senator from New York at the November elections, opposing Senator Robert F. Wagner.

Post Tomorrow to Publish Third Girl-Picture Group

All Entrants in Contest Stand Equal Chance of Winning and Victors Will Not Necessarily Be Among Those Whose Photographs Appear.

The pictures of ten charming entrants in The Washington Post's $10,500 queen contest, which will be published in tomorrow's Sunday Post rotogravure section, will represent the third in a series of similar pages on which a total of 100 girls will be pictured and $500 in cash awarded. These pictures are selected because of their qualities of reproduction alone, however, and have no bearing upon the ultimate selection of 51 girls who will go to Chicago as the guests of The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune and participate in the opening ceremonies of the great Century of Progress International Exposition.

This large group will be chosen from among every photograph submitted, and immediately preceding the opening ceremonies at the exposition three girls will be selected from the group to bear the respective titles of queen and first and second ladies-in-waiting. They also will receive cash awards of $5,000, $3,000 and $2,000 in the order of their selection.

All of the girls will share equally in the elaborate program of entertainment that has been arranged for the period of two weeks in which they will reside at Chicago's most luxurious hotels; their transportation will be paid from their homes, in any part of the world, and return, and they will be provided with gorgeous gowns at the expense of The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune. In addition they will receive world-wide recognition for their feminine charm.

No entrance fee or any other cost or obligation is necessary to share in this wonderful opportunity for fame and fortune. Every unmarried girl is invited to enter her photograph in the contest or it may be submitted by any friend or relative. Only professionals such as stage girls and artists' models and employes of The Washington Post and members of their families are barred from competing.

The transmittal coupon appearing elsewhere on this page today, or the same information written upon a separate sheet of paper, should be pasted to the back of the photograph and mailed to the "Queen Contest Editor, The Washington Post." Photographs must be at least 6 by 8 inches in size, however, and made within the past 12 months.

THREE 'CANDIDATES' ATTEST SINCERE AIM

Deny They Filed at Request of Fernandez, Friend of Huey Long.

New Orleans, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A grass cutter, a house painter and a lawyer-health inspector today told the Senate committee investigating Representative John H. Overton's election to the United States Senate that they were candidates for Congress in good faith, and had not filed at the request of Representative F. O. Fernandez as dummies to influence the selection of election commissioners.

Laughter swept the chamber during the testimony of Joe Smith and Charles Suer, who said they entered the race because they thought they would make good members of Congress. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell accused Smith, the grass cutter, of not knowing the difference between "pro" and "anti" and when he asked him if he was "anti-Long" (Senator Huey P. Long), and the witness hesitated, the general said:

"Anti-Long, not an aunt of Long."

Smith admitted he didn't know what territory comprised the First Congressional District, in which he announced for Congress, but held to his serious intentions of running.

Suer testified he was educated in the New Orleans schools, but said he couldn't remember what school he attended. He said he went as far as the third grade, and announced for Congress because he thought he "had a chance of winning."

Bruce Munez, the lawyer and health inspector, said he filed seriously for Congress against Fernandez, and that his papers had been drawn out by his brother, who he said ran "what you might call a gambling house." He said he had paid his own fee and had not been requested to file by any one.

PLANS TO END FARM BOARD ARE STUDIED

Roosevelt's Advisors Weigh Shifts in Agriculture Department.

(Associated Press.)

Close study is being given proposals for abolishing the Federal Farm Board and transferring its activities to the Department of Agriculture by a group of close associates of President-elect Roosevelt who are analyzing governmental agricultural activities.

It was learned yesterday that officials of several national farm organizations have been asked for their attitude toward the board and that Roosevelt aids have also sought the opinions of executives of farm cooperative marketing groups.

Prof. Raymond Moley, of Columbia University, a Roosevelt advisor, has been handling some phases of the investigation, which is aimed to carry out Roosevelt's pledge in his Topeka speech that he would reorganize the Department of Agriculture. Henry Morgenthau, jr., of New York, and Prof. M. L. Wilson, Montana educator, have contributed suggestions.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has advocated centralization of Governmental farm agencies in the interest of simplification and to assure agreement of policy. He suggested creation of assistant agriculture secretaryships, each of which would head a major division including one of loans.

The Farm Board, created during the Hoover administration, has specialized in loans to cooperatives during the last year. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation maintains regional offices making loans to farmers, particularly short-time financing, while the Department of Agriculture has a crop production division which is now in the midst of preparations for lending $90,000,000 to farmers for seed and crop financing.

Indictment of Cannon Reaches Supreme Court

(Associated Press.)

The indictment of Bishop James Cannon, jr., and his secretary, Ada L. Burroughs, charged with violating the corrupt practices law by failing to report contributions of approximately $65,000 which the Government claimed they received during the presidential campaign in 1928 from E. C. Jameson, of New York City, yesterday reached the Supreme Court.

The District of Columbia Supreme Court dismissed the indictment and the Government took the case to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The jurisdiction of that court was challenged by Cannon, who claimed the appeal should have been taken direct to the Supreme Court. The District Court of Appeals asked the highest court to decide whether it has jurisdiction to review the case.

22 KILLED AS PLANE BOMBS MUTINEERS

Native Crew of Dutch Warship Quickly Capitulates as Force Is Used.

Batavia, Java (Saturday), Feb. 11 (A.P.).—Twenty-two men were killed and 25 injured by a 100-pound airplane bomb which put an end Friday to the five-day mutiny of the native crew of the Dutch cruiser De Zeven Provincien.

Eighteen men were reported killed outright and four died aboard the destroyer Piethein, which arrived here today and disembarked the dead and wounded. First reports of the arrival of the Piethein did not disclose whether all the victims were aboard her.

Until the plane dropped the bomb on the Zeven, the mutineers remained defiant despite the fact that they were menaced by a fleet of pursuing war vessels and half a dozen airplanes.

Three Europeans and 15 Javanese natives were killed by the bomb and one Dutch officer and a young Dutch sailor were slightly wounded. The brief engagement, in which the mutineers made no use of the 16 heavy guns with which their vessel was armed, took place at dawn off the southwest Sumatra Coast, about 400 miles northwest of Batavia.

The rebels, who had risen in a demonstration against pay cuts, replied "don't hinder us" when the commander of the pursuit ordered them to surrender unconditionally in ten minutes.

As soon as that period of grace was over, a warning bomb was dropped alongside the cruiser. Still the mutineers failed to display a white cloth on the deck awning—the signal of capitulation stipulated by the pursuers. Immediately one of the planes in the attack fleet dropped a bomb on the deck.

Fire started aboard the cruiser and some of the natives went over the side into lifeboats. Others signaled surrender.

The fire did little damage and soon the master of the cruiser, who had been left ashore when the mutineers took her over, went aboard his command. The warship had orders to come to Batavia.

Mrs. Dall to Succeed Mother as Broadcaster

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, daughter of the President-elect, has signed an agreement making herself available as a speaker on commercial radio programs, but stipulating that she shall be the judge as to the suitability of the program.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been appearing on a commercial program and giving the proceeds to charity, said recently that she would accept no more contracts of any nature after her husband is inaugurated.

Carlos de la Rosa Dies; Ance An Aid to Machado

Cardenas, Cuba, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Carlos de la Rosa, vice president of Cuba from 1925 to 1929, during President Gerardo Machado's first term, died early today. He was suffering from diabetes.

When the constitutional reform measures abolished the vice presidency at the end of his term, De la Rosa was made a senator for a ten-year term. He was a Liberal, from Matanzas Province.

Mrs. Borah Meets Doctor Whose Aid Saved Her Life

MRS. WILLIAM E. BORAH meets Dr. Charles Armstrong, Public Health Service, who gave his blood to cure her of psittacosis, from which she almost died last summer.

Visits Public Health Service, Where Armstrong Gave His Blood.

The disease fighters who snatched Mrs. William E. Borah from the jaws of death last summer were visited yesterday by the wife of the Senator from Idaho. Federal scientists explained to her the work which they have done in conquering the hordes of germs that harass mankind.

While at the Public Health Service laboratory Mrs. Borah met Dr. Charles Armstrong, psittacosis researcher, who gave his blood to make a serum to save the life of Mrs. Borah. Dr. Armstrong had contracted the fever while seeking a cure for the disease with which Mrs. Borah was later stricken.

"I came to thank you for saving my life," Mrs. Borah told Dr. Armstrong in the presence of Surgeon Gen. Hugh S. Cumming.

Then she added banteringly:

"I have some of your blood coursing in my veins. Now, what relation are we?"

During her convalescence, she said, she had been reading the tales of the fight against death being waged continually by scientists in the Public Health Service laboratory. Her guides then took her through the rooms filled with cultures and cages, where death lurks always for the unwary.

SENATE COMMITTEE DEFEATS NEW PLAN TO CUT DRY FUNDS

both the Republican and the Democratic parties in the last campaign, which the wets say was a mandate to wipe prohibition out of the Constitution and the drys say was merely a Democratic landslide due to economic conditions, with the wet question playing a relatively unimportant part.

Long Battle Likely.

Undoubtedly there will ensue a long and wordy battle when the resolution comes up for consideration, which it will as soon as the Senate disposes of the War Department appropriation bill now before it. Considerable progress was made on that bill yesterday and, judging by the speed with which other appropriation measures have been handled in the last few days, it probably will be passed today and the way cleared for the repeal battle.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, who still is very dry and doesn't care who in the world knows about it, has served notice that there will be plenty of discussion of prohibition before a vote is had on repeal. Other drys feel the same way about it.

Whether the wets win or not the significance in the line-up at present is to be found in the fact that even in the present-dry Congress there are signs of wavering and the antiprohibition cause has gained considerable ground. Senator Simeon E. Fess (Republican), of Ohio, for example, has been regarded for years as one of the dry apostles, but he has said he is willing to vote for resubmission. The election of Senator Robert E. Bulkley, Democrat, an antiprohibitionist from the Buckeye State, probably softened Senator Fess' determination to carry on with the uncompromising drys.

Good Chance Seen.

Senator Charles L. McNary (Republican), of Oregon, who is destined to be Republican leader in the Senate of the next Congress, has expressed the belief that the repeal resolution has a good chance of approval at this session.

Wet leaders are hopeful and somewhat pleased at their chances, but they are not optimistic. Whether the resolution is adopted will depend on how it is amended and the effect of amendments on the votes of the various senators who stand somewhere between the Borah drys and the Bingham wets.

Democratic senators are planning to make a showing on whether the question of repeal shall be voted on by State Legislatures or by State conventions called specifically for that purpose. Another major battle will be over the provisions continuing Federal police power in the Constitution. Both of these provisions are opposed by the antiprohibitionists.

Almost anything which would be sufficiently acceptable to a majority of the Senate at this time would almost certainly be objectionable to the House. Speaker John N. Garner, Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, and others of the so-called wet block on both the Republican and Democratic sides in the House have declared against such a measure as the Senate resolution.

The fight over prohibition enforcement funds will be renewed when the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor appropriation bill is taken up on the floor. When that will be is indefinite, but leaders have agreed that after the Blaine repeal resolution has had a run for its oratory it will be laid aside to make way for other appropriation measures.

As reported by the Appropriations committee yesterday, the four-department bill carried a total of $102,610,756, which was an increase of $8,697 over the total as the bill passed the House. The total is divided $41,154,000 for the Justice, $36,602,000 for the Commerce, $12,647,000 for the Labor, and $12,208,000 for the State Department.

COX IS DUE FOR POST IN FOREIGN SERVICE

Roosevelt to Ask His 1920 Running Mate to Take Ambassadorship.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 10 (U.P.).—James M. Cox, 1920 Democratic Presidential nominee, will be offered an important diplomatic post by the new administration, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

Cox, who climbed aboard the bandwagon of President-elect Roosevelt early in the campaign, will be asked to accept one of the "big three" places, Great Britain, France or Germany, it was declared.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, and the right-hand man of Mr. Roosevelt so far as patronage distribution is concerned, talked for more than an hour today with Cox at his summer home here.

While he dismissed the incident as merely "a friendly chat," friends of both were convinced that the suggestion Cox take a post abroad was broached.

Cox is a close friend of the President-elect, the latter having been his running mate on the national ticket 12 years ago. He took an active part in the 1932 fight and was credited with having helped immeasurably toward swinging Ohio into the Democratic column.

It was learned that he did not commit himself on any propositions put forward by the spokesman for Mr. Roosevelt. It is believed, however, that he will consent to serve in an ambassadorial position.

Meanwhile Farley continued his task of preparing the list of prospective appointments to other important Federal positions which he will present Mr. Roosevelt when he returns next week from his cruise through Tropic seas in the vicinity of the Bahamas.

Mr. Roosevelt himself, in the seclusion of his cabin aboard the Nourmahal, Vincent Astor's private yacht, is drawing up a roster of his own from which he will pick the new chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and members of the board of the Federal Radio and Trade Commissions and the Home Loan Bank.

Final Hearing Set In Massie Attack

Four Defendants to Face Honolulu Court on Monday.

Honolulu, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Final disposition of the case of four men charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, wife of a Naval lieutenant, was set today for next Monday by Judge Charles S. Davis of the Circuit Court.

The assault took place on the outskirts of Honolulu, September 12, 1931. Five men orginally were tried for the offense, the jury disagreeing as to their guilt.

Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian, one of them, was killed January 8, 1932. Lieut Massie, who said he shot him, was convicted with Mrs. Massie's mother, Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue, and two Navy enlisted men. They were sentenced to ten years, but the sentence was commuted to one hour by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd. The four remaining defendants are Henry Chang, Chinese; Ben Ahakuello, Hawaiian, and David Takai and Horace Ida, Japanese.

Mrs. Belmont's Body Reaches U. S.

W. K. and H. S. Vanderbilt Board Funeral Liner at Quarantine.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Aboard the liner Berengaria, the body of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont was returned today to the city she ruled for years as social dictator.

Mrs. Belmont's two sons, William K. and Harold S. Vanderbilt, boarded the liner at quarantine to join their sister, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, later the Duchess of Marlborough, who, with her second husband, Col. Jacques Balsan, accompanied the body to America.

At the pier, the party was greeted by an escort from the National Woman's Party, at whose head, years ago, Mrs. Belmont joined in the fight for woman suffrage.

230-Pound Youth Kills Father in Family Row

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Harold Atkins, 17, shot and killed his 50-year-old father today during an argument between his parents. The boy fled to the home of a friend where police arrested him.

The son, who weighs 230 pounds, told police that his father, Jacob Atkins, had frequently abused and beaten his mother during family quarrels.

Two Shot in Fight On Vacating Office

Building Manager and Aid Are Wounded by Attorney.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Noah Roark, 46-year-old Dallas attorney, was charged with assault to murder late today in the shooting of Justin Stein, 65, manager of the Fidelity Building, and Stein's secretary, A. B. Strauck, 25.

Both Stein and Strauch were wounded seriously.

Roark, prominent in legal circles here, surrendered to police immediately after the shooting in Stein's private office. He refused to make a statement, referring inquiries to his attorney, William McGraw, but witnesses told officers he and Stein had been at odds over a request that he vacate his quarters.

Providence, Ky., Drops Tax Payment for Year

Providence, Ky., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—No city taxes will be paid this year by the more than 5,000 residents of this community.

City council last night voted to suspend the taxes this year and operate the city government with earnings from the municipal light and water plants. Last year the city operated on a tax rate of 75 cents.

issued warrants that took the prisoners out of local custody.

While awaiting the arrival of Keith, Stapleton, accompanied by local officers and carrying search warrants, visited the homes of the Harveys and the Bryants, searching for more evidence.

He was particularly eager for more handwriting examples, and if possible some fingerprints.

He said he obtained handwriting sameples at the Harvey house—a whitewashed shanty through which a cold, snow-filled wind was blowing.

At the home of Bryant's parents, where the youth lives, the officers said they found little of interest in their search of the youth's room. The houses are not far from the stump where police who represented themselves as representatives of Lindbergh deposited the $17,000 compromise check which yesterday led to the arrests.

Stapleton tonight said that at least one other arrest was possible, and that several persons probably would be called for examination.

Stolen Nearly Year Ago.

Announcement from Washington at noon that the Federal Government would take charge of the case and conduct the investigation recalled President Hoover's word that the investigation into the kidnaping and slaying of the first Lindbergh child would never be relaxed. It was less than a year ago that Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., was stolen from the Lindbergh home in the isolated sourlands of New Jersey.

Chief of Police Detectives Robert C. Johnson, who is conducting the handwriting study, joined with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of New Jersey police, in an expressed opinion that the Roanoke prisoners had nothing whatever to do with the first kidnaping. Johnson and Special Officer Howard Ferguson arrested the trio here yesterday when they walked into a trap set for the writers of extortion notes.

Waterway Project Is Favorably Voted

Senate Subcommittee Will Report St. Lawrence Pact With Canada.

(Associated Press.)

A favorable report on the treaty with Canada for construction of the gigantic St. Lawrence waterway and power project was voted yesterday by a Senate foreign relations subcommittee.

The treaty, signed with Canada last summer after years of negotiation, was approved, 5 to 2, after Federal and New York State engineers recommended that New York's share of the cost should be fixed at $89,000,000.

The subcommittee added a reservation understood to be acceptable to Canada, to prevent the Aluminum Co. of America, a Mellon company, from obtaining a permanent right to diversion of water at Massena.

INSANITY TO BE PLEA IN INEZ CULT DEATH

Hearing in Son's Slaying of Mother Opens Today; Murder Charged.

Inez, Ky., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Counsel for John Mills, 32, mountain cult leader held in the "sacrifice" slaying of his aged mother, prepared a temporary insanity plea tonight.

The plea will be entered tomorrow at a preliminary hearing for John and seven cult followers, arrested after weird ceremonies culminated in the death of Mrs. Lucinda Mills, 72.

County Attorney Jasper Preece, meanwhile made ready to request County Judge T. J. Hardin to bind John over for grand jury action on charges of murder in the first degree.

Defense counsel, Sam Maynard, of Inez, said he will attempt to show that when Mrs. Mills was choked to death in a mountainside cabin John and his followers were in a frenzy engendered by days of fasting and bizarre chanting, praying and shouting.

Maynard said he will argue that John's mind was temporarily unbalanced. He led rites that cult members said might have brought burning of the body on an improvised cross, or altar, if the officers had not been notified.

Arguments of counsel will be advanced in a room large enough for only about 20 persons, although Inez was filled tonight with men, women and children from nearby communities. Many came from Tomahawk, the little settlement where the fan determined to attend the court session.

$37,500 Damage Suit Lost by J. P. Morgan

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Damages of $37,500 were assessed against J. P. Morgan, the financier, by a jury in Supreme Court today for injuries resulting to Howard A. Baugh, a salesman, who was struck a year ago by a Morgan automobile.

The banker was not in the automobile at the time of the accident. The chauffeur, Henry I. Shaw, was charged in the suit with driving in a careless and negligent manner. Baugh, who said injuries to a leg forced him to wear a brace the rest of his life, sued for $75,000 damages.

Prince of Asturias Seeks Cuban Bride

Would Be First Member of Family to Marry Outside Royalty.

Paris, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The Prince of the Asturias, 25-year-old son of former King Alfonso of Spain, wants to marry a daughter of the De Pedro family of Cuba, reports from monarchist circles in Madrid said today, and is willing to renounce his right to the Spanish throne if necessary.

The De Pedro family is well known in this country, but no member of Spanish royal family ever has married outside royal blood. All his life the young prince has suffered from hemophilia, weakness of which bleed at the slightest scratch, but his health has been improving, and the doctors have told him he should recover.

He is now in Switzerland, where the young woman is living with her family.

Darrow Blames Society in Slaying

Famous Lawyer Pleads for Life of Youth in Murder.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, drew upon the full power of his oratory tonight to plead for the life of 18-year-old Russell McWilliams, who is charged with murder.

A youth without a chance, Mr. Darrow described the defendant and blamed society for his crime, the slaying of William Sayles, a street car motorman, during a robbery in 1931.

"When the books are balanced between society and this boy," Mr. Darrow said to Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff, "you will find that society owes him."

Italy Denies Pact With Hitler Rule

Foreign Office Disavows Secret Alliance With Hungary and Reich.

Rome, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Italy has no alliance with Chancellor Adolf Hitler's government in Germany, a foreign office spokesman declared tonight.

The spokesman said an interpretation widely circulated in Europe—that the rise of the Nazis to power accompanied a secret understanding among Italy, Hungary and Germany—was unfounded.

Black-Shirt Italy, he asserted, naturally was happy at the success of the Hitlerites, viewing it as significant of the spread of Fascism. The friendship between Italy and Hungary is strong, the spokesman continued, but there exists nothing more than friendship.

DR. WALSH TRACES EARLY RADICALISM

Georgetown Lecturer Says Soviet Ideas Date Back to Days of Plato.

Communistic ideas and practices of more than 2,000 years ago are merely being repeated today in the much-discussed social, political and economic policies of Soviet Russia, Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University and regent of its school of foreign service, pointed out last night in the first of a series of public lectures on "The Evolution of Communism."

Approximately 2,000 persons, including many prominent Government officials and diplomats, have enrolled for this series of ten lectures, which are being given in Gaston Hall each week as a public academic course of the university. This number, owing to the pressure that is being brought to bear in and out of Congress for American recognition of the Soviet, has broken all records.

Dr. Walsh examined communism as practiced in Crete, in Sparta, in Southern Italy under Pythagoras, and as scientifically developed in the ideal "Republic" of Plato, and traced the application of these ideas to existing conditions in Russia.

Declaring there are "many striking similarities between the Moscow dictatorship and that which prevailed in Sparta under the laws of Lycurgus, Dr. Walsh compared the Spartan sport of hunting down slaves turned loose in forests, to the present policy of extermination in Russia.

"American correspondents in Soviet Russia today," he said, "are reporting a similar extermination of the bourgeoise and kulaks by Communist shock troops, in order to decrease the population in the face of an impending famine."

The Georgetown educator pointed out there is a warning perhaps to the present Soviet government in the fate of one of the classical Communists, Pythagoras, who was killed when neighbors burned down the Communistic colonies he had founded.

"The Communists proposed equality; the people wanted liberty—and got it," he said.

In his second lecture next Friday evening, Dr. Walsh will develop his theme by tracing the early Christian and medieval communism, leaving to the last the problems dealing with recognition of the Soviet State.

White Is Indorsed As Envoy to Cuba

Maryland's Delegation in Congress Urges His Appointment.

(Associated Press.)

All six members of the Maryland House delegation yesterday joined Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, and Maryland Democratic leaders in indorsing Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State, for appointment as ambassador to Cuba. White, a career man in the diplomatic service, is a native of Baltimore and a member of a prominent Baltimore family. Representative Cole (Democrat), of Towson, in whose district the White family resides, said:

"I don't believe there is any one better qualified than Mr. White to fill the post at Havana. He has had long experience in the diplomatic service and with Latin American affairs."

White conferred with members of the Maryland delegation on the appointment some time ago, it was learned.

Faith in U. S. Seen Aided by Adversity

McCormack, House Member, Speaks at Advertising Club Meeting.

Adversity, instead of dimming, has produced a stronger feeling of faith in our form of government, Representative John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, said yesterday at a meeting of the Advertising Club of Washington at the Raleigh Hotel while speaking on the economic conditions of the country.

"If the few in high office whom I have heard talk of possible revolution would make an effort to contact with the average American citizen, they would be amazed at the love of the country they would find existing," Representative McCormack said.

The luncheon meeting was given in honor of James E. Colliflower, newly elected president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Tobacco Growers Get Mildew Data

U. S. Advises Planting of More Seeds in War on Disease.

(Associated Press.)

Tobacco growers, the land over, were advised yesterday by the Agriculture Department to plant more seeds in the war on downy mildew.

The disease, first noticed in the United States in 1921, did not appear again until 1931, but last year did widespread damage, especially in the Carolinas and Georgia.

By planting a large number of seed beds at separated places and different times, the department said, growers would stand a better chance of obtaining unblotched plants for transplanting to the fields. After transplanting, the department said, there is little danger from the disease.

Dr. Cooper to Be Feted At Mayflower Tonight

Dr. William John Cooper, Commissioner of Education, will be given a testimonial banquet at 6:30 tonight, at the Mayflower Hotel, to celebrate the fourth anniversary of his appointment to his present position.

NEXT Wednesday promises to be a swell birthday party for myriads of herring in Commerce Aquarium. A few of the 750,000 lake variety were hatched yesterday just to remind Fred G. Orsinger, director, that there'll be many more soon.

When born, the wigglers continue to carry their sack containing food for four days. The yolk then falls away and attendants begin feeding their charges.

The newcomers arrived here from Cape Vincent Station, N. Y., while their parents are still hemmed in by ice in Lake Ontario.

Yesterday we met William Tyler Page, special clerk to the minority in the House, resplendent in his striped gray frock coat. Always with information at his fingers' tips, we find he also has a ready story with a hearty laugh.

After all isn't a laugh what we need? We're all in danger of losing our sense of humor. A man who's been at the Capitol with Mr. Page's seniority needs a sense of humor. Your doctor will tell you your sense of humor will keep up morale.

A smile in the White House is our prospect, with F. D. soon to move in with the family kitchen stove and favorite card table, the latter on which to hand out that "New Deal."

Mr. Farwell's service is 27 years, not 33, and mine is only 21 years, not 40. As you credit Miss Carmody, our librarian, with 32 years' service and she hardly looks 32 today, perhaps she went on the roll the day she was born."

"We were driven home the other day by a lady taxi driver," says a correspondent. "Aside from a certain nonchalance about cutting in ahead of other cars, she seemed a very capable driver. When asked if she were the sole member of her sex to ply the trade of cab driver in the city, she replied that there were three others, and that one of them had had her picture in the paper twice with a writeup and everything. Her aggrieved tone implied that it just wasn't fair; some people had all the luck. She did not offer to return our nickel in change."

Dear Diary:

Don't you think it would be a good stunt to publish the salaries of husbands and wives employed both by the Government?

It would be more interesting than publishing how long this old man or that old woman has worked.

——— gets $10,000 and his wife gets between $4,000 and $5,000 in Labor. Not a chick or a child either and he and she do all their own work, sooner than let someone make a dollar. There are a lot of well-paid couples, sometimes in the same building.

Get after these couples.

Of the 4,500, under the rule the married class would be first.

RULING IS DUE TODAY IN PAY SCALE FIGHT

34 More Carpenters Join in Strike; Doak May Make Final Decision.

A ruling from the Treasury Department in the carpenter-subcontractor wage dispute on the Mall is expected today, with every expectation that Secretary of Labor Doak will be asked finally to decide on the controversy.

Neither side in the wage controversy affecting carpenters at the Library of Congress extension project had appealed to David Lynn, architect of the Capitol and Federal contracting officer on this project, to make a decision. However, this step was expected today.

Thirty-four more carpenters—working on the Agriculture extensible building—yesterday joined the approximately 300 now idle pending settlement of the battle.

Inasmuch as all of the projects are on the five-day labor week, no work of any type is being done or would be done today. However, while operations are marking time, both sides will be busy substantiating their respective contentions.

The carpenters have been handed a $3 a day cut by the contractors. The former hold $11 as the prevailing wage to be paid under the Bacon-Davis law, while the latter claim $8 is the scale.

About 30 plumbers and steamfitters yesterday failed to receive week's wages for work on the Postoffice Building. Although they made formal protest, the explanation that the money had been delayed in transmission by mail from New York was generally accepted.

On all the projects affected by the carpenters' wage differences, pickets were stationed to see if attempts were made by contractors to use non-union labor. No disorder, of even the mildest character, occurred during the day. All contractors involved are understood to maintain strict general policies of using union labor only.

Pope's 11th Anniversary To Be Observed at C. U.

they tried to hold up the branch bank.

The suspect, according to Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke, has served time for various offenses in Philadelphia and vicinity. He also was known among the underworld in Camden, N. J.

The attempt to hold up the bank occurred near closing time on Friday, October 21. William T. Matthews, 22, a teller in the bank, replied to their command to "stick them up," by pushing a pedal near his foot which sent clouds of tear gas streaming from jets in the bank.

Matthews and other employes of the bank dropped to the floor when the tear gas flooded the place. One of the bandits fired a shot at Matthews, but missed his mark. After fleeing from the bank, the men entered a car and a pursuit was made by a taxicab driver and other autoists. The bandit car was abandoned after pursuers had been eluded. The car was found at Sixteenth and Irving streets northwest a few hours after the attempted robbery.

Symnes, jr., '98, president-designate of the alumni federation, who will be introduced by John K. Fitch, '02, the retiring president.

The program will be broadcast locally over radio station WRC from 2 p. m. till 3 p. m.

R. F. C. BELIEVED NEAR INTEREST RATES CUT

in favor of a $93,000,000 self-liquidating loan for tunnels, bridges and park developments in New York State, warned the directors that it was out of step with the downward tendency in interest rates.

Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), New York, said afterward that if the board did not scale down its interest rates, Congress would order it done.

The R. F. C. gets its money from the Federal Treasury. It pays 3½ per cent interest. The margin between that and the 5 and 6 per cent which is being charged seems more than ample to critics of the corporation. In its first year the corporation borrowed from the Treasury $1,500,000,000. This is equal to 75 per cent of the total income of the Government for the same period. In other words, of every dollar in taxes paid by the average citizen, 75 cents was turned over to the R. F. C., and lent out to banks, railroads, bridge builders and others.

False Pretense Charge Dropped.

A charge of obtaining $75 on false pretenses was dropped against John R. Sasser yesterday in Police Court by Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keegh. Sasser had been arrested on the complaint of Lonnie Bray that he had given him money to stage a parade prior to the debate here between Dr. Clarence True Wilson and Clarence Darrow.

Woman Dies Talking Over Mate's Funeral

Mrs. Daisy Y. Sharp, 57, fell dead last night as she was discussing her late husband's funeral over the telephone with an employe at the W. W. Chambers undertaking establishment. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of death from natural cause.

Surviving Mrs. Sharp, who lived at 655 K street northeast, are two daughters, Dorothy and Evelyn, and a son, William B. Sharp, jr. Mrs. Sharp's husband died recently and it was in regard to matters incident to his funeral that she was engaged in the conversation.

No funeral arrangements had been made last night. The body was taken to the Chambers establishment.

PAY DISPUTE AT NEW SCHOOL SEEN ENDING

Firm Will Return All Cash Withheld From Workers for Investment.

Settlement of the wage controversy involving the contractor building the Kenilworth school loomed yesterday after counsel for the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co., of Washington, offered to return in cash investments of all workmen whose wages had been withheld in part for promotion of an Anacostia subdivision.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, who conducted a public hearing Thursday to determine whether the contracting company had been violating the Bacon-Davis prevailing-wage act, forthwith addressed a letter to each present or former employe who has invested in the venture and asked them whether they wanted the money returned or left in the realty fund. He will wait until 10 o'clock Tuesday for replies before making a recommendation to the Commissioners.

The contracting company also is understood to have promised to pay all employes the full prevailing wage scale during completion of the Kenilworth School and to make all payments in cash instead of partly in checks as heretofore.

If the present employes stick by their testimony at the hearings, however, they will make no claims on the contractor. The ten bricklayers, whose complaints started the inquiry, will doubtless insist upon payment in full of all wages withheld. They were paid but 70 cents an hour in cash, the remainder of $1.75 an hour, except for ten cents, being paid them in checks which were marked for deposit to credit of the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co.

All the mechanics have paid about $6,100 into the realty fund, but the share of the bricklayers will run less than $1,000.

Work on the Kenilworth School will be resumed as soon as the wage adjustments are made, it is expected, and there probably will be no further penalties imposed upon the contractor.

Accused Wife Is Freed In Murder of Husband

Greenville, Mo., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A Circuit Court jury last night acquitted Mrs. Edna Williamson, formerly of Huntington, W. Va., of the murder of her husband, Earl D. Williamson, retired naval petty officer, who was shot and fatally wounded September 10 last at their little Ozark home near here. The jury deliberated only three hours.

Mrs. Williamson declared her innocence of the slaying. Norman Gish Piedmont undertaker, and Billy Delcour, his assistant, testified as State's witnesses that Williamson, before he died, told them Mrs. Williamson shot him.

Rum Forfeit

Drunks Among Those Put on List Who May Now Give Up Collateral.

A person charged with drunkenness may now elect to forfeit the customary collateral of $10 providing he is sober enough to understand just what that means.

Upon recommendation of the Police Department, the District Commissioners yesterday added seven offenses to the "elect to forfeit" list. Corporation Counsel William W. Bride approved the list with the reservation that police see to it that "drunks" fully understand their rights under the system before being released on collateral.

Other offenses added are minor disorderly charges, selling in congested area, unlicensed vender, unmuzzled dog, dropping gravel and crying wares. The purpose of the extension is to save policemen from wasting time in court when their charges do not appear.

POLICE SAY COUPLE CONFESS KIDNAPING

Doubt Pair Had Accomplices in Abduction of Woman, 65, in California.

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Whether two men accomplices were imaginary or real was one of the unsolved angles today in the kidnaping of Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, to which police said Miss Luella Pearl Hammer, 28, and W. P. Howard, 41, have confessed.

Howard, a former convict, shouldered the whole blame as instigator, but said two men, whose identity he would not reveal, guarded the 65-year-old victim during her 24-hour imprisonment in a Pasadena home.

Miss Hammer, former music student of Prof. Walter P. Skeele, dean of music at the University of Southern California and husband of Mrs. Skeele, said she and Howard managed the whole affair, and there were no accomplices.

Mrs. Skeele told police that though blindfolded she judged by the conversations that three men and one woman were involved.

Police expressed the belief Miss Hammer and Howard simulated conversations to terrify their victim with the thought there were four kidnapers.

The county grand jury today indicted Miss Hammer and Howard on charges of kidnaping. District Attorney Buron Fitts announced bail would be fixed at $100,000.

The confessions of the couple made public by the police agree the motive in seeking $10,000 ransom was to lift mortgages on the two houses owned by Miss Hammer so that she and Howard might wed.

Cash Savings Hard to Beat

Especially a Saving of Half On Daily Necessity—But Here It Is, At Last.

To millions of people, a mouth-wash, gargle, or antiseptic lotion is a daily necessity—for halitosis (bad breath), oral hygiene, and other usual uses. The new Vicks Vorastone Antiseptic—by the makers of Vicks VapoRub—brings to these millions savings of more than half on their antiseptic costs.

Born in a depression year, Vicks Antiseptic is priced accordingly. The regular size, large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—is only 35c.

Local druggists now have a special trial size—supplied them by the makers at below cost—to furnish actual proof of the quality and economy of Vicks Antiseptic. Each bottle contains 2½ ounces—a 25c value—but is priced at only 10c, while the supply lasts.—Adv.

MAJ. GEN. COLLINS TO BE BURIED TODAY

Veteran of Three Wars Will Be Given Full Honors at Arlington Cemetery.

Funeral services for Maj. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, assistant chief of staff of the Army, who died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital, will be held at 11:15 a. m. today in the Fort Myer Chapel followed immediately by burial in Arlington National Cemetery. Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of chaplains, will officiate. Full military honors will be rendered from the Fort Myer gate

Many prominent Army and civilian officials are expected to attend the services for the distinguished soldier who saw service at San Juan Hill and at Santiago in the Spanish-American War, in the Philippines and throughout the World War.

The honorary pallbearers include the chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, Maj. Gen. Robert E. Callan, Maj. Gen. John W. Gulick, Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses, Col. Duncan K. Major, Col. Edgar A. Myer, Col. Resolve P. Palmer.

Gen. Collins was born March 7, 1873, at Williamsport, Pa. He was appointed to West Point in 1893 and was graduated in 1897. Serving throughout the Spanish-American War he returned to this country in 1899 only to be immediately ordered to duty in the Philippines. He served at various other Army posts in this country on his return. He was a graduate of the Army School of the Line at Fort Leavenworth, the Army Staff College, the Army War College and the Infantry and Field Artillery Schools.

In 1917, Gen. Collins was ordered to Plattsburg Barracks as senior instructor at the first officers training camp of the World War. Later that year he went to France as a military observer on the French and British fronts. He returned to the United States for instructional work, but within a few months went abroad again and became chief of staff of the Sixth Army Corps.

He commanded troops in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives and served in a number of defensive sectors. War Department records show that "he demonstrated rare military attainments, performing his difficult task with unremitting zeal." He was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal and the French Legion of Honor.

Gen. Collins came here in command of the Sixteenth Infantry Brigade in November, 1930. On February 1, 1932, he was assigned as assistant chief of staff in charge of operations and training, and one June 1 last year he was promoted to major general.

Gen. Collins' wife died here last year. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Allison J. Barnett, wife of Capt. Allison J. Barnett, of Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and Mrs. William Arrington, of Miami, Fla., and two brothers, Herman Collins, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Emerson Collins, of Williamsport, Pa.

Members of the National Woman's Party, including official delegations from several States and the District of Columbia, left Washington early today for New York, where they will attend the funeral services of Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, who at the time of her death in Paris, January 26, was president of the party.

Among Capital members of the organization who will attend the funeral tomorrow are Mrs. Rebekah Greathouse, Mrs. Edwin Lublin, Burnita Shelton Matthews, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Mrs. Abbie Scott Baker, Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, Mrs. Ernest H. Danell, Mrs. Nina E. Allender, Miss Mabel Van Dyke and Mrs. Paul N. Linebarger.

Money Is Sought For Burial of Baby

Body Stays at Morgue Till Unmarried Mother Can Raise Funds.

District Morgue officials will keep the body of Edward Hudgins, 2-month-old baby who died from accidental suffocation, until Wednesday so that his unmarried mother, Alice Hudgins, 16, will have a chance to seek money to pay for his burial.

The child died of suffocation while sleeping in a bed with Mrs. Elizabeth Zollinhofer, of 2612 Thirty-third street southeast. Mrs. Zollinhofer boarded the child, who was supported by Edward Grinder, adjudged his father by the Juvenile Court.

District health officials yesterday warned Mrs. Zollinhofer that action would be started against her unless she obtains a permit for operating a boarding house for children. She was given three days to make application. A certificate of accidental death was issued. Mrs. Zollinhofer said she took the baby into her bed because of the intense cold Wednesday night.

ARTHUR L. BRYANT RITES TO BE TODAY

Prominent Patent Attorney Will Be Buried This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Arthur L. Bryant, 63, well-known patent attorney of Washington, who died Wednesday at his home, 1819 Q street northwest, will be held today at 2 p. m. at the home. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Bryant, a native of Washington, was active in the practice of his profession until a few months ago when he was stricken with the illness which caused his death.

He was graduated from a Washington public high school. After his graduation he entered the patent law firm of Edson & Edson, later joining the firm of Foster, Freeman & Watson. At the time of his death he was a member of the patent law firm of Cushman, Bryant, Darby and Cushman.

Mr. Bryant studied law at Columbia University and received the following degrees, L. L. B. in 1890 and L. L. M. in 1891. He was later admitted to the Bar of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Bryant was a past master of Benjamin B. French Lodge No. 15, F. A. A. M.; past high priest of Mount Vernon Chapter No. 3, R. A. M., which he served as treasurer for 16 years; a frater of Washington Commandery No. 1, K. T., and a noble of Almas Temple A. A. O. N. M. S.

Mr. Bryant was a member of the Columbia Country Club, the Patent Law Association, the Bar Association of the District of Columbia and Marshall Chapter, Phi Delta Phi Fraternity. He was a member of the Laymen's League of the Unitarian Church.

He is survived by his widow, Lizzie Habel Bryant; a brother, Herbert S. Bryant, and a sister, Mrs. William J. Eynon, of this city.

$16,000 Bequeathed To Georgetown U.

Mrs. Minnie Q. Barton's Will Is Filed for Probate.

A $16,000 fund, to be known as the "Barton Fellowship," has been left to Georgetown University Medical School by the will of Mrs. Minnie Quinn Barton, which was filed for probate in the District Supreme Court yesterday.

The will also directs that after some other bequests the remainder of the estate is to be turned over to the District Medical Society to help young physicians in their first year of active practice.

Mrs. Barton was the wife of Dr. Wilfred M. Barton. Besides the medical bequests, she gave $20,000 to John Lewis Quinn, a nephew; $5,000 to Maud Lewis Quinn, a sister-in-law; $5,000 to Harriet Barton, a niece; $1,000 to Lisle S. Lipscomb; $15,000 to be held in trust for the use of Julia Lewis, a niece, and $1,000 and the medical instruments of her husband to Dr. William P. Argy and associate. Attorney John E. Laskey and Mr. Quinn were named executors. The estimate of the amount of the estate was not given.

BAYARD WILL SHOWS ESTATE OF $425,000

Petition for Probate Filed; Philanthropic Bequests Are Provided.

An estate amounting to $425,000, all in cash, stocks and bonds, was left by Mary W. C. Bayard, who died January 8, it was disclosed in District Supreme Court yesterday when George Clymer and George W. White, executors, filed a petition for probate of her will.

Mr. Clymer and his wife, Susan, are to receive $150,000 and Shubrick, Russell, and Sue Bemis, children of Mrs. Susan Clymer Bemis, are to receive $50,000 to be divided between them. Two others, Pinckney and Elizabeth DuGue Trapier, are to divide $10,000.

The Rev. Roland Cotton Smith is bequeathed $10,000, as is George W. White. Elizabeth Emory, Benjamin Matthews, W. S. Shubrick Clymer and Lucy Duffin are given $2,000 each. The grandchild of George Clymer is to have $5,000. A number of philanthropic bequests are provided.

The endowment fund of the St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church is given $20,000, the endowment fund for the Washington Home for Incurables is given $10,000, as is also the endowment fund of the St. John's Church Orphanage. Endowment funds of each of the following are given $5,000 each: Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation, Seamen's Church Institute (New York City), St. Paul's (colored) School, at Lawrenceville, Va.; Tuskegee Institute, Humane Society of the District, the Humane Society of Albany, N. Y.; the Washington Animal Rescue League, and the Naples (Italy) S. P. C. A.

A $25,000 trust fund is to be established for Edith Trapier, and the remainder of the estate is divided into thirds. One third goes to Susan Clymer, a third goes to the three children of George Clymer, and the remaining third goes to the grandchildren of George Clymer.

Milton McWilliams, Hotel Man, Expires

Funeral of Chastleton Official Will Be Held at St. Aloysius' Monday.

Milton B. McWilliams, 47, well-known Washington hotel man, died Thursday at his home, 4300 Thirteenth place northeast, following a long illness.

Mr. McWilliams entered the hotel business as a boy in Washington and at the time of his death was an official of the Chastleton Apartments. He had held positions at the Wardman Park and the Shoreham Hotels.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Catherine McWilliams, and four sisters, Mrs. Mamie Walters, of Fort Mead, Fla.; Mrs. O. J. Butler, Mrs. Louise Harmon and Miss Alice McWilliams, all of Washington.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a. m. at the home. Requiem mass will be held at St. Aloysius Church at 10 a. m. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Roosevelt Asked to Call World Press Conference

Atlanta, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An international press conference for the furthering of world understanding was advocated tonight by Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the Columbia University School of Journalism.

He suggested that President-elect Roosevelt summon it in Washington in the early days of his administration. Dean Ackerman spoke before the Institute of Citizenship and the Georgia Press Institute at Emory University.

Surgeons Take Fork From Throat of Girl

St. Paul, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An 8½-inch table fork swallowed today by Miss Margaret Santell, 19, was removed four hours later through a surgical operation.

An instrument which would have removed the fork through the throat could not be used because the tines pointed diagonally toward the heart physicians said. They asserted her condition was good.

Report Says Cuban Exiles Plan Revolt

150 Encamped Near Miami Said to Be Ready to Invade Island.

Havana, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A report that 150 Cuban political exiles encamped at Miami would break camp tonight or tomorrow and board an expeditionary vessel whose ultimate destination would be the Cuban coast, was received here today.

The report said the boat obtained by the rebels, described as an unobtrusive tramp steamer, left Baltimore several days ago en route for Florida. Arms and ammunition are aboard, according to the report.

At the same time, reports of unrest in the interior of Cuba, taken to be indications that preparations for a second revolt against President Machado's government are under way, seeped through the strict censorship maintained over communications systems within the island.

VIOLATING BASIC LAW.

The conference committee in charge of the Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill is considering an amendment adopted by the Senate, proposing to delegate to the President the power to amend and repeal laws of Congress. It is an astounding proposal, which needs only to be stated to be exposed as unconstitutional. It is inserted in the appropriation bill for the purpose of enabling the President to effect economies in the Federal service.

At the last session Congress authorized the President to consolidate and rearrange bureaus and offices, subject to the condition that his orders would become effective in 60 days unless one or the other branch of Congress should disapprove of them. Mr. Hoover investigated the situation and perfected a plan, notwithstanding the distractions of the campaign, and within a week after Congress met he advised it of his executive orders. Democratic opposition to reorganization brought about an adverse vote in the House, and the economies that were to be effected were lost.

The present attempt to clothe President-elect Roosevelt with power to effect reorganization is not a repetition of the act of last session. Mr. Hoover was forbidden to abolish offices or bureaus established by law. The present amendment attempts to give the President power to set aside the laws of Congress pertaining to the functions of Federal agencies. Under the amendment the President could nullify the anti-trust laws by denying help to the Department of Justice; he could wipe out all compensation to veterans; he could abolish the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the prohibition enforcement bureau, the Reclamation Service, the Geological Survey, the Bureau of Standards, and all other bureaus, their functions, and their personnel.

The effect of this amendment, if it could stand, would be to confer upon the President enormous legislative powers. Congress would have surrendered its powers to him. He would hold the Federal purse, which the Constitution places in the hands of Congress.

If this amendment should be adopted and the bill sent to the President, he would have the alternative of approving a violation of the Constitution or vetoing a bill providing for the Treasury and Postoffice departments for the next fiscal year. His duty would be clear. It would be necessary for him to veto the bill in order to do his part in supporting the Constitution. No President can afford to place himself in the list of those whom the Supreme Court would rebuke for attempted violation of the Constitution.

Where is the statesmanship of the Senate, that it approves of such botchwork? Could it not spare enough time from its paroxysm over Mr. Barry's article to give a little thought to legislation, so that an ignorant proposal to endow the President with law-making powers could be brushed aside? The Senate now exhibits itself as lacking elementary knowledge of the powers of Congress and the limitations imposed by the Constitution. It is in a position that invites humiliation.

The authority granted last year to President Hoover should be conferred upon the President-elect. Economies can be effected by executive order if Congress will refrain from intermeddling. Mr. Roosevelt ought to have as free a hand as Congress pretended to give to Mr. Hoover. But the pending amendment, proposing to authorize the President to amend and repeal laws, is mere insanity, which can not stand as law.

NO FARM RELIEF IN SIGHT.

No better evidence of the demise of the domestic allotment farm relief plan can be found than the stream of substitutes that are now being offered to take its place. It is evident that the farmers are not enthusiastic about the allotment plan; that business men are distinctly hostile to it; that Congress is skeptical of its merits and loath to make another colossal mistake in trying to help the farmer. Hence, this measure appears to have been definitely laid aside for this session of Congress, and it may not be revived in the extra session.

Senators George and Smith, two Southern Democrats, both supporters of President-elect Roosevelt, have lost faith in the allotment plan to the extent of introducing a new measure designed to relieve the cotton farmer. They would create a Cotton Board to buy all the cotton owned or controlled by the Farm Board and the Department of Agriculture. The board would also buy other cotton from producers who would agree to reduce their acreage by 30 per cent without increasing the use of fertilizer. It is estimated that the board would thus acquire more than 6,000,000 bales of cotton with taxpayers' money.

It is contemplated that the board would resell this cotton to growers in proportion to their reduced acreage. The theory is that reduction in output would cause prices to go up, thus enhancing the value of the cotton held and compensating farmers for the 30 per cent cut in acreage. In other words, the Government would obtain a corner on surplus cotton, create a scarcity so as to dispose of the surplus at a higher price and turn the winnings over to the co-operating growers.

This scheme is no less fantastic than the stabilization activities of the Farm Board and the domestic allotment plan now in a senatorial pigeonhole. No machinery to check up on producers agreeing to reduce their acreage would be provided. If the crop should not be reduced, the Government doubtless would sustain large losses. Farmers contracting to plant less cotton might find their hopes destroyed by other farmers, who would plant larger crops to take advantage of the prospective rise in price.

The Senate probably will not be any more disposed to pass this bill than it was to accept the domestic allotment plan. Congress is merely floundering about. No practicable farm relief has yet been found.

TAX-EXEMPT BONDS.

Senator Hull has introduced an amendment to the Constitution that would permit taxation of all bonds issued by the Federal, State or municipal governments, as well as salaries paid by these governmental units. He seems to have two purposes in offering this amendment: First, to make it more difficult for States and the Government to borrow money; second, to avoid the maintenance of "a great idle class living on tax-exempt incomes."

The idea behind this amendment has gained considerable support on the mistaken notion that it would afford a new source of revenue to help balance the budget. Even if an amendment could be approved without delay, it would be a certain disappointment in that respect. Taxes could not be applied to the vast amount of tax-exempt bonds now outstanding. They would apply only to new issues, which may be rather scarce in the future. Moreover, experience has proved that taxable bonds cost the Government much more in interest than can be collected in taxes. It should be understood from the beginning that the State and Federal governments would probably lose money by taxing bonds which are now issued with an exemption.

Another mistaken idea is that the wealth now tied up in tax-exempt securities would be liberated by sweeping away the exemptions. Taxed securities would absorb just as much capital as do tax-exempt securities. Holders of non-taxable bonds are penalized by low rates of interest. If Federal bonds offered for sale at the present time, for example, were subjected to taxes from both Washington and the State capitals, they would require a much higher rate of interest than at present. In the period when the Government is most in need of borrowed money it would, under the proposed Hull amendment, find capital most difficult to obtain.

Senator Hull recognized the weakness in his own plan when he inserted a proviso that Congress might, in time of war, exempt securities issued by the Government and States for a period of five years. It would be obviously dangerous to allow the States to tax Government bonds in such an emergency. The States might thereby control the Government and defeat its purposes. Apparently Senator Hull does not recognize any emergency, except war. But the reservation his amendment would make in case of war is equally applicable to other periods of distress that may afflict the Nation. The powers of Congress to raise money by the most practicable arrangements must not be subject to frustration by the States.

Flagrant use of tax-exempt bonds to finance extravagant projects ought to be curbed, especially by the States, but a constitutional amendment giving the States authority to tax Federal bonds is not the way to do it.

REDUCE DISTRICT TAXES.

Congress always encounters great difficulty in trying to separate the affairs of the District of Columbia, for which it acts as city council, from the affairs of the Nation. If it is true, as reported by Senator Bratton, that the mandatory saving of 5 per cent on all Government appropriation bills does not apply to the District, it must be an oversight on the part of Congress. It is almost inconceivable that Congress would let such an opportunity for slashing the District budget slip by.

Regardless of whether that cut is applied, however, it appears that the District will have a surplus in 1934. More than $5,000,000 was trimmed from the budget estimates of the District Commissioners by the Budget Bureau. It is reported that another $2,000,000 has been sliced from the allowance to the District government by the House subcommittee on appropriations. On the basis of this report District officials believe that a surplus of about $6,000,000 may be acquired by the District in 1934.

It may be taken for granted that leaders in the House will once more try to reduce the Federal contribution to the District budget. Last year the House fixed the Government's share of the cost of maintaining the National Capital at $6,500,000 and it was raised to $7,775,000 only after a determined fight by the Senate. The House wants to compel District residents to make a special contribution toward balancing the Federal budget. That can not be done directly, of course, but it is done indirectly by assessing a disproportionate share of the cost of maintaining the Federal City upon Washington taxpayers.

For this reason the prospective surplus in the Treasury to the credit of the District may become a boomerang. Congress may throttle the District to save money while needed improvements are delayed or abandoned. Then when it comes time to approve another District budget congressmen may use the surplus in the Treasury as an excuse for further reduction of the Federal contribution. Sacrifices made at the expense of District schools or other institutions are thus turned to the advantage of the Treasury at the expense of the taxpayers.

The taxpayers of Washington are in favor of every real economy. But they are not in favor of piling up an idle surplus to be used against them next year. If the District government can be operated efficiently for less than the sum of local taxes, plus an equitable Federal contribution, taxes should be reduced. But there is no thought on Capitol Hill of lowering tax levies. Congressmen are even talking of imposing higher taxes to raise a special fund for unemployment relief.

It would be obviously absurd to maintain taxes designed to produce a large surplus in times like the present. An urgent demand for tax relief should be made, if the budget is to be trimmed below the available revenue.

BRAZIL AND LETICIA.

Brazil has now made an offer to take over the control of Leticia for the definite period of 60 days while Peru and Colombia endeavor through negotiation to settle their differences regarding the disputed territory on the upper Amazon. In case of failure to reach an agreement Brazil would return the Leticia area to Colombia. In view of Colombia's contention that Leticia is her national territory under treaty rights and that reoccupation of it is an internal question, it may be difficult for the Bogota government to agree to even a temporary jurisdiction by a neutral power which would seem to call into question her territorial rights.

The Leticia situation is unique, owing to the unusual attitude adopted by Peru. While frankly recognizing that the Leticia corridor legally belongs to Colombia, and insisting that its occupation by Peruvian citizens was neither instigated nor supported by the Lima authorities, Peru still opposes Colombia's forceful reoccupation of the port on the ground that it would be resisted by the Peruvians now controlling it, and that they must be supported by Peruvian military forces. It is remarkable, considering the untenable character of the occupation of Leticia by a handful of Peruvians, that the Lima government itself does not compel them to retire.

If Colombia should be generous enough to accept Brazil's latest offer in the interest of peace the action will not be misunderstood by the world. But if she refuses to make any concession to the invaders Colombia will be plainly within her rights.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The extent to which the railroads have been hit by the depression is made painfully apparent by reports on their earnings last year. The Class I railroads show a net operating income for 1932 of $334,325,000, which is a return of only 1.25 per cent on their property investment. This result is a decline in earnings from the year before when income amounted to 2 per cent.

The property investment, it is explained by the Bureau of Railway Economics, is the value of road and equipment as shown by the books of the railroads, including materials, supplies and cash. The net railway operating income is the balance remaining after the payment of operating expenses, taxes, and equipment rentals, but before interest and other fixed charges are paid.

This statement of earnings for last year includes 167 first-class roads with a total of 242,000 miles. The continued decline in earnings is ascribed to business conditions, but it is explained that the reduction would have been much greater had it not been for drastic cuts that were made in operating expenses. While freight traffic suffered a reduction of 25.4 per cent in gross revenue, operating expenses show a saving slightly more than that.

Passenger traffic last year was the smallest of any year in the present century, showing a falling off from 1931 of 31.8 per cent. The gross operating revenue of the Class I roads declined 25.4 per cent to a total of $3,162,000,000. While taxes paid by railroads showed a decline of nearly $29,000,000 last year they still remain a most important item, these contributions having exceeded $279,000,000 for the year.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE GREAT FEAR.

There was a little patch of ground
Where summer roses might have smiled,
But only ugliness was found
And stacks of lumber piled.

And there was room for marigold
And phlox and flowering cosmos fair,
Which people happily behold,
But that little space stayed bare.

There might have been a patch of lawn
And hollyhocks towering tall,
But the man who lived there gazed upon
The weeds and let them sprawl.

He saw both filth and shame displayed
And, all indifferent, passed them by.
He would have to work were a garden made
His ground to beautify.

And so with some of us, shame we see
On the right and left displayed,
But to make this life what it ought to be
Means trouble—and we're afraid!

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: I notice that you are beginning to worry about things you can't help. It is the world's worst habit, and we must figure out a way to kill it while it is young.

The happiest people in the world are the ignorant. They are unaware of the countless problems that burden the minds of the literate.

The Negroes of the South would be happy despite knowledge, for Nature has given them light hearts and race experience has taught them the philosophy of kismet.

With the exception of these, the only people who escape anxiety are the stolid and unimaginative who live only in the present and believe no more than they see.

If you were like any of these, it wouldn't be necessary to provide you a shield against worry. But you have enough knowledge to realize what is happening, enough understanding to recognize the danger, and enough imagination to make it worse.

That being true, you are doomed to worry more or less about the trials and tribulations of mankind and get the woes of the world in your hair unless you learn the trick of watching the race from the grandstand.

I don't know the word for it. It is a kind of mental state or detachment or aloofness. Call it what you will, the result is that you stand at a distance and judge events as you would a fragment of history written long ago.

The present doesn't seem final or permanent, but only a single incident in a play that will continue for ages with new acts and new characters.

You don't remember the great war. In the midst of it the wisest of men thought victory for the Allies would make all races free and insure everlasting peace.

People equally wise thought prohibition would end crime and poverty.

It's easy to look back after the event and call them foolish, but our wisest people are being equally foolish now about something else.

Values always get mixed in the excitement of conflict, and unsound opinions seem sacred principles.

The thing to remember is that the world changes very slowly, despite the dust kicked up, and nothing is ever as important as it seems to those in the midst of it.

Don't let the present fool you. Think how terrifying rain would seem if you didn't know that all rains are followed by sunshine.

Love, DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Deplorable and Dangerous.
Springfield Republican.

It is delorable to have Congress lose still further the respect and confidence of the people, if that high legislative body is being smeared without warrant in fact and equity. For many years Congress has been the object of sharp criticism, much of it merited; but still worse has been a long continued ridicule and contemptuous disparagmenet of its usefulness, competence and effectiveness in the structure of government. Many of us often have asked how long the prestige of Congress can endure incessant attacks of this character. May not this be part of the process of disintegration, if not degradation, that parliamentarism is undergoing in all countries while everywhere ideals of autocracy in government seem to grow in public favor?

There are persons who think a dictatorship for the United States is coming. It seems impossible to accept a view of present tendencies that interlocks with the dictatorship ideal. Yet a transition from democracy to autocracy would be tremendously facilitated if the mass of the American people should accept as true Mr. Barry's assertion and in a resentful mood of suspicion multiply its implications to the point of condemning our representative institutions as rotten to the core. These difficult times are not strengthening the prestige of governments based on universal suffrage.

Dave Barry's Mistake.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sergeant at Arms Barry would have made himself solid with the Senate and given the country a big laugh if his article had declared all senators are angels who modestly hide their wings and haloes.

Obstructionism Rampant.
Buffalo Courier-Express.

Government by majority ends when it reaches the United States Senate, the greatest filibustering body on earth.

A Political Curiosity.
Burlington Clipper.

The Rev. Chauncey C. Adams is a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat. He is now connected with the faculty of Middlebury College and predicts that Vermont will get the largest tourist business in 1933 of any year in its history. He bases his prediction on the fact that Vermont is the only State that has remained true-blue in the Republican column since the organization of the party and that the thousands of people will want to come to such a rockribbed Republican State and see what it looks like.

Let Senator Glass Testify.
Brooklyn Eagle.

David S. Barry, sergeant at arms of the United States Senate, wrote for the New Outlook, a magazine edited by Alfred E. Smith, an article in which these words appeared. "A few senators and congressmen can be bought." Much more definite was the speech of Carter Glass in the Senate May 10, 1932, about bankers' opposition to his bill:

"They hired a skillful and persuasive professional lobbyist and paid him a salary to come here to Washington. Worse than that, they hired some congressmen, to my positive documentary knowledge."

Why fool 'round with an investigation and dismissal of Sergeant at Arms Barry? Why not put Carter Glass on the carpet? Barry didn't claim, as Glass did, "positive documentary knowledge" of bribery. Should not such knowledge be brought under the bright sunlight of publicity?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Less Danger in Paternalism Than in Private Systems and Special Privileges—"Give the U. S. Back to Its People."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An article contributed to The Post, February 8, by "Federalist," states that he shares the "amazement" of The Post, also its opinion that "the country can not fail to be astonished by the bold proposal of President-elect Roosevelt," meaning the development of Muscle Shoals by the Federal Government. I would like to say through The Post, that I can not understand how any one could be surprised by the President-elect's recent proposal, provided that he heard or has read the magnificent speech on "Power," made by Mr. Roosevelt in Oregon, September 21, 1932.

Ane one who has observed the fast changing conditions in our country for the last twenty years, must feel, it would seem, that there is less danger to the rights of the people, as a whole, under such a proposition, than under the private systems, which have been growing in size at such an alarming rate. Certainly the large number of voters who favored Mr. Roosevelt at the last election must not have been amazed at his recent remarks about Muscle Shoals, which to them is only a fulfilling of hopes raised before election; a hope that the very rights, opportunities and safety, which the Constitution meant to guarantee, will be restored to us under it.

It will not be an experiment in "paternalism," but just the Government looking after the welfare of the people, protecting them from "special privilege." We have the Agricultural Department, which includes the Forest Service, a service for which we should be thankful; it has not put the private lumber companies out of business; instead, it has inspired many with its principles and some lumber companies are glad to follow its methods.

Big business has just about obliterated States lines. Let us hope that the Federal Government can catch up with it, give back the United States of America to its people. To Mr. Roosevelt's speech on "Power," especially the last paragraph, I say "Amen." G. M. U.

Thinks House Would Be Better With Smaller Membership—How About the Senate, Which Is a Small Body?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The proposal of Senator Tydings to reduce the membership of the House by 110 will meet with the hearty approval of every citizen in this country except, of course, those who are now members of that body. As a matter of fact, its membership should be reduced by at least one-half. If this were done not only would a saving be effected in Federal expenditures but the country as a whole would be materially benefited, and the brand of legislation from such a reduced membership would or should be greatly improved over the conglomeration of legislation that now so often emanates from that body.

And since provision has now been made by the Senate in the Treasury-Postoffice bill, which will require the heads of departments to make wholesale dismissals of a large number of Federal employes in order to effect reductions in expenditures, which the Senate itself was unable or unwilling to make, it would be both appropriate and patriotic and reflect much credit on the Congress if it would now turn the same pruning knife on its own overcrowded membership. Had this much-needed and long overdue reform been initiated a few years ago, it would not have been necessary to erect a second House Office Building, which has called for the expenditure of millions of dollars.

But will Senator Tydings' conservative proposal for a tiny reduction of only 110 members get anywhere? Of course not. As was stated in these columns a few days ago, the action of Congress on the veterans bill, wherein some $400,000,000 will be doled out to those whose disability has no more connection with war service than the corn on my little toe has with George Washington's crossing of the Delaware, proves beyond any shadow of doubt that Congress has no desire and much less any intention to propose any real economy. No doubt, a smaller delegation in the House would be more responsive to the wishes of the majority and less easily persuaded to vote for measures sponsored by minority groups by their well organized lobbies.

A DEMOCRAT.

Are Holders of Private Loans to European Debtors Willing to Cancel Their Loans?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Americans who advocate cancellation of the war debts are largely interested in private loans to the same debtors. The argument is used that it is dangerous to try to transfer great sums from one government to another. If this be true, it is dangerous for the debtor to try to pay off their private debts to Americans.

Are the holders of private debts willing to cancel their holdings, in order to save Europe? Or do they wish to have American taxpayers take over the burden of cancellation, so that the debtor countries can more easily pay the private loans obtained in the United States?

Pessimist Thinks "Tennessee Bubble" Will Burst, With Great Loss.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You can't blame any one for wanting a swimming hole inclosed in glass, even if it did cost $50,000.

The swimming hole's cost is chicken feed, compared to the loss that will occur when the Tennessee bubble busts. AMERICAN.

SO THIS IS RENO

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: It is only the first few days that are bad, as now I know enough people not to be forlorn. Mrs. Gary has been such a dear about giving me pointers about who is desirable and who is not, and has introduced me to all the nice-looking people in the hotel. Many of the girls pair up and share an apartment. There are lots of apartment houses where apartments are to be had for $100 to $200 a month, the hotel apartments being $225. It is funny to see all these rich girls doing their own cooking and dishwashing. Most of them have never heated water before. It took four of us the other night to open a can. We have long discussions about what to keep in the icebox. For instnace, do you keep asparagus (only 10 cents a pound here), and potatoes and things like salad dressing in the icebox? And what about tomatoes? They seem to freeze on us and get mealy. Some of the girls bring maids with them, but most of them don't, expect a governess or trained nurse for the children, and they are "high hat" about doing the cooking. Which reminds me that where there is a fine legal point in one's case it sews a divorce a little tighter to bring a child out. Gives more impression of being a permanent resident, &c. The lawyers advise it.

One of the most important things to know, the most important I might say, at least for those who are at all interested in the financial end of the trip, is to wait and shop for your lawyer after reaching Reno. I am very thankful to Ethel for giving me that tip, as if you come out tied up with your Eastern lawyers your divorce might easily cost an extra thousand or more. The only advantage of having a Reno lawyer already engaged from the other end, is that he meets you at the station and undertakes your social debut. Of course, it is very important, too, to have a definite price set before your lawyer starts working on your case. There are millions of lawyers, and very few crooked ones from all I hear, but they don't make any bones about telling you that they charge according to your income.

For instance, one lawyer told me that he got $200,000 from Mrs. Van Cott, of New York, and that he had gotten several poor girls divorces for nothing. Mrs. Van Cott's fee was the largest on record at Reno. Another thing, I would warn any one coming out here to arrive on Sunday, as you get the divorce on the first Monday after your six weeks are up, so that if you arrive on Tuesday, for instance, you lose a whole week. It is funny that not one of these girls was warned by her Eastern lawyer. I was pretty lucky arriving on Saturday.

There were two marriages yesterday before the train left. Mr. Cement to Mrs. Canned Food and an English woman who married her American beau who has been out here with her during the "term." At least, there is plenty to talk about. The conversation never lags for a moment. It has gotten to be a perfect joke the amount of women who say, "Well, I never thought I would end here."

The climate continues divine. Perpetual sunlight. ELIZABETH.

LINCOLN IS THEME OF SIZOO SERMON

New York Ave. Presbyterian Will Observe Martyr's Anniversary.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo will have for his subject tomorrow morning "Lincoln Speaks Today." This service will be an observance of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, who worshiped in the New York avenue church while President of the United States. The pew which he occupied has become a shrine within a shrine. Tomorrow evening Dr. Sizoo will speak on "Religion in a Fretful Age."

The young people of the Christian Endeavor Society will sponsor a fellowship tea on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the Parish Hall. Following the tea Clarence Lents will lead the meeting, which will be in observance of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

On Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the dedication of the Lincoln Chapel and the Lincoln room will be observed with a special worship. At this service the church will receive from the Wednesday Morning Guild this gift of a hallowed consecration. In addition to the dedication of the room there will be a recognition of the memorials which include the pews, the chancel seat and the communion service.

The first meeting of the Lincoln Guild was held on Tuesday last and the women of the church responded most heartily to the call of this organization, which has been formed to look after the physical welfare of the church and to encourage and add to the existing good fellowship of its members.

The Wednesday Morning Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. Maxwell Hamilton, Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Steinbauer will review Mrs. Pearl Buck's book, "Young Revolutionists."

"Man and His Job" Hutchinson Text

Pastor of Mount Vernon Place Church to Preach Twice.

The pastor, Dr. Forney Hutchinson, will preach twice at Mount Vernon Place Church tomorrow. The text at the morning service is "The Ministry of Manhood." "A Man and His Job" will be the evening subject. Special music will be given by the vested choir, directed by R. Dean Shure. "Build Thee More Stately Mansions" (Andrews) and "Sleepers, Wake" (Bach) will constitute the program assisted by quartet numbers.

The Thursday evening prayer service will be conducted by the pastor. "Human Interest Stories," drawn from actual experience, precede each service, which is conducted as an old-fashioned prayer meeting. Mrs. George E. Phillips, of the music department of the church, will conduct an organ recital tomorow evening at 7:30.

On February 21 at 8 o'clock the Euphonic Male Quartet, of Takoma Park, will present a program of music in the church school auditorium. The music department of Mount Vernon Place Church is sponsoring the entertainment.

Services Tomorrow

The Rev. David Cartwright Clark, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Takoma Park, will preach at the 8 p. m. service in commemoration of the twenty-third anniversary of the establishing of the Boy Scouts of America. Troup 38 of Trinity Church will attend.

Jewish National Flag to Be Flown

Special Service on Friday at Full Gospel Tabernacle.

Something unusual is promised in a revival campaign when Evangelist Otto J. Klink, who is conducting a stirring meeting at the National Full Gospel Tabernacle, North Capitol and K streets, unfurls "Magon Dovid," the Jewish national flag, at the conclusion of his address Friday night on "The Jew-God's Great Timepiece." All friends of the Jewish faith are invited to this service, and a section of the church will be reserved for them.

He will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. A special musical program has been arranged tomorrow night, when the Tabernacle men's chorus will sing several spirituals and songs, and others will take part. The services will continue every night at 7:45 o'clock, except Saturday.

A Christian healing service for the sick of every creed and faith will be held Thursday at 7:45 p. m. His subjects will include: "America, What of the Night?" "The Five Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Incarnation of the Holy Spirit," "Who Is the Anti-Christ," "Russia—the Mad House of the World," "The Bobbed Hair Church" and "The Return of Christ."

Christian Science Churches

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Psalms, lxvi:8,9: "O Bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise be heard: which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." (Romans, viii:1,2.) The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When being is understood, Life will be recognized as neither material nor finite, but as infinite—as God, universal good; and the belief that life, or mind, was ever in a finite form, or good in evil, will be destroyed." (Page 76.)

"Eternal Lincoln" Sermon Subject

Dr. Stockdale to Preach on Theme at First Congregational.

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale will preach at both services at the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, tomorrow. His sermon subject for the morning service at 11 o'clock is "As a Fire in the Bones." In the evening at 8 o'clock he will speak on "The Eternal Lincoln." The vested choir of 60 voices, under the direction of Ruby Smith Stahl, will sing at both services.

Dr. Bartlett B. James, leader of the Men's Bible Class, will speak on "Religion in the Church.".

The Women's Bible Class, under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Alvord, meets at 10 o'clock in the west parlor.

A special Lincoln Day program will be presented at the Young People's Society meeting at 6:30 p. m. in the Sunday school room. The service is in charge of Miss Josephine Tremain.

Rev. A. Moller to Speak At Luther Place Church

The Rev. Aage Moller, formerly president of the Nysted Folk School, of Nysted, Nebr., will speak on "Revived Protestantism" at the 8 p. m. service at Luther Place Memorial Church. A number of the old Grundtvig hymns will be sung by the Luther Place Choir. This service will conclude the series of lectures on Grundtvig and the folk schools which the Rev. Mr. Moller has delivered at various places in Washington in commemoration of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the birth of Bishop N. F. S. Grundtvig, originator of the folk school system.

The Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, the pastor of Luther Place Memorial Church, will preach at the 11 a. m. service.

Mourner's Bench Topic of Sermon

Dr. Copenhaver Announces Theme for Epworth M. E. Service.

Dr. John C. Copenhaver, pastor of Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church South, Thirteenth street and North Carolina avenue northeast, will preach for the 11 o'clock service tomorrow morning and will take as his sermon topic "The Methodist Mourner's Bench." He will conduct the evening service, in which the Central Union Mission Glee Club will take part in a service of testimony and song.

On Monday evening at 8 o'clock the meeting of the Sunday School council will be held in the church. The Young Adult group is planning an open house valentine party at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening.

The pastor will conduct the regular mid-week prayer meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, and he will take as his subject for discussion passages from the book of Dr. J. C. Massee, "The Pentecostal Fires." Dr. Copenhaver is preparing the church for the series of revival services to be held in April, which will be conducted by Dr. Massee, with Homer Rodeheaver in charge of the music.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 2:45 p. m.

Influences operative on this date will seem to be of a destructive nature. You will be inclined to doubt your own decisions. Plans which seemed to be clear and decisive will appear clouded. Push on slowly and carefully, but do not let your well-oiled machinery come to a halt. Move without haste and without giving way to your emotions in all matters of love.

The child born on this February 11 will in all probability have a very excitable nature. Care must be taken to see that he gets enough sleep in his earlier years, as it is more than likely he will require more than does the average child. The child will take little interest in group activities, preferring to amuse himself alone and in creative pursuits, such as painting, drawing, and if a boy, in building little things.

If February 11 is the date of your birth, you are not in any sense a reckless person, but at times you conceive and execute business plans and schemes of a rather daring nature. Invariably they turn out well.

Successful people born on February 11:

Benjamin F. Sands, naval officer.
Alexander H. Stephens, statesman.
Melville W. Fuller, jurist.
Alexander Herrmann, prestidigitator.
Thomas A. Edison, inventor.
Franklin W. Hooper, scientist and educator.

DR. BOHANAN BEGINS SERIES TOMORROW

Subject of Talks on Sunday Nights to Be History of Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Dr. Franklin J. Bohanan, rector of Rock Creek Episcopal Church, will deliver the first of a series of nine consecutive Sunday night lectures on the history and teachings of the Episcopal Church at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Also, on Wednesday nights during the Lenten season, Dr. Bohanan will deliver a series of sermons on the Lord's Prayer.

The other services tomorrow include celebration of Holy Communion and admission service for the Junior Altar Guild at 8:30 a. m. and morning prayer at 11 o'clock, with sermon by Dr. Bohanan.

Dr. Bohanan announces that a number of outstanding clergymen will be the guest preachers at the 11 o'clock services on Sunday mornings during Lent. The list includes W. Cosby Bell, James A. Mitchell and Alexander Zabriskie, professors in the Virginia Theological Seminary. Also, special services for children of the community will be held in the church at 3:45 p. m. each Thursday during Lent.

Meetings during the week include those of the Men's Club at 7:30 p. m Tuesday; Woman's Auxiliary at 10:30 a. m., followed by luncheon at 12:30, on Wednesday; Boy Scout Troop at 7:30 p. m. Friday, and the Rectory Guild of the Parish at 2 p. m. Wednesday. The Girls Friendly Society, which will present a play in the parish auditorium at 8 p. m. on Friday, will also hold meetings at 7:30 p. m. Monday and 3:30 p. m. Friday.

The Rev. William L. Mayo, assistant to Dr. Bohanan, announces that the services tomorrow at Holy Comforter Chapel, Rock Creek Parish, 5714 Georgia avenue, include celebrations of Holy Communion at 7:30 and 11 a. m. and evening prayer and address at 7:30 p. m. Chapel activities during the week include meeting of the representative committee at 8 p. m. Tuesday; meeting of the Chapel Guild at 8 p. m. Wednesday, and minister's conference at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

"This Was a Man," Pierce's Sermon

Unitarian Pastor to Speak on Quotation From Shakespeare.

"This Was a Man!" the second in a series of sermons based on quotations from the works of William Shakespeare, will be delivered at All Souls' Unitarian Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets, at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow by the minister, Ulysses G. B. Pierce. At the session of the church school at 9:45 Miss Helen Nicolay, author of "The Boy's Life of Abraham Lincoln," will speak.

In the afternoon at 5 o'clock Flora McGill Keefer will assist the organist, Lewis Corning Atwater, in a program of Cesar Franck music. This will be followed at 5:30 by the book chat at which Leifur Magnusson, of the International Labor Office, will review recent publications on "Technocracy." The feature at the motion picture show at 7:30 will be the German film "Ein Walzer vom Strauss."

WILL PREACH

REV. DR. FRANKLIN J. BOHANAN.

Preachers Named For Bible School

Columbia Training Sessions Begin Feb. 19 at First Congregational.

Plans have been completed by the Columbia Bible Training School for a city-wide Bible conference to be held at First Congregational Church, February 19 to 21 inclusive, under the direction of Dr. T. T. Roberts, in which leading pastors of the Capital will take part.

The subject of the conference, "The Need of God in the World Today," will be stressed by Representative David Hogg, of Indiana, who will speak on "The Bible and the Modern World," Sunday afternoon, February 19; by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of the Diocese of Washington, who will speak on the main theme on February 19, at 8 p. m., and by Representative Ralph F. Lozier, of Missouri, who will speak on "The Church, the State, and the Matchless Christ," February 21.

Other important addresses of the Bible conference will be delivered at the various sessions by the Rev. George Fiske Dudley, the Rev. W. L. Darby, the Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, the Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, the Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, the Rev. William S. Abernethy, the Rev. John C. Copenhaver, the Rev. Clifford H. Jope, the Rev. Harvey Baker Smith, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, the Rev. Henry W. Snyder, the Rev. H. H. Harmon on Tuesday night.

Special music for the meetings will be supplied by the National City Christian Church Choir, A Cappella Choir of First Congregational Church, Calvary Baptist Church Choir and the Foundry Church Choir.

Dr. Taylor to Preach At Central Presbyterian

At the Central Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning the pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, will preach on "The Message for a New Order." There will be services each night, beginning on Monday, preparatory to a series of meetings to be held the following week.

The services next week will be meetings for prayer, and different ministers have signified their acceptance of the invitation to speak at these services.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A FRENCH WOMAN considers her outfit unfinished if it isn't topped off with a scarf! American women once felt the same way about a fur piece, but fox furs aren't as easy to have in one's wardrobe as once upon a time—hence Miss America has one eye on the possibility of scarfs these days.

One reason why scarfs have not been more popular is because most scarfs are either hideously impractical and ice-cream, frostingish, or else hideously practical and protective. Was and were, that is. And it has been hard for Miladi to realize that the scarf of today is a far, far cry from the knitted ones mother used to wind about our protesting necks.

Today's scarf is a thing of beauty and taste, and is the best way in the world to finish an outfit, with originality and charm.

One chooses a scarf either for harmony or for contrast. The deadly sin of scarfdom is a printed scarf worn with a printed dress—and not the same print, at that. Remember that no scarf stands alone, as it were—a scarf is an absolute dependent—upon the rest of the outfit. Therefore one never buys or makes a scarf without knowing where and with what it is going to be worn—and if a gift arrives in the form of a scarf, said scarf is either passed on as a gift, or a whole outfit eventually bought to go with it. Happy the scarf with this much importance!

A bright scarf furnishes the color note for a darker or dull ensemble. A sober scarf gives dignity to a brightly colored outfit. And a scarf finishes an outfit, as I have said before. I speak of a separate scarf, of course, and not the scarfs attached to dresses or coats, which undoubtedly have their place in the wardrobe, but are more like a collar or cape than a scarf.

* * * *

Remnants, than which there is nothing more fascinating! Left over pieces of material, or partly worn out blouses, all lend themselves so well to scarfs! But of course you have to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for our scarf designs, ready for you next week. Oh a whole lot of good and original ones, my deahs. You'll like them and find them easy to make, or do send for the leaflet while you think of it.

Au revoir.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

3433

It is just another little jumper dress for the schoolgirl.

And as you will see, the skirt has the new low plaits, now so voguish. The separate guimpe has the smart puffed sleeves and the boyish collar.

A spring green angora wool jersey inspired the original. The tubable guimpe used a yellow dimity overplaided in the green shade. The collar was white pique.

Style No. 3433 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

Size 8 requires 2 yards 35-inch for dress, with 1⅜ yards 35-inch for blouse, with ¼ yard 35-inch for collar. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Something new! Something different!

We are proud of our new Fashion Magazine for spring. It's much larger and different than any issue previously published. It's 48 pages.

This book contains all of the new spring styles for women, misses and children.

In addition, it contains the most interesting illustrated articles—"Beauty Hints," "Hairdressing," "How to Reduce Sensibly," "Poise as Aid to Fashions," "Dressmaking Hints," "Knitted Sweaters," "Quilts" and "Embroidery," &c.

The supply is limited, and so we suggest that you send 10 cents for your copy today. Just write "Fashion Magazine" on any piece of paper, inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

WOLVEN TO DELIVER CATHEDRAL SERMON

Canon to Officiate at Morning Service; Rev. Mr. Buck at Evensong.

Canon Raymond L. Wolven will deliver the sermon at the service of morning prayer and celebration of the Holy Communion in the great choir of Washington Cathedral at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The preacher at the people's evensong service at 4 o'clock will be the Rev. Calvert E. Buck, superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital. Music for these two services will be rendered by the cathedral choir.

Bishop James E. Freeman will be in New York tomorrow to preach in St. Paul's Chapel at Columbia University, upon invitation from the president, Nicholas Murray Butler.

There will be the usual celebration of the Holy Communion in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Canon John W. Gummere will conduct group pilgrimages following the services in the great choir for members of the congregation and out-of-town residents at approximately 12:15 and 5:10 p. m.

The Rev. Dr. William L. DeVries, canon and precentor of the cathedral, announces that the music of three great composers—Charles V. Stanford, George C. Martin and John Stainer—will be featured during the evensong service on Sunday, February 19. The cathedral choir will sing an ancient candlelight hymn, "Hail, Gladdening Light," which is probably the oldest hymn known to Christian music.

The Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy will hold its annual patriotic service in the great choir of the cathedral on Sunday afternoon, February 26, with Bishop Freeman as the preacher.

DISTRICT BUYS BULK IN DELINQUENT SALE

Only 10 Per Cent of Realty Purchased by Outsiders, Donovan Reports.

Only 10 per cent of the realty offered at auction recently at the annual delinquent tax sale was bought by outsiders, the remainder being bought in by the District Government, Auditor D. J. Donovan revealed yesterday in an official report of the sale to the District Commissioners.

Only 2,089 of 20,000 lots advertised were sold, and these brought $270,093.49. There were 49 purchasers. This figure is by far the lowest over a five-year period, the greatest receipts being recorded in January, 1930, when 8,297 lots were sold for $887,144.32.

Records of other years are quoted in the report as follows: 1929, 7,160 lots sold for $800,330.06; 1931, 5,170 lots sold for $667,243.81; 1932, 2,784 lots sold for $379,753.94.

Of the total of $270,093.49 obtained from the sale, only $239,311.34 was actually applied to taxes, the remainder being consumed in interest, advertising and recording.

Culbertson on Bridge

SIGN-OFF BIDS.

IN bidding at Contract the assumption is that every time a player speaks, his partner may infer some added strength, and thus is in turn encouraged to make another bid himself. It is, of course, true that there are hands such as Spades 6, Hearts 9 8 7 5 4 3, Diamonds 8 2, Clubs 10 8 3 2, where a player is sorely tempted to "rescue" his partner's one no-trump with a bid of two spades. It is quite apparent that the hand is worthless at any bid except two spades, where there is hope of establishing three low-card winners. However, the trouble is that partner has no means of distinguishing between "strength" and "weakness" when bids are made with such worthless hands, and thus the Opening Hand, whose holding is quite likely even far above an average, is apt to rebid until the partnership has reached the contract far beyond its ability to fulfill.

Thus, this situation can not easily be handled, for if all Takeouts meant weakness the partnership would lose the benefit of strength inferences on thousands of other hands—a much greater evil. For these reasons it is a fundamental principle of the Culbertson System of bidding that, with a few exceptions, every bid is an encouraging bid and a pass is, as a rule, the only "rescue." The only exceptions occur in such cases where the "rescue" inference is so clear that no possible misunderstanding can arise between partners. Some of these "rescue" situations arise after a Double of partner's suit bid of one, or after a penalty double of a low contract by the partner himself. Others occur in a group of bids which are known as Sign-Off bids.

A Sign-Off bid is a warning to partner that the hand, though previously bid, is below the minimum he has the right to expect in honor strength and that a further bid by him is at his own risk. A Sign-Off bid is recognized by the fact that (1) the Responding Hand had bid and then rebid its suit at least twice; and, at the same time (2) the Sign-Off bid is always in the range of three-bids.

The hand below illustrates the use of the Sign-Off bid:

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HOT BATHS.

THE reputation of mineral baths for the cure of disease runs back to the days of the Indians. These people were quite subject to parasitic skin diseases and experience taught them that repeated bathing in the waters of certain hot springs would cure their disorders.

In 1699 Wafer wrote a book in which he told of his experiences in South and Central America. On one occasion they sailed on a bucaneering expedition from Panama down the west coast of South America. He writes of a water from a hot spring found in South America:

"I had the curiosity to wade up the stream as far as I had daylight to guide me; the water was clear and shallow, but the streams under the hill were like those of a boiling pot and my hair was wet with them. Many of our men who had the itch bathed themselves here and, growing well soon after, they imputed it to the sulphurousness or other virtues of this water."

The men were right. All of those varieties of skin diseases that go by the name itch are due to skin parasites. In addition to those that are so recognized there are itching eruptions that result from the activities of insects of larger size. If the parasite or the larger insect is killed the itch disappears and the eruption can be expected to get well without further treatment.

While skin diseases of this kind are not nearly as universal as they were in the year 1699, there remain enough of them for all practical purposes. The hot sulphur baths can justify their maintenance today and they need be in no hurry to go out of business. For the cure of skin trouble of this character it is desirable not only to use a preparation of sulphur but to devise a way of getting it deep into the tissues.

FEBRUARY IS TIME FOR FANCY MEATS

Beef Tongue a la Braise, Tripe and Oysters Create Delightful Dishes.

By MARTHA LOGAN.

Lincoln's Birthday, Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day come so close together we almost get brain-weary trying to think of something timely, yet different. A suggestion that is very apropos in many ways is the use of the fancy meats. By fancy meats we do not mean fancy cut tenderloin, but those edible meat products from other than standard cuts. In other words, I am thinking of such delicious dishes as beef tongue a la braise, or tripe and oyster creole, or ever so many other delightfully concocted dishes.

The idea of using the fancy meats for festive occasions is not exactly an original one. When the famous Richelieu, in the nineteenth century, wanted to have served a dish of very special note for his most honored of guests, his chef had four choices. Beef kidneys with fried onions, beef foot with lemon sauce, beef tongue, and beef liver were the favored dishes.

At the famous lord mayor's banquet in 1761, given to King George, fat livers, green truffles and tongues were the delicacies served.

Liver Good for Anemia.

We moderns are just beginning to serve these fancy meats in our menus. We have discovered that liver is excellent for anemia, and kidney and heart and brain are also good and have much vitamin content, so we began to tell our families we must eat them. But there is a gustatory value to these dishes that is even more appealing than the "good for us" value.

For instance, back in the days when Lincoln was a boy, friendly neighbors seldom had time for a call, but they always had time to send over a pot pie. Many of the favorite pot pies featured the flavor obtained from ox tails. Then why not a really old-fashioned Lincoln day dish for Lincoln's Birthday? Here is an adaptation of pot pie from a grandmother's recipe: Prepare two ox tails by washing and soaking tails in cold water for one-half hour. Cut in 2-inch pieces. Drain and place in deep saucepan and add four cupfuls of boiling water, one faggot of soup herbs, one carrot, cut in dice, and one onion, cut in quarters.

Bring to a boil and cook slowly until tender. Put tails in casserole and add one dozen small parboiled potatoes, four large onions, cooked until tender, and one cupful of cooked carrots. Thicken the gravy with cornstarch and season with salt and pepper. Strain and pour over the tails and vegetables in casserole. Then cover with pie crust and bake 40 minutes in a hot oven.

For Valentine Day.

Another occasion in February when a fancy meat dish will be very timely is Valentine's Day. As this famous day is symbolized by hearts, why not have as the meat course lambs' hearts in onion sauce served in heart-shaped timbales. The timbales can be made of pastry or cut from bread and toasted. To make this dish wash three hearts well in cold water and cut crosswise in inch slices. Sprinkle well with salt and pepper and roll in flour.

Melt several tablespoons of fat and add eight small onions sliced, the slices of heart, and brown all well. Add to this a bay leaf, three cloves, some celery leaves or celery salt. Half cover with boiling water, cover closely and simmer for one hour. Lift the meat and onions carefully onto a dish. Thicken the gravy, if necessary, add a dash of lemon juice and pour over the meat. Fill the heart-shaped patty shells or timbales with the hearts in sauce and serve with a garnish of pimiento.

Another patron saint has a birthday in March. You've guessed it—St. Patrick! And what could be better on this day than a good old stew with Irish characteristics.

Quickest Stew to Cook.

Kidney stew is one of the quickest stews to cook. Beef, pork, calf or lamb kidneys may be used. Cut the kidneys in half crosswise, remove white tubes, then soak in cold salted water about 45 minutes. Scald the kidneys by pouring boiling water over them. Drain and remove the skin. Cut the kidneys into pieces, season with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Brown in some bacon drippings, or another fat, with two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped onion.

Add some partially cooked carrots, and potatoes, a little kitchen bouquet, and cover with water or tomato juice and simmer 15 minutes. Thicken gravy with more flour. Serve in a border of nicely steamed rice or noodles.

Dr. Namur to Speak On Rejuvenation

Gland Feeding Is Special Topic at Arlington Hotel Tomorrow.

Speaking on "Chemistry of Food, Body and Mind," Irene Case Namur, doctor of science from the Royal College of Brussels, told a large audience at the Arlington Hotel last night that chemicals absorbed into the body by the food we eat and drink act directly upon a man's temperament, disposition and characteristics.

Dr. Namur, who is giving a series of lectures at the Arlington, is internationally known as a psychologist, author and biochemist. In private life she is the wife of the Rev. F. L. Emmett, pastor of Manhattan Congregational Church, New York City.

Dr. Namur will speak tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. on "Health and Rejuvenation Through Gland Feeding." Monday's lecture will be on "Increasing Brain Activity," while Tuesday evening's topic will be "Mixing Health Cocktails."

Yankee Division Backs Vandoren.

Lucian H. Vandoren has been given the indorsement of the Yankee Division Club, of Washington, for the appointment as United States Attorney for the District of Columbia. A native of Hyattsville, Md., Mr. Vandoren is an honor graduate of Georgetown University Law School, a major of the Twentieth Marines, and a professor of law at the Washington College of Law.

Martha Logan Says — — "Try This Beef Dish With Noodles"

Even though we must sacrifice a few pennies for the sake of economy, we must not sacrifice the morale of the family by serving unappealing food. Nor is it necessary to omit meat from the daily menu because steaks and roasts, although at the lowest price in years, may be too expensive for all purses.

The following meat dish is tasty, inexpensive and easy to make.

Select a nice piece of beef shank. Ask the market man to cut it from near the top of the shank. From 1½ to 2 pounds will be sufficient. Cut the meat from the shank bone into small pieces. Salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Melt a little lard or other fat (not butter) in a pot roast or soup kettle. Add the meat and continue cooking until meat is browned lightly.

Take one small onion and cut in fine pieces. Add this and a crushed clove or garlic to the browned meat in the kettle. Add the shank bone from which you have cut the meat and enough hot water barely to cover. Add ½ cup of canned tomatoes, cover tightly and simmer until the meat is tender.

Remove the bone from the pot and add 2 cups of wide egg noodles. If additional water is needed, add sufficient to keep the noodles from sticking. Season with salt and cook for about 20 or 25 minutes, or until the noodles are tender. Serve with mashed turnips and red cinnamon apples.

The Meanderer

Finds Grapefruit By the Boatload—A Dinner From Farm Products Only—Alligator Pears More Plentiful.

Many of the grapefruit on Washington's breakfast tables this weekend have come from the boat that came into the Southwest market yesterday with a cargo from the Indian River district of Florida. Nearly 5,000 grapefruit were in this cargo, handled by a well-known fruit and vegetable dealer on Water street. Water transportation is unusual in shipping grapefruit, this merchant said, this particular boatload being the first in his experience. Estimates on the cost of the grapefruit place them at less than 5 cents each. The shopper who goes to this district, in other words, need not expect to pay more than 5 cents each for good quality grapefruit.

Citrus fruits have never been used in such plentitude in Washington as they have in the past two months, the fruit dealer mentioned above pointed out. This indulgence in fruit, particularly in oranges, has resulted from the demand for orange juice required in influenza cases. Oranges have been low priced and are continuing to stay at a reasonable cost. Many boxes of oranges arrived on the grapefruit boat.

Small chance, is there, for undernourishment among Washingtonians when the best country eggs are selling for as little as 20 cents a dozen and whole milk for 10 cents a quart? These prices on milk and eggs prevail today in a farm-to-home market in the upper Northwest section, where many residents may take advantage of them.

This farm-to-home market and others of its kind, have been attracting the attention of scores of buyers of food for the home. The Meanderer can give you three addresses of farm-to-home markets where wholesome foods from the farm are sold on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The enterprising manager of one of these markets prepared a dinner for guests this week, using products from the farm for the menu. "Lettuce was the only thing I needed for the dinner that I couldn't find in the market," the manager said. The Meanderer asked for this menu, thinking her readers would like to know its contents, so here it is:

Cream of chicken soup, fricasseed rabbit, mashed white potatoes, candied sweet potatoes, turnips, vegetable salad made of cabbage, peppers and gelatine, hot rolls, pears, cookies and mints. She estimates the cost of this menu to be not more than $3 for six persons.

Alligator pears have been reduced slightly in prices, lovers of this special fruit will be glad to know. The Meanderer can tell you where to find a whole box of them, which a group of friends might divide, for $3. The box contains from 14 to 18 pears, depending upon what size you desire.

These pears are found in the same food-selling place where you'll find the shelled black walnuts at 20 cents a pound—if you buy five pounds of them. This food house has ordered 1,000 pounds of the shelled nuts, so that no shopper will be disappointed.

Pineapples from Cuba, large and choice, are received in Washington regularly and sell at retail at low prices. Frequently they are priced at less than 30 cents each.

The market friend who supplied ways of preparing spring lamb to Meanderings readers is pleased with the interest in his offer, for which many women have written. The offer of lamb recipes is a standing one, so that any reader who yet wants to write for her copy of the recipes may do so. Recipes for Italian spaghetti and antipasto are still available also, if you will address the Market Meanderer, inclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

CONFECTION RECIPE WINS POST $5 PRIZE

"Divinity" Formula Sent in by Mrs. J. G. Brooks, of Sheridan Street.

This week's $5 recipe award was won by a formula submitted by Mrs. James G. Brooks, of 712 Sheridan street northwest, for "Divinity."

Her method of making this popular confection should be a welcome addition to recipe files.

The recipe follows:

DIVINITY.

(Awarded $5 Prize.)

3 pints of cane sugar
1 pint of Karo-red label
4 egg whites beaten stiff.

Boil sugar and Karo until it spins a thread. Then pour half on the beaten eggs. Set the rest on the stove 5 minutes. Then add 1 teaspoonful of salt and 1 teaspoon lemon and vanilla extra mixed and one cup of chopped pecans.

Beat until creamy and firm and white and make into a cake.

Cut in slices when cold. Use boiling hot water enough to dissolve the sugar. About 1½ cups.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DEAR MISS PIERCE—I am about 10 pounds underweight and am worried about my neck which is getting horribly thin and scrawny. What can I do to round it out?

MOLLY.

Dear Molly—First of all, I would suggest that you send a self-addressed envelope for my complete weight gaining regime so that you can gain weight generally. To round out the neck, practice dropping the head slowly forward on chest, then back as far as possible, then to the right and to the left, as far as possible. Do these night and morning, a few times each, increasing them each day until you are doing each ten times. Follow by massaging with the following cream: equal parts of lanolin, cocoa butter and warm olive oil. Melt the lanolin and cocoa butter in order to measure, pour the three mixtures into a clean container and allow to cool before using.

Dear Miss Pierce: Will you please tell me what to use to remove stains from under my finger nails?

TINY.

Dear Tiny: To remove stains under the nails, scrub them with a stiff nail brush and powdered pumice to which a few drops of peroxide have been added. Rinse and dry thoroughly and apply a little cream with an orange wood stick.

Dear Miss Pierce: How should eye shadow be applied correctly and what would be a good shade for me? I have blonde hair and gray eyes.

MISS T. M. O.

Dear Miss T. M. O.: With the index or middle finger, apply a dab of eye shadow to the center of the upper lid and blend outward. Most of the color should appear over the center of the lid and fade out so that it is practically imperceptible at the outer corners. A little oil or vaseline rubbed on the lids over the shadow is often effective. A blue or blue-grey shade would be flattering to your coloring.

ANNUAL FOOD SHOW WILL OPEN TONIGHT

More Than 120 Grocers of Capital Are Sponsors of Exposition.

The stage is set in the Washington Auditorium for the opening tonight of the second annual United Food Stores Exposition, presenting a diversified array of food products and exhibits of interest to the housewife. The show, opening at 7:30 o'clock, will continue through next week.

More than 120 independent Washington grocers are sponsoring the exhibit through their cooperative organization, the United Food Stores. Approximately 100 exhibitors are participating.

Members of the Board of District Commissioners and other high public officials, as well as a group of leading citizens, have been invited to attend the opening ceremonies, which will be marked by a reception and program of entertainment. Isaac Gans, former president of the Washington Chamber of Commrece, will preside.

Essentially a constructive and educational movement, the show will be featured by many exhibits designed to acquaint housewives and others with food manufacture and handling. Authorities in the domestic field will give demonstrations and talk on these subjects each day of the exhibit.

Decoration of the auditorium for the show has been completed, with exhibitors giving special attention to uniformity and harmony of colors to insure attractiveness. A series of contests, starting Monday afternoon with a baby competition, will feature the program, with prizes for winners.

Morris L. Kraft is president of the food stores ganization and chairman of the show committee. Other officers are Morris Vigderhouse, vice president; George Heider, treasurer; David Hornstein, secretary and general counsel; Sam Goldstein, manager. Alfred L. Stern is managing director of the show.

200 Children Get Ice Cream and Donate Shoes

Two hundred children had the double satisfaction of helping the needy and enjoying themselves when they took advantage of J. G. Nichols' offer to give every child donor to the cause of "The Little Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe" an ice cream cone.

Nichols, who is the proprietor of a pharmacy at 1909 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, turned over his collections to the little lady at 727 Seventeenth street northwest yesterday. More than 9,100 shoes have already been distributed, but there are more than 20,000 applications for men's and children's footwear on file, it was reported.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE opening of the new Vatican City ultra-short wave transmitter will be broadcast over WJSV and WRC between 10:30 and 11 o'clock this morning, weather permitting.

This transmitting post is not to be confused with HVJ, the regular Vatican station. The chief function of the new system is to eliminate the necessity for wire lines between the Pope's quarters and HVJ, which Senatore Marconi installed approximately a year ago at Vatican City.

The first event on the program will be the welcoming of his holiness to the radio station. This will be followed by an address by Signor Marconi. The inventor will explain his new short wave discovery and illustrate his points by a demonstration of the facilities established between the Vatican City and the Pope's villa at Castel Gandolfo.

At the conclusion of the experiments Pope Pius will address words of congratulation and thanks to Marconi. The broadcast will be concluded with the high pontifical blessing.

LILY PONS, who has been out of Metropolitan Opera casts for several weeks on account of illness, will be heard again when she sings the leading role in Bellini's "La Sonnambula," to be broadcast over WRC in its entirety, beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Tullio Serafin will conduct. The opera will be sung in Italian, and the cast will be as follows:

Amina.....Lily Pons
Elvino.....Giacomo Lauri-Volpi
Lisa.....Aida Doninelli
Count Rodolfo.....Ezio Pinza
Teresa, foster mother of Amina, Ina Bourskaya
Alessio, a villager....Louis D'Angelo
A Notary.....Giordano Paltrinieri

Radio Operator M. Hida, of the S. S. Oregon Maru, 1,000 miles out of San Francisco, Yokohama bound, will be advised by the Veteran Wireless Operators' Association banquet in New York tonight that he has been warded a certificate of merit for the outstanding part which he played toward the rescue of the survivors of the S. S. Nevada disaster last fall.

The Nevada ran aground and broke up in the Aleutian Islands with heavy loss of life. Mr. Hida picked up the S O S call from the Nevada and performed very valuable services in directing other ships to the rescue. The message will be flashed to Mr. Hida from the banquet table via Mackay Radio, and it is expected that his reply will be received within a very few minutes. Nobuo Fujimura, Consul of Japan at New York, will be present at the banquet to receive the award in Hida's behalf.

THE annual meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be broadcast from the Wardman Park Hotel over a national network tonight.

The principal speakers to be heard are Senator Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, chairman of the commission on pensions: Mrs. Consuelo De Coe, president of the national auxiliary, and Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N., retired, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The addresses and music by the United States Marine Band will be broadcast over WRC at 11:30 p. m.

Sir Harry Lauder, on his return to Glasgow from the United States, which trip, contrary to predictions, included no radio broadcasts, announced that he is going to make talkies of his most important songs as a historical record for a yearly exhibition in aid of charity.

"I believe that people will be willing to pay probably more to hear me a hundred years hence," he said.

A LETTER to the editor of World-Radio, the official organ of the British Broadcasting Corporation, from a listener in the heart of the Midlands, England, reports that United States reception is now almost commonplace in his home.

The most interesting fact about his report, however, is that he lists Station WJSV, Alexandria, Va., as the most dependable American station.

The list of stations regularly received includes WIOD, Miami Beach; WNAC, Boston; WCAU, Philadelphia; KSL, Salt Lake City; WRVA, Richmond; WPG, Atlantic City; KMOX, St. Louis; WBT, Charlotte; WTAM, Cleveland; WTIC, Hartford; WJZ, Springfield; WABC, New York; WWL, New Orleans; WGY, Schenectady; WJZ, New York; WOR, Newark; WLW, Cincinnati, and WEAF, New York. Other stations reported were LR4, Radio-Splendid, Buenos Aires, and WKAQ, San Juan, Porto Rico.

"I received WJSV, Alexandria, at fair strength at intervals the other night, when nothing intelligible could be heard from any other—not even WCAU," the writer concluded.

The modern American composer who won Nation-wide acclaim for his musical setting of "Emperor Jones" again takes the spotlight with another work to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the concert over the WJZ network at 8:15 p. m. Dr. Serge Koussevitzky has selected for this occasion Gruenberg's first magnum opus, Symphony No. 1 Walter Gieseking, noted concert pianist, also will be heard in a performance of the Mozart Concerto in C Major.

Debaters of Cambridge University, England, and Yale University will argue the question of war debts cancellation for listeners of two continents over the WEAF network, but not WRC, at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

"Travel light" is the motto of Charles Correll, better known as Andy, of "Amos 'n' Andy." Instead of dragging around a brief case or portfolio, Correll just jabs papers into his pockets. He always molds his radio script into a tight wad and carries it in a hip pocket.

THE Boswell sisters are probably the most superstitious radio team on the air. They are slowly recovering from their recent vaudeville tour. It was bad enough when they opened their tour on Friday, January 13, and news photographers rushed up to their hotel room, opened umbrellas, broke mirrors and placed step-ladders against the wall. Subsequently, a black cat crossed their paths in a station waiting-room, and in three cities they were assigned rooms on the thirteenth floor. In New York their thirteenth floor apartment is called "12A."

Bob White

The Old Philosopher

SAYS:

Question—Do you think it advisable for a young married couple to live with the "in-laws?"

Answer—No. There are certain conditions under which it is sometimes necessary to live with the family of "his or hern"—but, generally speaking, it is not advisable.

No one roof is large enough to take care of two families, however friendly may be the relationship. It should not be expected.

Two distinct generations are represented. No two generations are alike, either in their outlook on life nor in their persuasions. This being so, it is not likely that the older nor the younger will give away to a compromise. And it is this that will cause dissension.

Differences, too, are bound to come up between young people. There should be no third party to step in, particularly a relative.

If there is any way out, live alone ...you two...have your differences... (only vulgar people fight) and settle them. A better understanding will come out of it, and a closer knitting of your hearts will be the result.

Do not, however, neglect a mother or a lone father. Honor them... but do not allow them to come between husband and wife.

Extend to both groups of parents all the love and courtesy possible, but build your own nest, however small, and people it with your own hopes and your united hearts.

Bob White, the old philosopher, will answer an outstanding question each week day on this page. He is heard twice daily over WMAL, at 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Who's Who in Washington?

Now You Can Tell! Read the Correct Answers and Winners in the Educational Contest Attracting All Washington!

No. 1 What coffee is wrapped in Cellophane, used by over a quarter of a million people in Greater Washington, and is known as being "Just Wonderful?" This is the coffee that brings you the voice of Marguerite Cromwell every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening at 7:30 over Station WRC.

John H. Wilkins Co., 525 Rhode Island Ave. N.E.
(a) Wilkins Coffee.

No. 2 Washington is the home of the world's largest carpet and rug cleaners! It is a company noted first, for its practical knowledge gained through over a half century of experience, and for its use only of the most modern and efficient machinery and methods which leaves a rug, when cleaned by it, sweetly clean, renewed in appearance, free of germs, dust and dirt. Too, its new fireproof plant, especially designed for rug and carpet cleaning, assures one of safety in handling and storage. And all of this you may enjoy at the lowest prices for quality cleaning. Since the answer to this is so obvious, state if it has a new rug and carpet sales department in which one may select from a full range of carpetings in plain colors or pattern goods of all widths?

E. P. Hinkel & Co., Inc., 600 Rhode Island Ave. N.E.
(a) It has a department for the sale of new rugs and carpets.

No. 3 "Who's Who in Washington" would not be complete without the inclusion of this well and favorably known Men's and Young Men's Clothing business, whose fame is city wide . . . and more! Who doesn't know it! Tell you? Okay! It is a business made known generally by its Budget Plan which allows one to enjoy good clothes while conveniently paying for them, but, specifically, it has achieved familiarity chiefly through its Radio Program sponsored by ..... but that's telling you! You should know, for it has been on the air for 231 weeks. What and where is this store and its branches located? When and over what station does it broadcast? What two words personify the leader in its program? What down payment is required in using the Budget Plan of this business?

D. J. Kaufman, Inc., 1005 Penna. Ave. N.W.
(a) Branches, 1744 Penna. Ave. N.W. and 833 14th Street N.W.
(b) WMAL, 7:30 to 8:00 P. M.
(c) Radio Joe.
(d) One cent is Down Payment Requirement in using Budget Plan.

No. 4 There is an engraving establishment in Washington which is considered by all to be the leading house of its kind in the city. For many years it has produced a quality of workmanship in its own shop unsurpassed in design, good taste, individuality and, as may be attested by thousands, at a cost no higher than similar work elsewhere. It is a firm of producing engravers where engraving, both social and business, is a real art. Too, in its store are displayed the largest assortment of remembrance and greeting cards in Washington—you may choose from thousands! This establishment was founded in 1892 and bears the one word name of its directing owner. Which and where is it?

Brewood, 611 Twelfth St. N.W.

No. 5 Which Funeral Establishment in Washington, founded 1850, enjoys the unique distinction of having always been under the direction of its founder and his lineal descendants, thus assuring patrons of the tradition and experience which means so much in the direction of an appropriate funeral service. It has achieved a perfection in its service which price alone can not obtain, and yet there are those who feel its services are beyond their means. This can not be so, for records prove that of the last 1,000 funerals conducted by this firm, almost one-third have cost less than $300. One, therefore, need not be denied the service of this leading Funeral Director. It has no connection with any other firm in Washington.

Joseph Gawler's Sons, Inc., 1750-54 Penna. Ave. N.W.

No. 6 What firm of Sheet Metal Contractors and Gas Range Dealers and Distributors, established 26 years, located at 1802 Eleventh st. nw., and whose advertisement appears on page 171 of the classified telephone directory, specialize in the installation of air conditioning systems, skylights, guttering, spouting, warm air, hot water, steam and vapor heating for architects, contractors and individual home owners? Too, it repairs all makes of gas ranges, all types of heating plants, and all kinds of roofs. It is also known as the exclusive distributor in Washington of "The Most Beautiful Gas Range in America," models of which are now displayed in its windows and show rooms. It is "tomorrow's range for today's most modern housewife"—the range that is purchased by more users than any other! Now that this sketch is so easy of identification, and can't be missed, give in addition to firm name and address, the names of the two ranges displayed in the windows of the location given above. (No phone information.)

The Daly-Hopper Co., Inc., 1802 Eleventh St. N.W.
(a) Beauty Range.
Beauty Range, Junior.

No. 7 What business and secretarial school, occupying the second floor of a building on a prominent street corner of Northwest Washington, is said to have the most ideally lighted and ventilated schoolrooms in the city; gives individual attention and instruction, making entrance possible at any time, and is known as "A Select School for Particular People?" In its day and night classes now forming for its mid-winter session, you will find the price of attendance to be on the lowest cost level consistent with efficiency, with a unique plan of assuring positions to its graduates. Where is this school located and who is the principal?

Poteet's Business College, 1362 Eye St. N.W.
(a) Walter C. Poteet, Principal.

No. 8 There is an awning company in Washington at which only the best may be had—and still its customers pay only a just and fair price for its work. It entertains the capital idea that to merit your confidence, its awnings must be made of the grade of canvas you pay for, and that the hardware used in their erection must endure and "stay put." The style element essential to proper beautification through use of awnings is here well understood and always given. Thus, in the end, you profit most by patronizing this company . . . which is located on a prominent north and south thoroughfare and whose name, in part, is in this sketch. Which and where is it? Who is its proprietor?

Capital Awning Co., 1503 N. Capitol St.
(a) William E. Russell, Proprietor.

No. 9 Ask any auto dealer, service station or garage man to tell you the firm known as "The Parts People," the largest organization of its kind in Washington, whose business is the supplying of automobile replacement parts, such as Perfect Circle Piston Rings, Champion Spark Plugs, Rarbestos Brake Lining and over 300 other nationally advertised, standard makes of parts, service station and garage equipment. This company has recently supplemented its business with the addition of the distributorship of Atwater-Kent Radios, than which there is none superior and more generally accepted, where tone, reception, appearance, &c., are desired. Can you name a dealer who sells Atwater-Kent? And, of course, you can give the name and address of "The Parts People."

Bearings Sales Corporation, 1905-9 Fourteenth St. N.W.
(a) Name of Dealer selling Atwater-Kent Radios required.

No. 10 The correct identification of this sketch may enable you to effect insurance savings even greater than the prizes given in the contest. What and where is the largest agency in Washington writing fire, automobile, plate glass and other forms of insurance at an average saving of 25 per cent to its policyholders? It represents a select group of Mutual companies, which have been in business an average of 51 years and which have total assets of nearly $83,000,000. It maintains its own loss department and effects prompt settlement of claims through its own office.

The Mutual Insurance Agency, Inc., 1301 H St. N.W.

No. 11 Name and locate two stores of the same ownership which have been long famous for delicious Caramels especially, and for Bon Bons, Chocolates and other Candies likewise. These two shops should not be confused with any other, for each is a part of the original business and at each only may their Candies of old-time goodness be found. Since you will more than likely be in the shopping district during this contest, why not drop in and verify this sketch in person, enjoy the lunches served at either store, or order your favorite candy. And when you do, find out and give the year date in which the business was established. They'll tell you!

The Original Velati's, cor. 9th & G Sts. N.W., or 620 9th St. and 609 14th St. N.W.
(a) Established 1866.

No. 12 This number pertains to a certain storage company founded in Washington in 1898. It specializes in local and long distance furniture removals, long distance hauling, packing, &c., and maintains an absolutely fireproof warehouse for the safe storage of household effects, rugs, draperies and other articles. Especial provisions are made for particularly precious things, such as heirlooms and silver. This company is an agent for Allied Van Lines, a Nation-wide organization of furniture forwarders, whose reputation is most trustworthy. Which company is it and where is it located? Does this company rent Invalid Chairs and folding chairs for individual, business and institutional use? (Better find out!)

United States Storage Co., Inc., 418-20 10th St. N.W.
(a) It does rent chairs.

No. 13 Number thirteen position in Who's Who is considered by some to be unlucky and it may be for you if, in locating the name and address which fits this sketch, your brakes fail to hold. Well, out Fourteenth street is a company which is an Official AAA Station for testing, adjusting and renewing your brakes if needed. Auto Brakes can not properly be adjusted by hand . . . here a faultless machine accurately records the action of each wheel—and each is adjusted in unison with the other. This firm k-n-o-w-s brakes, it e-x-p-e-r-t-l-y adjusts them and gives you certain knowledge your brakes will hold. It offers the famous Brake Lining whose name commences with "A" and ends with "O." What is this name? What and where is this company?

Norris & Young, Inc., 2018-20 14th St. N.W.
(a) Alltraffic Brake Lining.

No. 14 This is the Washington organization which achieved success thru the use of the laundry method in which "the net gets the wear" "and the clothes get the wash," the "net result" being that your clothes get longer wear. And this service in the end costs not one cent more than you are now paying upon a given class of work! Surely you know it, or have heard its work praised by your neighborhood friends . . . but do you know that within the past year it has enlarged its service to include dry cleaning? It has . . . and it makes this unusual statement—"We guarantee, for your protection, not to shrink any fabric, not to fade any color, to shape garments expertly, to make minor repairs at no extra cost, to leave articles odorless." That is some guarantee to live up to . . . but it does it!! What is this laundry's name and address—its phone number?

Manhattan Laundry Corporation. 1330-46 Florida Ave. N.W.
(a) Telephone — Decatur 1120.

No. 15 A business that survives nearly one hundred years must possess unusual ability to serve its customers and here is a coal company which has done it! Founded in 1835, it is known as Washington's Oldest Coal Merchants. It offers only the best grades of coal—slow-burning, heat-giving coals which are economical, clean and free of slate or dirt. This company maintains a Combustion Department thru which it advises its customers of the best coal for their individual needs, and how most economically to run their furnaces. Which and where is it?

William King & Son, 1151 16th St. N.W.

No. 16 There is a flour made here in Washington from a special growth of wheat that is best adapted to kitchen facilities. What is the name of this flour; where is the mill in which it is made located; what is the name of the milling company, and name a store near your home that sells it?

Wilkins - Rogers Milling Co., Inc., 3261 K St. N.W.
(a) Washington Flour.
(b) Name of store selling Washington Flour also required.

No. 17 What and where is the well known bank in Washington which makes a specialty of lending to individuals who need money for useful and constructive purposes and allows them to repay their loans over a period of twelve months or less in equal monthly or weekly deposits? This bank in the past 7¾ years has made over 66,000 loans on the above basis. It has over 7,000 customers who are borrowers, and conducts a Savings Department for nonborrowers, and pays 4 per cent interest on savings accounts in such department. "Save where you can borrow."

The Morris Plan Bank of Washington, 1408 H St. N.W.

No. 18 This is "Washington's First Fuel Oil Distributor" and today one of the foremost, servicing also oil-burner equipment. It has grown steadily, due to full gallonage delivery, quickly and without damage to property. Its oil is notable for its clean burning, heat-giving qualities. Of course, you know it! But do you know it also distributes Sterling Motor Oil (Sterling holds Permit No. 1 of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association), that rich motor lubricant of uniform quality and correct viscosity, available at many Service Stations and Garages throughout the District? Its "The Best Oil in Any Case," priced at only 30 cents per quart. Name a retail dealer handling this better oil—Sterling! (The identity of this company may be easily established by consulting directories, so please don't phone unless compelled to do so.)

Dome Oil Co., Inc., 6925-27 Blair Rd. N.W.
(a) Name of retail dealer selling Sterling Oil also required.

No. 19 There is baked in Washington, by a strictly Washington Bakery, an unusually fine bread made only from the purest ingredients. Its most popular loaf is a ready-to-serve bread, sliced for your convenience; it is packed in a moisture-proof, waxed wrapper upon which is printed its name, composed of two words, the first commencing with "D" and ending with "E," the other with "R" and ending with "K." What is this name? A hint? Surely! It's baked by the same baker whose special pound cake comes to you wrapped in cellophane around which is a band of green and white ribbon paper bearing its name. Name the bakery, its address, and name one retailer who sells its bread or cakes.

Dorsch's Bakery, 631-41 S Street N.W.
(a) Dorsch's Holsum.
(b) Name of one retail dealer selling Dorsch's Holsum Bread also required.

No. 20 What is the name of and where is located that exclusive china store to which, since 1899, many Washingtonians and others have been going for the finest in decorated, hand-painted china? You'll find it not far from the city's main shopping street, just a few steps north. There is no other store in Washington comparable to it for here artists in china painting and decorating do the work on the premises, executing special orders when desired. Undecorated pieces are obtainable as well as supplies for those who make a hobby of this fascinating art. If the unusual, the beautiful is wanted, you'll find it here.

Sherratt's China Art Store.
608 13th St. N.W.

EMERGING after a week from the deluge of answers to The Washington Post's "Who's Who in Washington" Contest with which all Washington, it seemed, had overwhelmed them, the board of judges yesterday determined that no one contestant had the answers 100 per cent correct.

However, the solution sent in by Mrs. A. L. Lambert, 3216 Twenty-second street northeast, varied only in a few slight details from being totally correct, and the first prize of $100 has subsequently been awarded to her.

Diligently as the answers were judged with no regard to clock or daylight either, it seemed for a time as though the task would have no end. For the days following the announcement of the contest on Monday, January 30, each postman and each passing hour brought more replies. The answers were being judged diligently after the close of the contest. Strict orders had been issued that each answer receive equal and accurate concentration. As the task progressed it grew more difficult—and greater. The Washington Post management had insisted that each answer from the contestants be read with the last degree of thoroughness, thus assuring every contestant an equal opportunity.

It was evident that the most painstaking accuracy must necessarily be considered. It was set up as an ideal that the first prize winner be 100 per cent correct. Every answer was scanned with this ideal in mind. Finally it was seen that no set of answers was totally correct. This necessitated a process of elimination in which Mrs. Lambert won first prize. Her list showed careful identification of the firms described, with no omissions of the products made or sold, or such special information as was required. But she failed in several important essentials in being wholly correct. The second prize goes to Harold Harwood, 1327 Girard street northwest. His mistakes were slightly greater, but his answer was good enough to win second prize. Mrs. A. M. King, 704 Duke street, Alexandria, Va., is the winner of the third prize. Her answer was essentially correct, but several determining mistakes were made. The remaining 12 prize winners had errors in increasing numbers in their lists, but won prizes in the amounts named below.

How the Answers Were Judged

A master list, correct in every detail, was first made. Its accuracy was unquestioned as the solution to each paragraph was supplied to The Washington Post by those authorized to enter their businesses in the competition. Each answer received from a contestant was compared against this list . . . each variation where pertinent was counted against the submitted solution. In this manner, where essential questions were left unanswered, or information given was not sufficiently complete, each solution was graded. Obviously the one having the least mistakes was considered best by the judges.

It is evident in many answers that many contestants had the right firms in mind, but disregarded the addresses, or failed to give the extra information. Several otherwise splendid lists overlooked certain firms entirely, perhaps forgetting to transcribe them from notes. In a great number of cases had the contestants been more careful they probably would have been numbered among the prize winners. One of the most common mistakes noted was the failure to give changed addresses and changed firm names of the business houses entered and failure to name products or other information asked.

A demonstration of the power of advertising could not be more convincing. It showed the public of Washington and nearby towns had learned very thoroughly the names, propositions and descriptions of many firms.

First Prize—$100
Mrs. A. L. Lambert, 3216 22d St. N.E.

Second Prize—$50
Harold Harwood, 1327 Girard St. N.W.

Third Prize—$25
Mrs. A. M. King, 704 Duke St., Alexandria, Va.

Fourth Prize—$10
Dr. J. A. Rolls, 4904 Georgia Ave. N.W.

Fifth Prize—$5
L. G. Koepfle, 722 Chesapeake Ave., Silver Spring, Md.

Prizes of $1 Each Awarded the Following Ten Persons:

Joseph H. Barkmeier, 5112 Conn. Ave. N.W.
M. F. Nystom, 6002 34th Place N.W.
Miss Donie P. Hatch, 1523 Monroe St. N.W.
Wilbur W. Seay, 211 8th St. S.E.
Florence L. Hall, Kenesaw Apts., 16th & Irving
T. Weston Scott, 19 Barney St. Brentwood, Md.
John C. McFall, 1835 B St. S.E.
Mrs. W. L. Rice, 4906 3d St. N.W.
Chas. R. Ourand, 1339 Childress St. N.E.
Dorothy L. Smith, 1347 Oak St. N.W.

THE BOARD OF JUDGES

of this contest were well known business men, wholly familiar with the city and its various businesses. Assisted by clerks, they have determined the nearest correct answers submitted. Their decision is final as set forth in the rules of the contest.

Attention is invited to changed copy in sketch Number 34 which now reads correctly. As first run a typographical error appeared; however, the products of this company were so well known that no mistake was made in submission of answers because of error.

No. 21 What and where is the Ford Sales and Service Company, located west of Connecticut Avenue, that maintains the greatest floor space in order properly to display and service Ford pleasure cars and trucks? It is especially interested in service after the sale which in part accounts for its increasing business, yet its convenience of location draws many for it is easily accessible to all motorists. Everything necessary to Ford servicing may here be found with factory trained mechanics ready to give instant service. Its storage facilities and experience in the repair and maintenance of all makes of cars, draw many motorists other than Ford owners to its shop. It is an official AAA Station. Who is the Manager of this organization? What is the price F. O. B. of the least expensive new Ford car sold here? It is suggested you call in person.

Nolan Motor Co., Inc., 1111 18th St. N.W.
(a) W. J. Nolan, Manager.
(b) $460.

No. 22 In this number, you should not find it difficult to name and locate "Who's Who in Washington in Wall Paper and Paints." Here is a house that recently celebrated its Silver Anniversary, the house that "Sets the Styles" and is known as the largest wall paper merchants, not only in Washington, but in this section. In either of its two stores in this city one may find the best in wall papers, both imported and domestic—and a paper that will fit your purse. For distinction, variety of design, and a knowing service you'll surely want to locate this firm. Remember, too, that its papers are sun-tested and light resisting. They will readily cooperate with your decorator, contractor and painter on proper selections. It is also the Washington distributor of Lucas Paints, Varnishes and Enamels—100 per cent pure and water free.

Capital Wall Paper Co., 1221-23 E St. N.W., & 1022-24 7th St. N.W.

No. 23 Within a block or so of the downtown shopping district, on a convenient southeast corner, is located one of Washington's finest Service Stations. From it is distributed, sold and serviced the "tire that never sets smooth," the tire that "makes a washboard road a boulevard." "How?" you ask. Simply this—In place of these tires being built with one tread alone, layer upon layer (two or three) of anti-skid tread is moulded upon the carcas or framework with the result that when one tread wears away another appears to give you continued safety and long wear. It is easily the safest tire ever built, and is fully protected by patents . . . so its qualities are exclusively to be found only in tires distributed from this One-Stop Service Station. What tire is alluded to? What is the name of the place that distributes it and their address.

Lehman's Super Service Station, S.E. Cor. 12th & K Sts. N.W.
(a) Seiberling Tire.

No. 24 1933 marks the 90th year of this leading local bottler of carbonated beverages. . . . Their six flavors and Ginger Ale, both Golden and Pale Dry, were the first in Washington to be provided in full quart, 32-ounce bottles, with the label marked "Since 1843." Known as Washington's oldest bottlers, they also provide quality soft drinks in the handy nickel size. Give the label name of ..... Beverages, and the name of a dealer in your neighborhood dispensing them. . . .

Samuel C. Palmer Co., Inc., 1066 Wisconsin Ave. N.W.
(a) "Palmer" Beverages.
(b) Name of a dealer dispensing Palmer Beverages also required.

No. 25 What prominent piano house, selling both radios and pianos, is now featuring a new type of damp-proofed apartment grand piano? What is the two-word, nine letter name of this piano? You should look for the establishment located on a convenient northeast corner in the shopping area—whose reputation for fine musical merchandise has led hundreds to become its customers for at it, too, may be had low terms of extended payments on their famous Budget Plan.

Arthur Jordan Piano Co., 1239 G Street N.W.
(a) Cable & Sons.

No. 26 What Optometrist, generally conceded to be the best known in Washington, uses the slogan, "See —— and See Better!" a meaningful phrase when it is considered that nearly 100,000 persons know it to be true—this establishment having made approximately that number of eye examinations since 1898. This Optometrist uses only the most modern scientific instruments for the determination of proper corrections for defective vision. If glasses are not needed you are honestly told so, but if you do require them, they are made on the premises by trained specialists under the direct supervision of the examiner. The ability of this Optometrist to fit becoming glasses to every customer is very well known. Where is this Optometrist located?

Edwin H. Etz, Inc., 1217 G St. N.W.

No. 27 Name and locate the Dairy Institution that for more than half a century has been a 100% Independent Washington Industry . . . repeatedly receiving each and every High Honor Rating that can be awarded by the exacting District of Columbia Health Department. This Dairy's Plant is not only one of the finest in America, but one of the very finest in the world . . . its equipment and methods being so modern and scientific that from Dairy farm to your door every possible precaution is taken to assure the purest, richest Milk possible to produce. Every Washingtonian has a right to be proud of this great institution which is justly called "Washington's Own Dairy." No. 28 A certain company in Washington handling coal, fuel oil and building materials. It is the only company having three fuel oil depots located at different points in and around Washington. This company handles a famous anthracite coal . . . the only coal actually bearing a trademark on the coal itself. In addition to giving the name and main office address of this company, give the trademark name of the anthracite above described.

Griffith-Consumers Company, 1319 G Street N.W.
(a) "blue coal."

No. 29 "Every modern facility for the safe handling and care of household treasures" is afforded by a well-known storage company, whose plant is located on the corner of a busy thoroughfare in the heart of the Northwest residential section, just a block west of Sixteenth Street. The Board of Directors of this company is composed of fourteen prominent business men. Official recognition as the safest place in Washington where household goods and personal effects may be stored and protected from the hazards of fire is given to its main building by the Underwriters Association of the District of Columbia through the award of the lowest fire insurance rates. The color design used on its fleet of modern motor vans is comprised of a dark blue background with bright red belt and letters of gold.

Federal Storage Company, 1707 Florida Ave. N.W.

No. 30 What is the name of and where is located Washington's Oldest Paint Store?—an establishment whose reputation of 87 years is in every can. It features a famous line of Paints, Varnishes, Stains and Enamels whose name commences with the letter "P"—(this letter is also in the name of the firm). What is this name? Contestants and others are invited to its show rooms which are in a shopping area where parking is easily to be found and, better still, men who know paint, its uses, and are eager to advise you on your requirements. It is located one-half block from a famous avenue and a large department store. The numerical total of this company's telephone number is six.

Stocks' Steadiness Yields After Steel Tonnage Report

Market Closes Lower as Sales Volume Drops to 753,833 Shares.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The stock market's record of improvement this week was marred by a slight setback today, though trading again slackened as quotations declined. Price movements were mostly narrow, leaning toward steadiness until noon, when U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage report made for some unsettlement. Rails tried an afternoon rally, but the list was more interested in heaviness of tobacco issues and followed that trend rather than the carriers. Also, wheat reacted.

Steels softened toward the close, presumably because the industry's leading unit had dipped deeper into backlog last month than had been anticipated. Unfilled orders of U. S. Steel on January 31 set a low record for the tabulation, thus completing erasure of what had been gained last August, September and October. Other market news seemed of little immediate significance; there were several regular dividend declarations and some cheerful comment by the mercantile reviews.

Wall street had to fall back on the old rumor of impending cigarette price reductions to explain the fall of tobacco shares. Rumors had it that the revision might be announced early next week. Undoubtedly pressure from shorts was a factor in the decline for this group, which was traded actively. American Tobacco B and Liggett & Myers B lost about 2 points each, while Lorillard yielded nearly 1.

U. S. Steel common and preferred, Allied Chemical, Harvester, American Can, Public Service of New Jersey, Sears Roebuck, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas and Du Pont finished from fractions to a point lower. Gold shares were firm, but quiet. Some rails closed at slight concessions, but that section of the market was steadier than most others. American Telephone was comforted by President Gifford's remarks on dividends in his annual statement to shareholders, Wall street interpretating this comment to mean that the company would be in no hurry about throwing overboard the present rate, at least so long as reserves remained substantial and were not otherwise needed. General Motors was active, but little changed. Total sales for the day totaled 753,833 shares.

Loans to Brokers Down $32,000,000

Advances for Week Total $422,000,000; Under 1932 Period.

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Reserve member banks for the week ending February 8, were announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday as $422,000,000, a decrease of $32,000,000 from the preceding week.

The loans for the week ending February 10, 1932, were $486,000,000. The distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

	Feb.8	Feb.1	Feb.10
*For own account	$405	$438	$401
*For account of out-of-town banks	11	11	78
*For accounts of others	6	5	7

*In millions.

Stocks.

A slight setback marred the upward trend of the past four days. Steadiness yielded to an average loss of eight-tenths of a point. The steel tonnage decline was blamed. Sales volume fell off to 753,833 shares.

Bonds.

The forward movement early in the session narrowed, and loans closed with an average loss of one-tenth of a point. Profit-taking caused the decline. Sales dropped to $10,435,000.

Curb.

Profit-taking halted the rally and caused a loss in prices. Sales decreased to 140,000 shares. Trading was confined largely to about twenty issues.

Wheat.

Lessened confidence in wheat crop damage by cold weather curtailed speculative buying and sent prices down. Enlarged Argentine and Australian shipments also constituted a bearish feature. Other grains lost. May wheat sold at 47⅝@47½ cents.

Cotton.

Gains up to 50 cents per bale were trimmed to 3 to 6 points. March closed at 6.14. Liverpool reported an optimistic tone, with continental and Bombay buying.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

BONDS' EARLY RISES TRIMMED BY LOSSES

Market Down One-Tenth at Close; Sales Cut to $10,435,000.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Bonds continued to move forward today but over a considerably narrower path than yesterday. Profit-taking brought some resistance to the upswing in secondary rails and other parts of the list were irregular.

Dealings amounted to $10,435,000, compared with $13,061,000 on Thursday, the high water mark for the week. On the composite average the market was one-tenth of a point lower.

A fair number of the rails, including a liberal sprinkling of the second grade issues which had shown lively progress in the last few days, extended their gains from 1 to 5 points. Within this group were several loans of the Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line and Illinois Central. There were a few other carrier issues which encountered air pockets and fell sharply. Chicago & Northwestern 3½s yielded more than 3 points.

Domestic industrial issues displayed a mixed trend with signs of strength in oils and miscellaneous issues, including Allis Chalmers 5s, American Cyanamid 5s and Bush Terminal 5s. Utilities were similarly uneven in their price movements, but gains again outnumbered declines in the better grade descriptions.

It was another day of comparative heaviness for U. S. Governments, with losses in the Liberty Fourth 4¼s and Treasury 3¾s running to about 3-16 of a point.

Foreign obligations were irregular, with an easier trend in the German, Australian and Canadian groups.

Banks in Akron Reduce Interest on Mortgages

Akron, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The five bank members of the Akron Clearing House Association today announced reduction of the mortgage interest rate from 7 to 6 per cent. The reduction applies to all 7 per cent mortgages held by the banks provided interest and taxes have been paid up to the beginning of the current interest period. It means a saving of more than a quarter of a million dollars to Akron working men and women who are buying their homes, George W. Merz, president of the Clearing House said.

The action is the first of this kind taken by any organized clearing house in Ohio, bank officials said. The Clearing House's five member banks are the only commercial banks in the city.

Increased Shipment of Iron Ore Forecast in '33 Trade

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—With iron ore stocks at Lake Erie docks and consuming furnaces nearly 7,000,000 tons lower than a year ago, an increase this year in ore movements from Lake Superior mines was forecast in the trade today.

J. F. Progett, of Daily Metal Trade, announced that a survey of reliable estimates "indicates that lake ore shipments this year will range between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 tons," or around 10 per cent of the record movement of 65,000,000 tons in 1929.

Shipments last year were 3,567,000 tons, the lowest for any year since 1886.

Figures given out by W. L. Tinker, secretary of the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association, show that on January 1 there were 31,489,000 tons of ore at Lake Erie docks and furnaces, compared to 38,000,000 tons a year ago.

Despite the lower reserve now than a year ago, however, Tinker estimated that by May 1 there will be 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 tons more than the 20,000,000 tons normally on hand at that time on the lower lakes.

Consumption in December was only 630,000 tons, and it is estimated that no more than 3,200,000 tons will be used from December 1 to May 1.

Forecast of an increase in ore movements over last year is not based on any important expansion in pig iron and steel production, Progett said: rather, "the ore that is moved will be to relieve distress situations in leases, to get ore out of stock piles where it is heavily taxed, and to provide certain grades to consumers for evening up mixtures."

In addition to stocks at lower lake docks and furnaces, stock piles in the iron ranges are being increased through part-time unemployment relief operations for 9,000 mine workers in the Lake Superior region, Progett said, on May 1, 1932, these northern stock piles totaled 15,015,000 tons and this year are expected to reach 18,000,000 tons.

A. H. Ferbert, vice president of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., largest operator of bulk carriers on the lakes, today declined to estimate at this early date the number of company boats that will be operated this season.

Pickands Mather & Co., second largest operator, also declined to commit themselves.

Orders for Steel Down 69,496 Tons

January's Unfilled Quota Is 1,898,644 Units; Record Broken.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 69,496 tons in January to a total of 1,898,644 tons, the corporation announced today. In December tonnage decreased 161 tons.

In the past ten years the corporation has reported a majority of gains in January backlog. Last year the backlog was down and losses were also reported in 1927 and 1928, but in other years of the decade the first month showed improvement.

Wall street had had some expectation of a gain for last month, based on indications of improvement in steel buying and more active mill operations. Unfilled orders rose in only three months last year, advances being reported for August, September and October. The decrease brought the corporation's backlog to a new record low. On January 31, 1932, unfilled orders stood at 2,648,150 tons.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—No announcement was made concerning the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, now at 2½ per cent, following the weekly meeting of directors today.

Hops Prices Quiet.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Hops, quiet, unchanged.

New Record Made By Bank Clearings

Week's Increase Shown for First Time in Two Years.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Bank clearings for the past week showed a gain over the like week of a year ago for the first time in more than two years, according to the weekly tabulation of R. G. Dun & Co. Clearings in the country's leading centers totaled $4,717,171,000, or 2.6 per cent above the corresponding 1931 week. The gain occurred entirely in New York City, where clearings were up 9.1 per cent, compared to last year, while outside centers reported a decline in clearings of 12.2 per cent.

This tabulation's comparison with a year previously was somewhat distorted by the fact that the week ended on Wednesday this year included the February 1 settlements, which was not true a year previously. The New York figures also reflected in part recent bond financing.

Nevertheless, bankers said the favorable comparison was distinctly encouraging, and indicated a decidedly more hopeful tendency than last year at this time, when clearings were contracting rapidly. The volume of bank clearings is used to a considerable degree as a measure of commercial and general business activity, although statisticians usually take the clearings outside of New York City for this purpose.

PROFIT-TAKING CUTS OFF CURB'S UPTURN

Trading Is Confined to Score of Issues; Turnover, 140,000 Shares.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Curb Market softened in spots today as its modest rally of recent sessions attracted profit-taking.

The turnover was 140,000 shares, or a little less than yesterday's. As a matter of fact, activity was largely restricted to a score of issues, leaving the rest of the list extremely quiet.

In the utilities, losses of fractions to a point were registered in American Gas & Electric, American & Foreign Power warrants, Commonwealth Edison, and Electric Bond & Share common and preferred. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore dipped a point, then recovered.

Oils eased but slightly, with Gulf and Humble losing fractions, while Indiana was steady. This group may have been helped by talk of a restoration of part of the recent slash in Mid Continent crude prices.

In the mining group, New Jersey Zinc gained a point in a small turnover, possibly in response to its earnings statement, showing 1932 net of $1.02 a share, against $1.55 in 1931. Bullish operations reappeared in some of the gold mining issues, notably Pioneer, a low-priced issue which rose a small fraction to make a new high for the move. Lake Shore was firm. Newmont Mining sagged in a fraction.

Industrials were mixed. Glen Alden Coal rose a fraction, probably reflecting the pickup in fuel movement incident to colder weather. Niles Bement Pond was also firm. Deere sagged a small fraction and the Tubize issues were rather heavy.

Second Test Shipment Of Wheat Denied Favor

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Feb. 10 (A.P.). A second test shipment of Canadian wheat from New York to Liverpool sent on the steamer Britannic a month ago has been refused the preference of 6 cents a bushel created by the Ottawa conference agreement, a cable from the Liverpool consignees said today.

Customs authorities, the cable said, ruled that the shipment did not comply with the regulations under which the preference was granted. A similar ruling was made on the first test shipment last December.

Crude Oil Averages.

German Steamship Line Opens Mexico Service

Mexico City, Feb. 10 (SIPA).—After seven years without direct steamship connections between Mexico and Germany, the Hamburg-American Line announces that a new monthly service will be started. The motor-driven ship Orinoco, with a displacement of 14,500 tons and having a cruising speed of 19 knots an hour, will be used on the run.

If the volume of passengers and freight warrant, the line's officials informed the Mexican government, another vessel and a bimonthly service would be inaugurated.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The country's gold stocks had a net gain of $1,649,600 today. A reduction through an increase of $967,400 in foreign earmarkings was more than offset by imports of $97,500 from Chile, $773,500 from England and $876,000 from China, the latter shipment being received at San Francisco.

Announcement that the Bank of England had bought $14,582,000 of gold at par of exchange led to the assumption here that this represented most of the $15,999,900 in gold placed under foreign earmark here yesterday. If so, this was the fourth recent purchase of gold by the British bank, making an aggregate of about $50,000,000 acquired since early January. Thus the bank has recovered all but some $45,000,000 of the $95,500,000 December debt payment to the United States.

COTTON PRICES GAIN IN SPITE OF LOSSES

March Sells at 6.14 as General Market Rises 3 to 6 Points.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Cotton closed slightly higher today, but the market gave up a large part of a 30-cent a bale advance made in the early trading. The close was steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

The opening was 6 to 9 points higher in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables and further buying through trade and commission houses.

Brokers with Liverpool and continental connections were also buying, and moderate offerings were readily absorbed with active months showing net gains of 9 to 13 points during the forenoon. This movement carried prices into new high ground for the week, March selling up to 6.14 and July to 6.40.

Selling became more active in the last hour, with March easing to 6.06 and July to 6.31. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lows.

At today's high May contracts were approximately $2 per bale above the low price touched last Monday, and the reactions which followed were attributed partly to an easier technical position.

The New York Cotton Exchange service estimates domestic consumption for January at 480,000 bales against 435,000 last year. Liverpool cables reported a more optimistic tone in that market with continental and Bombay buying, and said there was more inquiry for cotton goods in Manchester. Exports today, 19,862, making 5,297,152 so far this season. Port receipts, 33,887; U. S. port stocks, 4,708,672.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was irregular today. March was lower under scattered liquidation, and later deliveries held comparatively steady on covering influenced by the steadiness of cotton and hogs which offset the slightly easier trend of lard and grains.

Sales were 4 contracts, or 800 barrels. Closing prices were unchanged to 5 points net lower. The January consumption report will be issued tomorrow, and will compare with a disappearance of 184,208 barrels in December and 225,580 in January last year. Bleachable spot closed 3.80; March, 3.70; May, 3.83; July 3.96; September, 4.05.

Kentucky Tobacco Prices Advanced

Volume of Sales Falls Off From Turnover in 1932 Period.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Kentucky warehouses sold 170,142,312 pounds of tobacco of all types during January for $18,278,400.46, or an average of $10.74 per hundred pounds, Eugene Flowers, commissioner of agriculture, reported today. During the same month of 1932 the warehouses sold 205,689,591 pounds of tobacco of all types for $15,897,475.83, or an average of $7.73 per hundred pounds.

The general average for January sales fell off from December when 78,029,705 pounds of leaf of all types were sold for $10,142,985, or an average of $12.99 per hundred.

The sales for January included 143,162,612 pounds of Burley for $17,140,298.90, or an average of $11.97 per hundred pounds. In January of 1932, 170,701,400 pounds of Burley were sold for $14,616,321.11, or an average of $8.56. During December 73,631,805 pounds of Burley brought $9,949,424.68, or an average of $13.51.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was quieter with business dull. Industrials improved and gilt-edged securities recovered early losses, but gold mining issues relapsed on profit taking. Other sections were easy and the market closed irregular.

Paris—A good tone prevailed on the bourse. French issues benefiting by the unfavorable tone of foreign markets, while international issues was counteracted by liquidation. Heaviness also prevailed in the young bonds. The closing was steady.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were irregular and the closing was stronger.

WHEAT VALUES SINK AS BUYING SLACKENS

Speculators Weaken as Cold Wave Loss Is Doubted; Other Grains Cut.

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Lessened confidence of speculators who had bought wheat on reports of crop damage from abnormal weather led to late downturns of grain values today.

Enlarged shipments of wheat from Argentina and Australia had a contributing bearish effect. The two countries have put 11,591,000 bushels afloat this week, compared with 8,631,000 last week, and 9,743,000 a year ago.

Wheat closed easy, ¼ to ½ under yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅛ down; oats, unchanged to a shade lower, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents off.

Price Sagging Begins.

Sagging tendencies that developed in wheat prices came after early fractional gains which were due more to dearth of offerings than to any aggressive demand. Some trade reports said the market was sensitive to likelihood of smaller supplies, as suggested by unfavorable domestic crop conditions in important areas. The rank and file of operators however, appeared to lean more and more to the view that it was necessary to wait for growing weather to disclose the real extent of wheat damage from winter killing.

An authoritative unofficial summary of crop reports today said that where snow covering was heavy, the crop losses to domestic winter wheat should be relatively small. On the other hand, there was likelihood serious injury to wheat would be revealed in various parts of the belt, especially the West, the Southwest and the Ohio Valley. It was added that a part of the movement of domestic wheat to terminal markets of late represented grain going to mills rather than fresh receipts from the country.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Removal of hedges on 947,000 bushels of corn burned in a Chicago elevator fire last night was a sustaining factor.

Provisions eased at the last owing to scattered selling. A big increase of the German tariff on lard was construed as bearish.

Conversion Loan Plan Is Studied by Canada

Montreal, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Montreal Herald said today that negotiations have been going on for the past week preparatory to the announcement of a conversion loan which probably will affect $2,000,000,000 in Canadian government bonds.

UNITED CORPORATION DIVIDENDS REGULAR

Beech-Nut Packing to Pay Usual Return; Zinc Net Is Less.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—United Corporation, Public Utility holding company, today declared regular quarterly dividends of 10 cents on the common and 75 cents on the preferred stocks, payable April 1 to shares of record February 24.

Beech-Nut Packing Co. today declared a regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, payable April 1 to shares of record March 13.

American Express Co. reports 1932 net income of $1,086,802, equal to $6.04 a share, against $1,100,942, or $6.12 a share in 1931.

New Jersey Zinc Co. had 1932 net income of $2,013,120, equal to $1.02 a share, compared with $3,051,569, or $1.55 a share in 1931.

New York Central Railroad had a net loss of $18,256,400 in 1932 after taxes and charges, compared with net income of $2,490,101 in 1931. December net loss was $1,104,411 against loss of $286,465 a year ago. The road's current assets as of December 31 were $76,115,414 against current liabilities of $106,541,751. At the end of 1931 these items stood, respectively, at $81,442,336 and $103,092,205.

Bank of Poland Votes To Back Gold Standard

Warsaw, Poland, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the Bank of Poland voted unanimously at the annual meeting today an indorsement of a proposed change in the statutes providing that henceforth the Polish currency coverage shall consist exclusively of gold, and that the minimum coverage be reduced from 40 per cent to 30 per cent.

President Wroblewski of the bank asserted that the Polish Zloty (currently quoted at a fraction above 11 cents) is one of the world's soundest currencies. The bank, as well as the government, he said, opposes any measure of inflation.

OIL CURBING EFFORT SEEN IN LAST TESTS

H. F. Sinclair Says Proration Is Making Final Stand; Facts Faced.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Commenting on the American Petroleum Institute's recent statement regarding crude oil stabilization, Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee of Consolidated Oil Corporation, today declared that "proration is making its last stand."

"If the law can not be enforced and development of new pools and overdrilling limited, we shall be compelled to look elsewhere for corrective measures," he said.

"Meanwhile, it is encouraging to find a large part of the industry, particularly the major companies, united in facing the facts of the situation and in advocating corrective and constructive measures.

Meaning of Statement.

"In effect, the declaration of principles put forth by the American Petroleum Institute is a statement of things that must be done if proration is to succeed in stabilizing the oil industry. It is also an admission that attempts so far made to bring about stabilization by proration have been ineffective.

"Limitation of current production to market demand as between pools and producers in the same pool, preservation of stripper well production, restriction in countries exporting to the United States, gasoline taxation and tax evasion—all these are important factors.

"It must be understood, however, that the things the institute declares should come to pass are all dependent upon enforcement and strict observance of the laws by all elements of the industry, large and small. Without this nothing can be accomplished. It is useless to talk about what should and can be done until this is brought about.

Control Called Hopeless.

"I want to lay particular emphasis on that part of the institute program which declares that production from new pools should be restricted to the utmost limit permitted by the laws of the States. Unlimited development of new production and proration can not be carried out at the same time. Once permit a new pool to be developed and the task of controlling its output is hopeless.

"Last year, under so-called proration, 2,474 more wells were drilled than in 1931. The increase in actually productive wells in 1932 was almost 60 per cent. If the attempt to control oil production is to continue and succeed in its objectives, there must be some very definite restrictions put upon drilling new fields and overdrilling those we already have.

"It is worth pointing out that this declaration of principles is not an agreement in any sense. It is a conditional statement to which the leaders in the industry have subscribed. To make it effective requires not only more thorough enforcement, but absolute good faith in performance by the oil companies themselves. The stand taken by the institute should have an important effect in securing the cooperation of the oil companies in enforcing the orders of conservation commissions, and, as the statement says, in avoiding 'any and all acts which would, directly or indirectly, circumvent or tend to defeat such orders.' There is also more than a mere suggestion that if proration orders are enforced, all legally produced oil should find a market at the publicly posted prices. With bootleg oil out of the picture, we shall be on the road to much sounder conditions."

'PASTURES' BENEFIT FOR COLORED DENIED

Extra Performance Not to Be Given Feb. 26 as Announced.

Vigorous denial was made yesterday by J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler of colored Elks, that Marc Connelly's Pulitzer prize play, "The Green Pastures," would stage at the National Theater on February 26 a special benefit performance for any lodge or branch of that fraternity. He stated before leaving for New York to complete arangements for organization of a club of 1,500 as a Civil Liberties Bureau of Elks, that the proposed presentation and the bureau work were incompatible.

Members of the cast of the play, many of whom are Washingtonians, have anticipated playing here before large audiences of colored citizens. Robert Harrison, who plays "De Lawd," sought to promote this anticipation through representatives here, who related the agents of the Green Pastures Company to Judge W. C. Hueston, commissioner of education of the Elk fraternity. An agreement was made for a benefit performance for the scholarship fund on February 26.

"This agreement," Wilson said, "was entered into by Judge Hueston because he is a native of Indiana, who has been here but a short time, and was not aware that the theater where the play is to be presented is unique in having a policy of denial of admission to all members of the Negro race. Existence of this policy was confirmed today by reports in a New York paper, quoting the theater's manager to that effect. Such a policy does not exist in theaters of the deep South.

"A performance under any Elk auspices, therefore, in the National Theater, is out of the question, even if the doors of the theater were opened wide to colored patrons throughout the two weeks of the show's appearance. Nor will the colored Elks favor anywhere else a presentation of "The Green Pastures" except where advance publicity indicates no special performance for Negroes, but a presentation for all persons who choose to see the play."

Judge Hueston indicated last night that he would issue a statement this morning which would set forth clearly his position in the matter. This statement, he said, would not be based on action of the colored ministers' alliance, which sent a delegation to Baltimore to seek to influence colored actors not to appear here at the National, but rather on a general misapprehension to effect that it had contracted for a special performance for colored persons, and a misunderstanding of the theater's general policy.

Radio-Lottery Ban Bill Near Approval

Measure Is Sent to House for Vote on Senate Amendments.

(Associated Press.)

Legislation revising Radio Commission procedure and making it unlawful for broadcasters to advertise lotteries neared congressional approval last night after passing the Senate.

A House bill revising the present radio act was passed by the Senate without a record vote after months of consideration by the Interstate Commerce Committee. It now goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments.

The bill, which was sponsored in the Senate by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, authorizes the Radio Commission to hold hearings through examiners in routine cases not involving changes of policy. It carries a penalty of one year in jail or a fine of $1,000 or both, for broadcasting information on lotteries.

Fake Rail Claims U. S. Drive Target

Government Says Wabash Has Been Defrauded of $1,000,000.

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Federal Government started an offensive today against commission merchants accused of collecting from railroads inflated claims for damages to perishable freight.

Six merchants and three commission houses here were indicted by the Federal grand jury on charges of defrauding the Wabash Railway Co. of $1,000,000.

District Attorney Dwight H. Green said his investigation was not complete, that he had evidence of collusion between shippers and employes of the Wabash, and that railroads generally had been "extremely lax and negligent for some years" in paying damage claims.

Manchurian Evacuation Date New League Issue

Geneva, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A disagreement over the time limit to be proposed to Japan for the evacuation of Manchuria today delayed completion of a report by a League of Nations committee that is studying the Sino-Japanese problem.

Meanwhile, the Japanese delegation sent to Tokyo the draft of a negative reply it expects to submit to the committee's question, as to whether Japan would recognize Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

LOEW'S FOX

"DANGEROUSLY YOURS." Fox picturization of a story by Paul Hervey Fox, featuring Warner Baxter and Miriam Jordan, with Herbert Mundin, Florence Eldridge and Florence Roberts. Directed by Frank Tuttle. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Raffles, the gentleman cracksman, is abroad again.

While this mildly amusing, but never very exciting, study of the love life and professional pursuits of a debonair drawing-room desperado is not, of course, fashioned from any of the Hornung stories that piqued the interest of an earlier generation, whose children now have substituted S. S. Van Dine, its pattern is the same. Priceless diamonds and precious pearls are deftly swiped from the puffy neck of the dowager hostess during a spiritualistic seance and forthwith the perpetrator of the foul deed finds himself discovered by the beautiful blonde who is a secret operative of the insurance company that wrote the policy on the gems that are restored quite as miraculously as they are made to disappear.

In this movement of the narrative there is surprisingly little excitement or suspense. The thrill of a career, or a life for that matter, in jeopardy just doesn't come off. Perhaps it was never intended to. For Andrew Burke, the polished plunderer kidnaps the girl who alone possesses incriminating evidence against him, spirits her aboard his yacht and converts a perfectly good melodrama into a considerably better comedy. The scenes afloat, where Burke safeguards himself against the aquatic prowess of Claire Roberts, the sirenic sleuth, by fastening a good-sized anchor to her ankle by a chain heavy enough to wear her down in no time, are vigorously and hilariously amusing. Even at that, she manages to escape and swims ashore, fully clothed, in less time than Johnny Weismuller could make the same distance in a regulation swim suit!

The role of Burke is not one of Warner Baxter's best, although he plays it with adequate finesse and some zest. His romantic moments are his most effective. Miriam Jordan plays the opposite role of the lady cop with astonishing verve. Once aboard ship she doesn't tame worth a cent, thus preventing the picture from expiring completely of its own inertia. Without Miss Jordan's demurely vivacious performance there would be no excuse for Mr. Baxter's lighter moments—save only for the slightly daffy activities of Herbert Mundin, as a gentleman's gentleman who is also an A-1 criminal accomplice. Aside from Florence Eldridge, as a catty young matron; Florence Roberts, as the brandy bibbling hostess with a fortune in jewels, and William Davidson, a wealthy lover, the remainder of the cast is of no matter.

Even if the feature picture is of no particular distinction, the stage show more than makes up the deficiency. The entire living program this week is provided by Ted Lewis and his Jubilee Show. In this elaborate revue, Mr. Lewis is continuously on the stage, working more incessantly than anyone else in the cast, but no more entertainingly than his High Hat Band, the Dixie Four, colored male quartet; Esther Pressman, Doris Deane, Mildred Gaye, alluring and gifted young dancers; Charles "Snowball" Whittier, a steppin' fool, and a pickaninny that hasn't been equaled for precociousness since the days of "In Old Kentucky."

Consummate showman always, Maestro Lewis keeps his little opera keyed to a high pitch and punctuates the individual specialties with ensembles that will blow your ears back and untie your tie! His "Peanut Vender" number is a circus for those down front and a nightmare for the cleaners! Altogether, he must throw several bushels of goobers out into the audience.

For a "Valentine Day" overture, Phil Lampkin has arranged a tuneful fantasia of "sweetheart" songs which he concludes with a Paul Ash flourish that is greeted by the customary salvos of applause.

The Fox Movietone News, prolific this week in distinguished personalities, completes a program that averages sufficiently high to prompt the presentation of five de luxe performances today to accommodate the crowds.

METROPOLITAN

"HELLO EVERYBODY." Paramount picturization of a story by Fannie Hurst, starring Kate Smith, with Randolph Scott, Sally Blane, Charles Grapewin, George Barbier, Fern Emmett, Frank Darien, Julia Swayne Gordon and Wade Boteler. Directed by William A. Seiter.

By making no attempt to make Kate Smith, one of the big names of radio, a great actress, no less than by affording her ample opportunity to display her voice many times and always to advantage, the producers of "Hello, Everybody," assured that picture's success as a simple introduction of the Kate Smith personality to localities and audiences that heretofore have known her only as a voice emanating from their loudspeakers.

The story of the play amounts to nothing of consequence as drama, but it is, withal, inoffensive, well within the capabilities of those engaged in its enactment and, everything considered, agreeable, if unpretentious, entertainment.

Washington's native daughter plays with perfect naturalness, happy freedom from affectation of mannerism and recites her lines like a veteran. She is supported by her radio associates in the musical intervals of the pictured action and by a competent cast, led by Charlie Grapewin, George Barbier, Sally Blane, Randolph Scott, and many more in the dramatic passages, which have to do with salvaging the valley farmlands from the clutches of the power trust.

Surrounding the major feature through its second week at the Metropolitan the first week's "radio week" attractions will be continued. These include Burns and Allen in "Let's Dance;" the Four Mills Brothers in "Dinah" and Abe Lyman and His Band in a Vitaphone novelty.

The Paramount Sound News also is shown to complete an all-screen bill that has met with enthusiastic approval during its first seven days on F street.

Sandino Orders Two Rebel Chiefs Executed

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Augusto Sandino, the insurgent leader who concluded a peace pact with the government last week, has ordered the execution of two of his officers for failure to conform to that pact, the newspaper La Noticias said today.

The newspaper's correspondent at San Rafael Del Norte, where Sandino has concentrated his men for demobilization, said the sentence was passed upon Col. Juan Altamirano and Capt. Francisco Olivas. Details of their offense were not given.

RKO-KEITH'S

"CHILD OF MANHATTAN." Columbia Pictures' dramatization of Preston Sturgis' play, featuring Nancy Carroll and John Boles, supported by Jessie Ralph, Charles ("Buck") Jones and Luis Alberni. Directed by Eddie Buzzell. Reviewed Friday evening by Dorothea Lewis.

Nancy Carroll is back—with a bang-up performance, a Brooklyn accent, and a bravo from us.

If "Child of Manhattan" weren't as good entertainment and as much fun as it is, it would still be notable for the return of this gay little, good little actress whom we've tried to remember despite poor vehicles and poor performances, one after another for a long, long time.

This particular child of Manhattan is one Madeline McGonegal, a 10-cents-a-dance hall hostess who "insults easy." She meets Paul Vanderkill, a gentleman, and moves swiftly from an "apernment" with him to an apartment with him. They marry belatedly and after their baby dies, Madeline runs away quixotically to Mexico to return to him, via the easy divorce route, his name, which she considers only lent to her.

Starting out as a very delicious Cinderella fable, the play attempts to go serious, does go slightly crude and calling-a-spade-a-spadeish for a little while, and even gets melodramatic before it reaches a rather satisfactory ending.

So, as far as plot and incident are concerned, "Child of Manhattan" is pretty creaky in its technical joints, yet for all of its faults manages to be rather consistently amusing, chiefly because Nancy is so diverting and a diverting Nancy is so welcome: John Boles so sincere, even in a somewhat unsympathetic role, in continuing the excellent acting he began in "Back Street," and because (a big one) of Jessie Ralph, a grand new, brand new, to us, Marie Dressler plus an accent. She almost does a Dressler steal.

Charles (Buck) Jones seems an awfully nice Panama Canal Kelly, but, as far as acting is concerned, seems to miss his hosses and spurs. Luis Alberni adds a hilarious caricature as Bustamente, Mexican divorce wizard.

The dialogue is a great help and Director Eddie Buzzell deserves a deal of credit if he is responsible for the Nancy Carroll revival.

The other revival on the program is Charlie Chaplin's "Floorwalker."

Of the far too many subsidiaries, a Robin Hood animated cartoon is the only thing worth shouting about, unless you're an alumnus of the University of Michigan, and then you'll love it while Reinald Werrenrath sings and talks you around the Ann Arbor campus. There is also a newsreel.

PALACE

"THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the story, "The Lady," by Martin Brown, starring Irene Dunne, with Lionel Atwill and Phillips Holmes. Directed by Charles Brabin. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

It is no secret, this "Secret of Madame Blanche;" and even Irene Dunne, Lionel Atwill, Phillips Holmes Una Merkel and Jean Parker, either individually or collectively, can do no more than offer the 'steenth revised edition of "Madame X."

Opening in 1898, the picture gets under way with an American theatrical troupe embarking for England. There, the show is presented and Sally Sanders captures the heart of a man brought up to be a gentleman. They are married secretly, and, when the arrogant father learns the truth, the son is cut off without a penny. On their own, Leonard gambles away what small amount of money they do have, and finally returns to the ancestral hearth to make amends with his father and to tap the family exchequer. But father is still adamant, and Leonard agrees to leave Sally on condition that the father send her money. That agreed, Leonard shoots himself.

Leonard, jr., is born and Sally gets work where she may, finally getting down to singing and dancing in a house of clandestine romances. Learning of this, father, getting a court order, takes the child to bring him up in ignorance of his mother. Twenty years pass, and Leonard is on the battle line. Sneaking out of quarantine, he, for no good reason, takes Eloise to Paris, but a fight with a waiter puts the quietus on him. Sally, grown grey (but still facially young) with the years, is the proprietress and when Eloise's father, fired by righteous anger, is killed by Leonard, she takes the blame herself.

The state's attorney at the trial breaks down Sally's defense and reveals the secret of Mme Blanche. But mother and son are united, and in two years after the close of the picture they will "go to America and start all over again."

C. Henry Gordon is the state's attorney; Jean Parker, the little French girl; Mitchell Lewis, Eloise's father; Lionel Atwill, the pompous English father; Douglas Walton, Leonard, jr., and Una Merkel, one of the chorus.

Between Miss Dunne and Phillips Holmes, later substituted for by Douglas Walton, lies the motivation for most of the story, which, were it not for many earlier and considerably better-done works, might possess a greater impressiveness. As it stands, Mr. Gordon and the baby Leonard are about all that give merit to "The Secret of Madame Blanche."

Heading the subsidiary attractions are Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in "Towed in a Hole," a typical slapstick comedy about mending a boat, and "Is Technocracy Right?" a colloquy between Donald Douglas, for the affirmative, and William Stuart Belfield, for the negative. Other shorts include a black-and-white Silly Symphony, "Just Dogs" (one of the best parts of the bill), and an issue of the Metrotone News.

Guy's Alibi Backed By Indian Aviator

Delarm Says Alleged Slayer of Wanderwell Was at His Home.

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Edward Delarm, Indian aviator, testified late today that William J. Guy, on trial for murder, was in bed in Delarm's Glendale home at 7:45 o'clock the night of December 5, about one hour before the time the State says Walter Wanderwell was shot to death.

Delarm said he lives about 30 miles from Long Beach Harbor, where Wanderwell's yacht, Carma, was anchored and aboard which the world adventurer was killed. Guy also was at Delarm's home the next morning, the flier testified, and Delarm's motor car was in his driveway all night.

The flier is the principal witness for the defense, the curly-haired Guy planning to stand upon alibi testimony and the contradiction of State witnesses who identified him.

"THE MYSTERY OF THE WAX MUSEUM." Warner Bros. picturization of a story by Charles S. Belden, featuring Lionel Atwill, Fay Wray, Glenda Farrell and Frank McHugh. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Although executed wholly in Technicolor, like the earlier "Doctor X," and evidently intended as a companion exhibit of eerie and horrifying episodes to the picture that introduced the ghastly spectacle of "synthetic flesh" to an awe-struck public, this fantastic melodrama falls considerably short of its predecessor's command of supense and the ominous terror of realistic climaxes.

Cluttered up with an amazing array of complicated laboratory gadgets and employing as its basis the power of an aged and crippled sculptor to produce startling wax statuary groups through the simple but thoroughly obnoxious expedient of applying a thin coating of plastic wax to embalmed human bodies, "The Mystery of the Wax Museum" still lacks the supreme thrill that so homicidal and gruesome a story should exert.

Beginning with a prologue in London in 1921 and then shifting to the New York of 1933, the story loses something of its potential novelty and power by permitting the intrusion of an unconvincing newspaper yarn upon what should be a frank and blood-chilling tale of unmitigated horror. The reportorial aspects of the narrative are its weakest points, made weaker by an amateurish Class C performance of the role of a supposedly hard-boiled girl reporter by Glenda Farrell, who in "Life Begins" gave promise of such infinitely better things. To these dull eyes and ears there was never a moment when Miss Farrell was believable. This, however, was not at all true of Fay Wray, as her roommate, who escaped the tanks of boiling wax by an eyelash. Miss Wray's part, however, is conspicuously minor as compared with Miss Farrell's.

Lionel Atwill makes Ivan Igor, whose artistic gifts were destroyed through an associate's treachery in a London fire, a vengeful and demoniac dissembler, who finally meets a hideous end in his own molten vats. His makeup in the closing sequences is a considerable magnification of the worst Boris Karloff has ever been able to think up. It will give you the jitters for days on end.

Surrounding the cadaverous Mr. Igor are a nondescript band of human monstrosities impersonated with remarkable grotesqueness by such recognized mimes as Mathew Betz, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Edwin Maxwell and numerous others. Frank McHugh appears as a new type of metropolitan editor and Gavin Gordon as a rich young man caught in a web of weird events.

There can be no gainsaying that natural color photography is a valuable asset to screen plays of this character. It makes them seem pretty grim now and again, when you can see the blood and all!

Any one of four acts on the vaudeville bill might with good reason lay claim to the honor of topline position. Olga Baclanova, the Russian graduate of the Moscow Art Theater, making her Washington debut on the stage, proves a soprano balladist of more than ordinary ability and charm. Solly Ward, Broadway comedian of the first flight, assisted by two feminine aids in "Wives and Women," presents an amusing skit. Johnny Marvin, with Ruth Cleary at the piano, and Gwyn Hester, guitarist, puts on a microphone act that rather tops anything he has done here before, even if its isn't quite clear why he should be all togged out in cowboy trappings to sing popular songs and slither up and down the neck of a Hawaiian steel guitar. The Four Golden Blondes, who are precisely that, put on a versatile turn that had the customers winging at yesterday afternoon's second performance.

Baclanova sang in English, Russian and French and offered a group of selections of standard concert quality, her French number being perhaps the most engaging of the brief cycle. An early nervousness was betrayed by a decided tremolo that soon passed and revealed an artiste of expressiveness and warmth. At the conclusion of her final number, whether from miscalculation or pique, Mme. Baclanova coolly turned her back on her audience and strode off the stage while the curtains were still parted.

The Robbins Family—father, two daughters and two sons—of dancers, acrobats and gymnasts open the bill with an ace turn of its kind and serve to introduce the gaily bedecked Miss Maxine Doyle, mistress of ceremonies, in the first of her graceful announcements.

Tom Howard in "The Rookie," a travesty of a day in the life of a new detective; Richard Arlen, Tallulah Bankhead, Clark Gable, Heinie Conklin, Frances Dee, Lew Cody, Buster Keaton and others in "The Hollywood Parade," and orchestral prelude augment a feature that can not quite manage the business of gooseflesh—goslingflesh might about be it!

Pope to Open New Radio Unit Today

World's First Ultra Short Wave Plant Made by Marconi.

Vatican City, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI and Guglielmo Marconi will formally inaugurate the world's first ultra short-wave radio telephone station tomorrow in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the Lateran peace treaty between the Vatican and Italy.

It will be the first regular utilization of the plants, the latest invention of the wizard by which he hopes to bring radio telephone service within reach of the masses of the people. The plants have been installed in the Vatican and at the papal villa at Castel Gandolfo, 20 miles away, by Marconi engineers.

The Pope and the inventor will talk briefly from the Vatican with the custodian of the villa and with the Auxiliary Bishop of Albano, where the villa is situated.

Episcopal Missionary Budget Cut $600,000

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church slashed $600,000 from the denomination's budget for missionary work at home and abroad at its annual meeting, ended today, and appealed to the church for $146,456 needed to balance the approved expenditures.

The 1933 budget was set at $2,895,625, approximately 17 per cent less than that authorized by the general convention of the church, because of the expectation of greatly reduced income this year.

KING OF THE JUNGLE

by CHARLES THURLEY STONEHAM

SYNOPSIS.

Kaspa, the lion-man found as a child in the African jungle by a lioness and raised with her own cubs, Ruka and Dogo, is captured and brought to Canada by Martin Sefton, where he is recognized as the heir to millions. He meets and falls in love with Madeline Moore. Realizing, however, that Sefton is also in love with her, and being fed up with civilization, he returns to Africa, hires a lorry and goes off into the jungle. He meets lions but they are distrustful of him. Impatient, he tears off his clothes and with only his knife, trudges into the forest, a lion-man again. Shortly after he encounters Ruka and Dogo and there is a happy reunion.

CHAPTER XXI.

RESUMING his place as leader of the pack, Kaspa advocated a move in hunting grounds toward the thick forests and the bare slopes of the mountains. However, before moving the pack, he explored the new territory in person. He found the ground grassy and the game plentiful. Although he saw no signs of large beasts, he did find the print of a huge foot which was manlike, but he was convinced that it had been made by a huge baboon. Kaspa returned to the cave in the donga, reported what he had found and, on the following night, the pack set off for their new hunting grounds.

The lions liked their new surroundings. There were no other lions in the vicinity and of man there was no trace. However, his prototype was there in the huge apes that lived among the rocks and ravines of the higher slopes. They were enormous brutes. The males were like small gorillas, about 5 or 6 feet in height, broad as the strongest man and long-armed, with fangs as thick and sharp as those of the hyena. Kaspa determined to keep a watchful eye on the doings of the baboons and avoid contact with them as far as possible. However, despite his best efforts to prevent it, the meeting took place a few days after their arrival.

One evening he came out into the fading light with his comrades about him and, standing on the rocky platform before the mouth of the cave, raised his voice in the roar which should announce to all and sundry that the kings of the veld were about to begin their night's hunting.

At once the rocks echoed with the barks and screams of a troupe of baboons that had been playing within a few yards of the cave. A half-grown youngster was nearer to Dogo than his mother considered safe, an she promptly dashed forward snarling and screeching to scare the intruder away. She charged within a few paces of the lion, whose dignity was upset by this demonstration of spite upon the part of a mere monkey. Before Kaspa could interfere Dogo had leaped at the baboon. The creature escaped with extraordinary agility, but its unfortunate cub was caught by the lion and instantly killed. The trouble began immediately. The bereaved mother capered on top of a bowlder screaming abuse and sorrow; a big male came dashing round the rock, saw the dead cub, and raised the rallying cry.

The surrounding rocks became alive with leaping, snarling apes. They made concerted dashes at the lions, and when attacked leaped up on to huge bowlders where they could not be followed. Ruka and the lionesses charged, roaring; the two cubs stood irresolute, with Kaspa alone keeping his head, making ineffectual efforts to protect them. Half a dozen baboons leaped down upon him, and he was soon engaged in a desperate fight in which only his speed and the flashing blows of his knife saved him from being torn to pieces. The cubs were not so fortunate. In a moment they were overwhelmed as others of the enemy came to the help of their fellows. They were dragged, snarling and fighting furiously, away into a ravine, where a dozen pairs of fierce jaws and tearing hands made an end of them. The lionesses came rushing back to the rescue, but although several baboons felt the weight of their thrashing paws, the cubs had been carried up on to the crags beyond reach of assistance.

Kaspa and his friends gathered in a roaring group, while the baboons, with all the savage insolence of their kind, bayed insults at them from the surrounding heights. One of the huge brutes was thrashing the body of a cub about in full view of its frantic mother. Hiko charged, leaping vainly at the side of the sheer rock on which the creature stood. Stones and branches were hurled down upon her and she was powerless to close with her enemies. She drew off, snarling and raging, to rejoin her companions in the clear space before the cave. Kaspa had sustained a severe bite in the leg, and all the lions bore marks of the conflict.

Between them they had killed seven of the baboons, and thenceforth those creatures showed no desire to do battle on the ground with their powerful antagonists; but Hiko's cubs had been lost, and the fact that these well-grown, heavy youngsters had been carried off so easily gave evidence of the baboons' fighting qualities. The baboons, with all the persistent vindictiveness of the monkey people, had no intention of abandoning the field to their enemies. They stayed on the crags, barking and chattering, throwing such missiles as they could find.

Kaspa tried to make his friends follow him out on the veld. He realized that the baboons must be taught a lesson or there would be no peace for the lions night or day, and the only way in which this could be done was to inveigle the brutes into the open, where they could not get away from the lions' rush. But Hiko would not leave the dead cubs, although they were 20 feet above her head beyond her reach. The baboons jeered and exhibited the bodies of their slain foes. Kaspa reflected that it is only the apes and mankind who possess the ability to taunt and infuriate their foes to this extent. Hiko was like a mad creature, and the other lions were in no condition to hear reason. They spent the night stalking to and fro before the cave, replying to the insults of the baboons with threats and ragings.

When morning broke, things were no better. The lions retired to their cave, but the baboons followed them to the entrance and baited them throughout the daylight hours. Every now and then a lion would charge out into the open in a futile effort to catch one of the tormentors, but the baboons had only to leap up the rocks to safety, and not one was punished. By nightfall the lions were frantic and in a humor to vacate the district and return to the lower veldt, where the Bomogo herded their cattle.

Kaspa was at last able to outline his plan and to secure their cooperation in it. He deduced that the baboons were now confident and unwary, and could be lured into a trap without suspecting it. His plan was simple. They must start out on their nightly prowl, as though too hungry to worry further about the loss of the cubs and their hopes of vengeance. Kaspa felt sure that the apes would follow them out onto the veldt, and once well away from rocks and trees, they would be in the lions' power. Dissimulation was foreign to the great cats' natures, but at last they listened to their leader and agreed to obey him.

When night had fallen they issued from the cave and slunk away to the plain without a backward glance at their jeering enemies. The baboons followed along the tops of the rocks until these came to an end and there was nothing before them but an expanse of grass. They stayed there for a while, chattering insults, until the dun forms of the lions began to fade from sight in the darkness; then they followed, unable to relinquish their amusement even at the cost of their safety. When the pack was a quarter of a mile out in the grass the baboons were a hundred yards behind them, lolloping along to the number of a hundred or more, embroidered by the cowed demeanor of their foes and bent upon spoiling the night's hunting. Hiko, unable to restrain her rage further, turned to roar at them. That gave them pause, for they suddenly realized that they were far from tree or rock. A shrill excited babbling broke out among them, and some of the older males turned back.

Kaspa knew that the time had come. He gave the fighting roar and charged, with the whole pack racing after him. The baboons fled screaming, but the lions caught up with them easily. Striking and leaping, they decimated the flock and destroyed whole families. Some of the bigger apes turned to fight, but here there were no boulders and precipices to facilitate their elusive tactics, and the strength of the lion was too much for their tender frames. The giants among them were a match for Kaspa had he been unarmed, and since their agility and cunning were equal to his, he had difficulty in making openings for his deadly knife thrusts, but they had no notion of how to deal with a lion.

They closed and bit and tore, to be destroyed in an instant by the jaws and claws of the carnivora, against which no softer flesh can prevail. The remnant of the baboon flock regained the rocks with difficulty, leaving a score of their number dead upon the plain.

From that moment the lions were not molested further. The baboons retired farther into the hills, and there was peace in the cave among the rocks. Zito produced her litter, hunting was good, and the weather cool and invigorating, but despite these advantages Kaspa was not entirely happy. Memories of his Canadian life began to trouble him. He found himself desirous of seeing Sefton's humorous, eager face again, and feeling the warmth of his manfriend's handclasp. He wondered how things were going in Toronto; if Madeline had forgotten him and consented to make Sefton happy, as he had planned. He had not forgotten Madeline.

Watching the happy mating of his brothers, he was conscious that there could be no family life for him, and the thought of those few precious moments with the woman who had loved him recurred to him disturbingly. He began to wonder what would be his ultimate fate. The life of an animal was necessary to him, but he was also a man, with all a man's desires and love of the companionship of friends and human speech. Ideas formed in his mind, and he had no one with whom to discuss them. The routine of hunting and sleeping became monotonous; it led nowhere.

There was something more in life than this business of just living. Kaspa became morose and given to wanderings afar in the forest occupied with his own thoughts and longings. The mating season was at hand, and everywhere he saw creatures cleaving to each other. Birds were busy constructing their nests, the herd bulls fought and trumpeted under the budding trees, and the wild was filled with the sounds of song and frolic where the sexes disported themselves in joy of mating.

In these great purposes Kaspa had no part. He was solitary, a creature divorced from his kind, and since even the old bachelors who had been driven out from the society of their fellows were morose and ill-tempered these days, it was natural that a young and healthy being like Kaspa should feel the urge of the season and his loneliness. No, he had not forgotten Madeline, and now knew that he would never forget her—that the distance between them but served to make him remember her the more; but things seemed hopeless to him, for with his ignorance of the ways of men and women he was certain that by this time she would have forgotten him.

To Be Continued.

22,000 SEE CARNERA STOP SCHAAF IN 13TH ROUND

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN took it on the chin last night simultaneously with Ernie Schaaf when primeval Primo Carnera belted Schaaf out of the championship picture in the thirteenth round.

If the Garden goes through now with its scheduled heavyweight program, there remains only the matching of Carnera with Jack Sharkey in a contest for the title which promises all the suspense of a Thanksgiving Day proclamation inasmuch as Sharkey two years ago displayed so much superiority over Carnera that it was almost a case for the coroner.

Thus the prospect of another Sharkey-Carnera match faces the Garden, which has already demoted boxing to a minor sport in view of the increasing popularity of ice hockey. The Carnera-Schaaf elimination match with the knockout of Schaaf apparently was a triple elimination, eliminating both fighters and the Garden's chances of figuring in the receipts of a big outdoor show.

Carnera Holds Little Fan Lure.

Carnera knocked out Schaaf "with a light left jab," according to the Associated Press dispatch, which ought to indicate the viciousness and savagery with which the bout was fought. If his victory last night makes Carnera a drawing card, this department doesn't know the meaning of the word.

If, mayhap, Schaaf had beaten the Italian man mountain, there was always the possibility that the Garden's ballyhoo forces could have engineered an honest-to-goodness breach between Schaaf and his part-time manager and owner, Sharkey, hinting all sorts of dark deeds of the past and thus providing the Garden with something of a natural. But Carnera, in eliminating Schaaf, apparently eliminated all other possibilities.

The Garden has both Sharkey and Carnera under contract, but what to do with them remains a problem. A match between the pair does not figure to pay expenses and thus we have the situation of a world champion with nobody to fight inasmuch as the two leading contenders, Max Baer and Max Schmeling are securely under contract to Promoter Jack Dempsey.

Dempsey Securely In Saddle.

With the Garden on the outside looking in as far as the best heavyweight cards are concerned, despite the fact that it holds the contract of the champion, Sharkey, Dempsey is securely in the saddle with his Baer-Schmeling fight scheduled for the World Fair in Chicago in June.

By the time the Chicago bout is fought, Sharkey's contract with the Garden will have expired and the fight public faces the prospect of seeing the champion go to the challenger's camp in search of work and a big gate. Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, has vowed that he will never again enter in negotiations with the Garden.

Active Night For College Athletes

Maryland U. Host to V. M. I. in Court, Ring Clashes.

G. W. and Gallaudet in Home Basket Ball Battles.

THE college boys outdo themselves, athletically, tonight with four local and two out-of-town events, the feature of the night's program being the twin bill at Maryland University's Coliseum, where the Old Liners will meet Washington and Lee in basket ball and trade simon-pure busts in the nose with V. M. I. in boxing.

Other local events see George Washington's basket ball team meet up with Long Island U. at the Colonial Gym and Gallaudet meet Western Maryland at Gallaudet.

Abroad, Catholic University winds up a successful season by meeting one of its strongest foes, Loyola, at Baltimore, and American University takes on St. John's, of Annapolis, at that stronghold of the great American erster.

Generals Won Earlier Battle.

Maryland lost to Washington and Lee at Lexington a month ago by the scores of 43-40 in a spectacular game in which Kenny Fields, General guard, sank 17 points. Rufe Vincent stood out for Maryland. Tonight's odds favor no team, for whatever advantage W. and L. may have is wiped out in the face of the fact that Maryland is playing in its own back yard.

The only line available on the relative boxing merits of Maryland and V. M. I. is that both teams beat V. P. I. by the same score, 6-2. Maryland has tied twice and won once in its three boxing engagements this year, and so has V. M. I.

G. W. should not have much trouble with Long Island U. if it hits its real stride. Thursday night against Wake Forest the Colonials had trouble getting started, but it doesn't seem probable that the same thing will happen tonight.

The Gallaudet - Western Maryland game, shifted from Tech to Gallaudet in the interests of economy, should not do anything to alter the losing streak of the locals, which has now reached six.

Toledo Club Is Sold; Tribe Buys 5 Players

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Toledo American Association Baseball Club, in receivership for more than a year, today was sold to a group of Toledo men. Negotiations for the sale have been under way for several days by Al Reuben, receiver.

The company will be known as the Toledo Baseball Club, the same title as last year, when the club was operated by the Cleveland Indians. Officials are Waldo H. Shank, president; J. W. Cobley, vice president; Paul Shank, secretary, and R. Betchtel, treasurer and business manager.

Arrangements have been completed with the Cleveland Club for the outright purchase of First Baseman Sweeney, Outfielder West and Pitcher Lawson, who were with the club last year, together with infielders Montague and Detore.

Post Contest Review Recalls Stirring Days Nine Years Ago When Boy Manager Led "Team of Destiny" to Victory.

(Herewith is the fourteenth of a series of articles in conjunction with The Post's baseball contest.)

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

GAME 1924—and the "boy manager." Bucky Harris, as Nat pilot—and a pennant victory for the first time in Washington's history—and a world's championship. And the Nation's Capital definitely was given a place on the baseball map.

The year furnished thrill after thrill for Washington's addicts of the diamond sport, starting with the unexpected appointment of Harris, youngest member of the Nat cast and the youngest ever to pilot a major league team as successor to Donie Bush; being closely followed by the announcement from Walter Johnson that he planned to quit the team at the end of the season and buy the Oakland Pacific Coast League Club; and ending with a world's series victory over the New York Giants after seven games, with the first going to the Giants and the last going to the Nats, 4 to 3, after 12 hectic innings.

Griffith Gambles On McNeely.

Between these happenings came as exciting a pennant race as anyone could ask for and the biggest deal of the year—the purchase of Outfielder Earl McNeely from Sacramento for $50,000. It was a gamble on the part of Owner Clark Griffith, but he cashed in on it, the youngster adding the pep and dash needed to bolster up the outfield and to revive the team's sagging morale, and coming through with his famous "pebble-hitting" bingle which clinched the world's title for the Harrismen.

As the pennant race was run, it looked as though it was "in the books" for the Nats to win it; in fact, they were frequently referred to as the "team of destiny." Just as the hand of fate guided the arrow into the heel of Achilles, his only vulnerable spot, so did it seem that fate traveled arm and arm with Harris and his charges. Throughout the season the Nats had the happy faculty of winning most of the close games, of getting just what they needed—a single, double, triple, homer or alien error—at crucial times and of seeing some other team knock off a troublesome contender for them when their place in the standings was temporarily at stake.

In Sixth Place During May.

Everything was not milk and honey for the Nats, however. As late as May they were in sixth place, but they went to first for short periods in late June and again in mid-July. In the waning days of August they took the lead again, and, although the going was rough, they never relinquished it, finishing two games in front of the Yankees and not clinching the flag until two days before the season ended, doing so in Boston.

But it was not altogether destiny that gave the Nats their long-sought pennant and world's title. Harris proved to be a dashing young leader with the spark to keep his baseball machine clicking on all cylinders at all times. He showed rare diplomacy in preliminary training at Hot Springs when he ordered the veterans Roger Peckinpaugh, Joe Judge, Sam Rice, Muddy Ruel, Walter Johnson, George Mogridge and Tom Zachary to join him there. The first two mentioned had good reason to believe that they were in line for the managerial job which Harris landed.

Johnson Led League With 23 Wins.

While several individuals were outstanding during the season, it was teamwork, the foundation of which was laid in Hot Springs, that led to success. Practically all cogs hit on high at the same time. Walter Johnson led the league both in games won and in effectiveness. He won 23 games and lost but seven, with Zachary copping 15 of 24, Mogridge 16 of 25 Marberry 11 of 23 and Allan Russell five of six. The two last-named proved much more valuable than their records indicated, as they were outstanding as relief flingers, Marberry participating in 50 games and Russell in 37. Johnson was voted the most valuable player to his team in the American League as a result of his work.

Goslin led the Nats at bat with .344, with Sam Rice ten points lower. McNeely, Judge, Matthews, Tate and several pitchers ended with ratings above the .300 mark. Afield, Peckinpaugh played as he never had before; Harris was almost equally brilliant, while Judge tied for first base leadership, and no one has ever complained of Bluege's work. Harry (Nemo) Leibold led the fly-hawks.

Giants Beat Johnson In Series Opener.

The opening game of the world's series with the Giants went to the National Leaguers in twelve innings, 4 to 3, with Johnson, whom the whole baseball world was rooting for in his first world's series chance after years of valiant effort, losing the decision. Zachary evened the count by pitching the Nats to a 4-3 victory in the second, and the scene then shifted to New York.

Marberry, who saved the day for Zachary in the second game, started the third, but the Giants became 1 up again by taking this, 6-4, Mogridge aided by Marberry in the box and Goose Goslin, who hit four successive safeties, including a homer, knotted things up again at 2-all, 7-4. Johnson was given another chance in the fifth game, but lost again, 6-2, the teams then returning to the Capital, where victories in the two remaining games were needed to give the Nats the pennant.

Harris' two-bagger in the fifth scored Washington's only two runs to let Zachary get credit for his second game, 2-1, and then came the final and deciding contest. Johnson, having failed twice, had little hope of being called upon in this "big" game, but he finally got his chance and proved to be the hero.

Harris outsmarted McGraw by starting Ogden, causing the Giant leader

Corbett Unchanged; Visitors Are Barred

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The report today from the home of James J. Corbett, seriously ill with a heart ailment, was that his condition was unchanged, but that he had spent a comfortable night.

Because of his weakened condition and the fear that any undue excitment might hasten the end, his friends have been barred from the sickroom of the former heavyweight boxing champion.

Greenleaf Now Leads Ponzi in Cue Match

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Ralph Greenleaf, world's champion, regained the lead in his 1,200-point pocket billiard exhibition match against Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia tonight, outscoring his rival, 229 to 64 in nine innings. Greenleaf now has piled up a total of 1,000 points against 964 for Ponzi, with two more blocks to be played.

Greenleaf's high run tonight was 141; Ponzi's 12.

Rex Beach Triumphs In Artist-Writer Golf

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Rex Beach defeated his fellow novelist, Arthur Somers Roche, 3 and 2, today to claim the crown of the Artists and Writers Golf Association, held for many past seasons by Grantland Rice, sports writer.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Harry Child, now sports director at the Washington Boys' Club, points with pride to his lifetime batting average in the big leagues . . . he was at bat four times during his career in the majors, making one hit for a .250 average . . . lest we forget, Child was a pitcher with the Nats in 1930 . . . Fred Williams has seen every game in the local A. A. U. basket ball championship tournaments under the auspices of The Post since 1927 . . . Virginia and Maryland can say more nice things about each other than any other two colleges . . . at least, athletic officials of the two institutions give that impression whenever they meet across the banquet table . . . prospects are perking up for the Boston Red Sox . . . they have traded, sold or released seven of the pitchers who pitched them into last place last season . . . it's strange that the best football player in Hollywood, Johnny Mack Brown, ex-Alabama, has never been cast in one of the numerous football pictures . . . maybe that's what makes Hollywood Hollywood.

Paraffin in the fiber of the floor at Tech High to improve its wearing qualities is the reason why basket ball players slip so easily . . . at least that's the version of George Washington University coaches who have transferred all games to the G. W. Gym at the cost of several thousand dollars in receipts . . . boxing has been abandoned at Catholic University, but the boxing team is keeping in training just for the fun of it . . . metropolitan sports writers are taking their annual vacation in Florida under the guise of covering Sir Malcolm Campbell's speed trials . . . and are overplaying the story in an effort to justify their expense accounts.

Contest Facts In Brief

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will select in The Washington Post of March 19 his all-time, all-star team from among the clubs that represented Washington during the years from 1912 to 1932 inclusive.

The fan who submits the selection that matches or most nearly matches Griffith's selection will be adjudged the winner of the contest.

One man is to be selected for each of the infield and outfield positions with four pitchers and two catchers.

To the winner The Washington Post will award eight box seats to the 1933 opening game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Second place will net four box seats, with third place earning two box seats.

Entrants may use the accompanying coupon for their selections, although the use of the coupon is not necessary for entrance in the contest.

The contest will close March 15.

Each entrant is limited to one selection.

Mrs. Hill Annexes Second Miami Crown

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo., hung up her second metropolitan Miami golf title for the 1933 season today with a 5 and 4 defeat of Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, of New York, in finals of the annual Bayshore La Gorce women's golf championship.

Mrs. Hill last week won the Miami Biltmore women's championship. She was medalist in the tournament just completed, Miss Gottlieb having been runner-up in qualifying play.

The winner went into the lead early in the final 18-hole match today and negotiated the first nine holes in 41 strokes, even par for women. Miss Gottlieb was 2 down at the turn, with 44 strokes for the nine holes.

The victor won acclaim of the gallery at the tenth when she jumped a 10-inch stymie to win the hole.

The contenders halved the eleventh and twelfth holes, but Mrs. Hill won the thirteenth, with a par 4, and went 4 up.

At the long fourteenth, she scored a birdie 4 and was conceded the hole by Miss Gottlieb.

Ruth Says He Expects To Play 2 More Years

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Wrapped in a light tan overcoat, with cap to match, Babe Ruth stepped from a train here today and climbed into his automobile for a cross-State drive to St. Petersburg, where the Yankees have their spring training grounds.

In a fleeting interview, Ruth said he had nothing to say about the salary cut "right now, but I will admit I am in the best condition I've been in years."

He said he thought there were two more years of active baseball playing in his system. "I hope so, anyway," he added.

Schaaf Tires From Rough-Housing by Giant Italian.

Carnera, 57 Pounds Heavier, Finds Foe Easy to Hit.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, N. Y., Feb. 10. About 22,000 customers came to Madison Square Garden this evening with a desire to witness something phoney in a fight between Primo Carnera and Ernie Schaaf and went away after thirteen rounds of it still wondering just what it was that they did see. Schaaf, the protege of Jack Sharkey, fell down in round thirteen and was counted out resting on his left elbow. The punch that put him on the floor was no more than a left jab and no worse than a hundred or more left jabs which he had accumulated before that:

As Carnera's big mushy mitt hit him on the mouth, Schaaf staggered backward halfway across the ring and dropped near the ropes. He seemed suddenly all in from the rough-housing to which Carnera had subjected him, including a series of bumps on the chin delivered with Primo's right elbow.

Ernie Hauled to His Corner.

When he failed to get up, Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, who handles both Sharkey and Schaaf, went through the ropes and hauled Ernie to his corner. Schaaf's head lolled and they put the stool under him and began to knead his neck and pour water over his head. He seemed to be unconscious, and for no reason that was apparent to the patrons who formed the largest crowd attracted to the Garden for a fight since the days of the boom.

Sharkey starting pawing excitedly at Schaaf's mouth, trying to get his fingers between the limp fighter's clinched jaws, and Buckley, in apparent fright, after some futile fingering, whipped out a knife and cut away hunks of rubber from Schaaf's mouth-piece which seemed to be wedged in. Carnera flounced his elephantine bulk around the ring in a few sweeping bows, attempted to pay his respects to his victim, found him inattentive and withdrew amid cheers and boos.

Crowd Lingers At Scene.

Sharkey, Buckley and two house policemen then put Schaaf up on their shoulders, passed him over the ropes and down the steps and with yells of "gangway," rushed him through the crowd to his dressing room. The crowd lingered for some time puzzling about all this, but presently went away baffled but hoping it was not on the level. The prize fight customers love their suspicions and there had been rumors in print that this one was to come to some unconventional ending.

There was a good deal of conversation around the ring in the "What Was It?" vein, but after fifteen minutes the crowd left and about that time Schaaf's people did him up in coats and bathrobes and rushed him

A. A. U. FIVES FLOCKING TO TOURNEY

Five Days Remain to Register for D. C. Championships.

THE big parade is on again. It started last night as managers of basket ball teams in the various weight divisions tramped into the sports department of The Post for A. A. U. registration blanks and team entry blanks for the annual tournament, sponsored by The Post, which opens March 2, at the spacious Tech High School gym.

Only five days are left for those players who have not already done so to file applications with Charles M. Fyfe at the Boys Club. By midnight Wednesday all who desire to compete in the tournament must be registered. None will be accepted after that time.

Last-Minute Rush Anticipated.

Anticipating a last-minute rush, the chairman of the A. A. U. registration committee has arranged to have additional facilities available for the teams at the club. All teams, regardless of weight, must be signed on the dotted line.

As in previous years there will be five classes for boys and two for girls. There has been no change in weight divisions. Boys will compete at 100, 115, 130 and 145 pounds and at an unlimited weight. Girls under 18 will be classed as juniors and those over that age as seniors.

For a player to qualify for the tournament he must have played at least two games with his team in the time between last December 15 and Wednesday. Team managers will be held responsible for any violation of this rule.

The tournament will be conducted on an elimination basis—one defeat eliminates a contestant. Approved board officials will be in charge of the games and the Tech gymnasium affords an ideal floor for contests.

Gold Medals to Players.

Winning teams in each division will be awarded a team trophy and gold medals of the District A. A. U. Each club is limited to a roster of ten players.

Although all players must be registered by Wednesday, team entry blanks do not have to be returned until February 23. Of course, where it is possible to do so managers are urged to return their entry blanks before that date. A fee of $2.50 for teams up to and including the 130-pound division, and one of $3.50 for 145-pound, unlimited, junior and senior girls' teams should accompany all blanks.

BELLIZZI PILOTS HAGGERSON TO VICTORY IN MIAMI MILE

Aegis, Choice, Beaten 2 Lengths

Gilbert Scores With Kate and Jesting Queen.

Singing Heart Wins Fourth as Zorana Disappoints.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 10 (A. P.).—After Johnny Gilbert had scored a double in the first two races here today to even terms with "Duke" Bellizzi for the local riding lead, the Duke came back to win the featured fifth race astride J. C. Clark's Haggerson, giving the Albanian apprentice ace his seventeenth triumph of the meeting. Haggerson beat Aegis, the favorite, by two lengths and paid his backers $18.30 for $2. Sea Fox lost the place by a length. The time was 1:38 1-5.

It was a pretty race to watch, with the result very much in doubt until the field entered the stretch. Flossine was first to show out of the mile chute, but Sea Fox overhauled the pacemaker rounding out of the back stretch. Haggerson then came along with a great rush turning for the final straightaway and opened up a daylight lead as Sea Fox was partially blocked on the inside. Aegis staged a rally on the outside and caught Sea Fox, but could not menace Haggerson.

Kate Draws Away In First Race.

The Howe Stable's Kate, with Gilbert up, outran nine other members of her sex in the six furlong curtain raiser, leading Our Sallie across the wire by two lengths. Memories Dear was a creditable third. The latter was first away, but Kate got to the front after a quarter mile and drew away. Our Sallie challenged through the stretch, but Gilbert rode out his mount and held his rival safe. Kate paid $4.80.

Johnny Gilbert completed a double when he guided Jesting Queen to an easy score in the juvenile event. The daughter of High Time won by four lengths and paid $10.40. Cabouse headed Collateral for the place award. Jesting Queen broke well and quickly drew away from the field, racing as if much the best. Cabouse, breaking from the outside, was the chief contender at all times, but was being hard pressed to hold the place from Collateral.

Long Shot Wins Third Amid Rough Riding.

Mahomet sprang a surprise when he stood a drive to win the third race by a good length at odds of $30.60 for $2. Redress was a length and a half before Ondott for the place. There was considerable rough riding in the race with Ondott, the choice, the chief sufferer. Approaching the far turn Ondott met with interference apparently caused by Mahomet and Steel and had to be sharply taken up. Mahomet went on and finished gamely to beat Redress, while Ondott closed a lot of ground after the interference.

Zorana was installed a heavy favorite in the fourth race but the filly broke from the barrier very slowly and had to be satisfied with third money. Singing Heart, paying $19.50, took the purse by two lengths, while Bannach Lath beat Zorana by a length and a half. There was more crowding in this event, Singing Heart and Bannach Lath both having early trouble. Zorana was rushed up fast after her slow start and gamely took command entering the stretch, but she did not have enough left for the final drive.

The veteran, Buddy Ensor, broke into the winning picture in the sixth, piloting Meridian Queen to an easy victory over the mile and a furlong route. Well played at $7.40 for $2, the winner coasted home three lengths clear of Solace with Americana third. Ensor broke Meridian Queen fast from the outside and nursed her along with a safe advantage throughout. Solace was the runner-up all the way.

Polar Sea, at 4 to 5, Wins Havana Feature

Havana, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Galloping along in front of his five rivals, Polar Sea, an 8-year-old gelding, easily won the mile and one-sixteenth feature at Oriental Park today.

With Tommy Roderick in the saddle, he took the lead at the rise of the barrier and was never challenged, finishing six lengths in front of Gold Mint with Dark Ayr third. The victory was the winner's second consecutive victory in three starts at the Havana course. He paid the short price of 4 to 5.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MIAMI, FEBRUARY 10.

Horses with the Bennings stamp of approval spent the afternoon fighting each other to get in the money, but my sunset check-up showed only one winner, Meridian Queen, Solace and Americana finishing in the predicted order. Again, six of the winners were among my choices and of the 21 horses I named 16 found money positions. I quit diagnosing the results at that point. If I found a few more technicalities I'd be tempted to write the boss for a raise. For my lone winner I'm indebted to Buddy Ensor. The veteran came back today to put up a sterling ride. Gilbert opened the program with a double.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—WISE COUNT may stick it out tomorrow to take care of this field and I believe CONTRIBUTE will be the one to beat. CAPACITY ran to an easy victory the last time but might falter under that 120 pounds assigned here.

SECOND RACE—HIGH GLEE has exhibited class at this course and comes well recommended by fast workouts. Should lead these home. SPEED. SKIPPY is fast and dangerous. CHINESE CUSTOM, a winner here, for the show end.

THIRD RACE—If MERIDIAN QUEEN is sent back I wouldn't be surprised to see her make it two in a row. This one is better than rated hereabouts. ROYAL RUFFIAN finally came through and will be out there battling tomorrow. FOXIANA for the rest. Tired of waiting for DRASTIC DELIGHT.

FOURTH RACE—ALGERIA gets a shift in the weights here that affords an excellent chance of taking down the purse. There is no question of the shape of this one. The heavily weighted JUNGLE KING and CHARACTER for the place and show battle.

FIFTH RACE—CURACAO has done so excellently of late that he can not be shoved off the top of this group. CHIEF JOHN and MY DANDY seem fleetest of the rest. KINCSEN may wake up but I believe she's only getting ready for the $50,000 Cuban Handicap.

SIXTH RACE—SCOUT MASTER has been turning me around but I'm stringing along and this looks like the spot. PARDEE is well suited here. BIG BEAU may take care of the show money.

SEVENTH RACE—WE DUN IT should win this with ease unless something in the entries has been kept far under cover. MAJOR LANPHIER is on the improve and should place ahead of RUANE.

Cochet Will Shun Davis Cup Doubles

French Star Concentrates on Singles; Says Vines Plays Too Much.

Paris, Feb. 10 (U.P.).—Henry Cochet announced today he will not play in the doubles this season when the French team defends the Davis Cup.

"I believe Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon should form the doubles team, he said. "This would leave myself and one of the younger players to represent in the singles."

Commenting upon the defeats suffered by Ellsworth Vines, of California, American singles champion, in Australia, the dapper little Frenchman said, "Vines, I believe, plays much too much. He's a great star, but by no means a Tilden. Continuous play tends to make one stale."

This statement by Cochet echoed the comment of many French tennis critics who believe the extended winter tour through Australia by Vines and other top-flight American Cup players may have lessened America's chance of wresting the cup from France in 1933.

Grobmeier Faces Jones Here Next

Turner Arranges Match for Feature of Show Thursday Night.

The match that hundreds of rassling fans have been yodeling for for a year—Fred Grobmeier vs. Paul Jones—became a looming reality yesterday when Promoter Joe Turner announced that the two scissors experts would tie knots in each other next Thursday night at the Washington Auditorium.

The bout is the feature, but another finish match also be added today, along with the usual three preliminaries.

Both Grobmeier and Jones claim originality of a hold known as the figure 4 scissors, better seen than described. Both win their matches with this hold and otherwise conduct themselves similarly in the ring.

Randolph-Macon Quits Virginia's Conference

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The official resignation of Randolph-Macon College as a member of the Virginia Conference was announced today by President J. A. C. Chandler, of the conference.

Dr. Chandler, also president of the College of William and Mary, said the resignation would have no effect on conference plans and that competition would continue as long as a few schools held together.

Randolph-Macon with Hampden-Sydney and Lynchburg College in Virginia, and American University of Washington, recently formed the Chesapeake Conference. The new group hopes to gain members in Swarthmore, Haverford, St. Johns and Johns Hopkins.

G. U. Water Poloists Play Canoeists Tonight

Georgetown University's unofficial water polo team will meet the Washington Canoe Club tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Shoreham Hotel pool, following which the District A. A. U. will stage an intercity swimming meet listing the services of swimmers from the District, Baltimore and Richmond.

On the Hoya polo team, among others, are such football players as Fred Callahan, Mack Stanley and Charlie Parcells. The Washington Canoe Club's standout is Lawrence Buscher, burly Western High athlete.

The swimming meet will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Tennis Chiefs Debate 1932 Rankings Today

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—From East and West, North and South, the ruling powers of the lawn tennis world today were converging on New York City for the annual meeting tomorrow of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, with the most quiet session in years in prospect.

The regular slate of officers, headed by Harry S. Knox, of Chicago, for president is expected to be elected with little opposition, the amateur rules tightened and only in the matter of national ranking does there appear fuel for debate.

The ranking of Ellsworth Vines, jr., Wilmer Allison and Cliff Sutter as 1, 2 and 3 among the men is expected to bring little opposition, but a lively debate can be waged over the placing of the others in the first ten, while the exclusion of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody from consideration among the women may draw fire from some quarters.

Bradley Signs Meade; Jockey Hurt at Post

Hialeah Park, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Jockey Don Meade, who signed a contract with E. R. Bradley today, was forced to cancel all mounts after the second race. While at the post for the juvenile event the webbing snapped and Meade's neck was burned. The same thing recently happened to Jockey E. Kummer, but it is likely Meade will be back in action in a few days.

"Long Shot" Meade, who earned his nickname because of his oft-accomplished feat of winning with outsiders, signed a one-year contract. Meade will report to Trainer Dick Thompson at Bradley's Idle Hour Farm March 15.

PRIMO BEATS SCHAAF BY KNOCKOUT

Fans View Bout With Suspicion as 13th Brings Finish.

across the street to the Polyclinic Hospital, where Arnold Rothstein and other casualties of the guerilla warfare on Broadway and the side streets were taken in to die.

There the subject ceased to be one for the speculation of the customers and sport reporters and passed into the charge of the doctors on the night watch.

It was said that a fragment of the mouth-piece had lodged in Schaaf's neck and would have to be taken out by surgeons.

Schaaf Popped in Mouth.

The fight was not very stimulating because Schaaf, who weighed only 207 pounds to Carnera's 264, did not know how to bob and weave under Primo's upstanding, European style of work. Primo popped him steadily on the mouth with left jabs of the kind which finally felled him and had pushed him steadily under the heart with short rights delivered as Schaaf stumbled constantly toward him. Sharkey in the corner between rounds was pulling at Schaaf's tights with impatient gestures as if to peel them clear off and scolding him for his inability to move in with a swaying motion which had confused Primo when Sharkey met him. Ernie tried but his weaving motion was very wooden and Primo dropped a great weight of leather on him in the course of the thirteen rounds.

Schaaf was trying to whip over a left hook to the chin, the punch with which Sharkey put Carnera down for a count of eight the last time they fought, but landed it only a half dozen times in the fight and only once, in the second round, with any apparently disturbing effect.

Schaaf was overmatched and not a very good fighter either and when he finally folded up he seemed to be just too weary from the cumulative effect of the blows and the pulling and hauling to get back on his feet.

Show Before Full House.

The whiff of scandal which had preceded the fight, like the smoke of battle in the snoot of an old warhorse, brought the customers stampeding to the garden with the fire of righteousness flaming in their eyes. The ticketmen were shoving standing-room coupons out through the wickets at $3.20 each as early as 8:30 and for the first time in many a month there was need of a strong turnout of horse-cops to reinforce the foot-sloggers in shoving the crowds around in the streets outside the garden. All the seats were sold, of course, at a maximum price of $3.30, and there were rows of standees leaning on the iron rails behind the seats all around the two galleries.

There were also present a full turnout of well-known ladies and gentlemen about town, who were not to dodge the issue, pretty well bored by the whole thing up to the finish. The gate receipts were $44,000.

The basis of the evening's gossip was this: Sharkey and his manager, Buckley, are joint managers and proprietors of Schaaf and this evening's fight was supposed to decide the heavyweight championship runnerupctcy between Primo and Ernie. Naturally, if Ernie had won that would have created an embarrassing situation as Sharkey could not ethically fight his own man for his own championship. Therefore, the chitchat over the seidels of the prize-fight profession had it that Schaaf must not win tonight.

He succumbed to a push in the face and persons who are loath to surrender their cherished suspicions may put two and two together and see what what comes to.

Wiffy Cox, 5 Under Par, Leads Tampa Golf

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, was "right" today, the Palma Ceia golf course suited his mood, and he shot a record-tying 32—33—65, five strokes under par, to lead the field of 105 contestants after 18 holes of the 72-hole Gasparilla open golf tournament.

Willie MacFarlane, the Tuckahoe (N. Y.) veteran, slipped to 35 strokes coming home after doing the first nine in 31 for a 66 total. Harry Cooper, of Chicago, tied MacFarlane for second place with duplicate rounds of 33—33—66.

Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., who won the first annual Gasparilla open last year, required 36—34—70. The course par is 35—35—70.

The support of the gallery went to a couple of amateurs, however, as Billy Duckwall, of Bradenton, turned in 34—34—68 and Harry Root, jr., 17-year-old Tampa lad, was right on his reels with 36—33—69.

RUNS-HITS and ERRORS

by BOB CONSIDINE

WALTER STEWART, who's going to pitch for Washington this year, led the American League pitchers last season in fielding. He played in 41 games, made 8 putouts, 50 assists, handled 58 chances without an error and participated in three double plays.

Slim Harriss, the old nemesis of the Washington Club a couple years back, was generally regarded as the worst fielding pitcher of all time. One day Bucky Harris ordered the first seven batters for Washington to bunt to Harriss, and for some totally unexplained reason the gangling hurler scooped up every bunt and threw out the runners one by one. From that time on Slim improved — or at least the managers didn't bait him as often.

Eddie Eynon, new laird of the ball park office, was one of the first men in baseball to campaign vigorously against the growing inclination of the boys to go golfing. This was somewhat surprising, since he himself rates as one of the greatest golfers ever produced here and an enthusiast to the core. But his vast knowledge of the game told him that golf was disastrous to some players, and at the same time he knew that it didn't affect other players—so paradoxically he waged war on one camp and gave tips on putting and chipping to the other.

The kernel of the topic is that any ball player who is an "end swinger"—that is, he grips the bat on the tip end (Goslin, Ruth, Foxx, Rice, Webb, Simmons, Gehrig, &c.)—can play golf all day and never hurt his baseball swing, for golf is primarily a game for end-swinging citizens. On the other side of the question a golf swing is everything that is harmful to the choke-bat boys, such as Bucky Harris, Manush, Judge, and of course the Cobb imitators.

Swimming and tennis are absolutely taboo for ball players, although several seasons ago Walter Johnson permitted the boys to expose themselves to the rigors of ping pong at the Tampa training base.

The Washington Club has decided to outwait Heinie Manush and Luke Sewell in their efforts to force Clark Griffith to add a couple of ciphers on the end of the figure for which they will play in 1933. The boys at the ball park office know all too well that none of the big league holdout lads, for all their pious squawking, are going to do anything about it except sign when the time comes.

George Moriarty's reception at Central High Thursday was the greatest he has had in two years of off-season oratory, he said yesterday. On the same day he was invited and hastily accepted an invitation to speak for a half an hour to the students at St. Alban's. He spoke two hours and a half and had to club his way out of the place.

Yesterday Dunbar High called and asked him to address their pursuers of knowledge. George accepted and his fund of Negro sandlot stories went over so big that he has promised to stay over the week-end and speak at Cardozo on Monday and Armstrong on Tuesday.

Occidental's Bowlers Lose to Blue Ribbons

Special to The Washington Post.

Willimantic, Conn., Feb. 10.—Setting a record for 5-game team sets, the Barber's Steel Blue Ribbons tonight won their home-and-home match with the Occidental Restaurant five by 54 pins. Tonight, the Blue Ribbons rolled 3,196 to 3,121 for their opponents. Occidental held a 21-pin advantage when the match opened. Ollie Pacini had the high set of the night for the visitors with 688, while Carl Frisk led the local team with 697.

Occidental also lost the doubles and singles matches.

Columbus Club Charges "Tampering" by Reds

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—In a letter to Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of organized baseball, President Larry MacPhail, of the Columbus American Association Baseball Club, today asserted that "if quoted correctly," the management of the Cincinnati Reds is guilty of "tampering" with a Columbus player.

Both President Sidney Weil and Manager Donie Bush, MacPhail wrote, have been quoted as expressing a desire to have Sylvester Johnson, recent Columbus acquisition, added to the Reds' 1933 pitching staff.

Johnson, veteran right-hander, was purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals, after waivers had been obtained from the fifteen other major league clubs.

MacPhail said "such statements" concerning Johnson's sale from the majors to the minors would make it "extremely difficult for the local club to sign him to a Columbus contract."

CENTRAL 21-15 VICTOR OVER G. U. FROSH

High School Quintet Rolls Up 16-4 Margin at Half.

HELD to a pair of field goals in the first half, Georgetown's Freshmen quintet went down before the potent attack of Central High School's recently crowned champions by a score of 21-15 yesterday.

The Mount Pleasanters rolled up a 16-4 lead in the first half before turning the responsibility over to second stringers. The Hoya cubs pulled themselves up to 17-15 in the final stanza before Central's regulars came hustling back into the game to halt the rally.

G. U. Prep Upset By Devitt, 34-26

Led by Tony Latona, all-high forward at Western High School last year, Devitt Prep invaded Garrett Park yesterday and surprised a strong Georgetown Prep quintet in an exciting game, winning by a score of 34 to 26. It was Georgetown's fourth defeat of the season.

Latona located the hoop for five field goals and a quartet of fouls for a total of 14 points, to lead both teams in scoring. He was ably assisted in this respect by Cox and Rozenberg, each of whom accounted for 9. Devitt led by a 16-to-6 count at the half.

Tom Keating and "Shanty" Allan rallied the home team in the second half and it came within a basket of tying the score at 27-all with two minutes to go, but Clements, Latona and Cox made good on foul shots and Rosenberg chalked up another basket to assure victory for the District five.

Armstrong Five Wins From Dunbar, 23-19

Armstrong added to its lead in the colored interhigh school championship race yesterday, nosing out Dunbar by a score of 23-19, in a neck and neck race.

Hayes, Hager and Hall led the way as Armstrong pulled away from its rival in the waning minutes of the fray to earn the decision. Poree, who led both teams in scoring with nine points, was outstanding for Dunbar.

Landon Prep Downs Donaldson, 39 to 23

Holding its opponent scoreless from the field in the first half, Landon Prep defeated its old rival, Donaldson School, of Baltimore, by a score of 39 to 23 in a one-sided game yesterday at the Epiphany gym.

Landon exhibited an airtight defense in the first half which prevented Donaldson from getting in close to the basket. The visitors attempted numerous long shots which missed the hoop.

Bill Baker and Clarence Becker led the assault on the Donaldson basket, scoring 17 and 15 points, respectively. Ruhe was best for the Baltimoreans in this respect.

Long Island Quintet Bows to St. John's

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 10.—Flush with victory over their traditional rivals of Johns Hopkins a few days ago, St. John's College quint kept up the good work tonight and rolled up a score of 42 to 31 on Long Island University here. The win avenged a reverse at the hands of the New Yorkers in their opening game of the season, played in New York several weeks ago, when the count was 31 to 29.

With MacCartee and Donahue leading the attack, the Johnnies went into an early lead, piling up 11 points and holding the invaders without a count in the first seven minutes of play.

tiations with the Garden, and if the promotion of a Schmeling-Sharkey bout or a Baer-Sharkey bout is given unto the hands of Dempsey, Jacobs' triumph over the Garden forces will be complete.

Not since the Dempsey-Gibbons fight out in Shelby, Mont., in 1923, has the heavyweight title of the world been at stake under the auspices of any firm but the New York Garden, but if Sharkey is to defend his title again in a major bout it is apparent that he must go to work for some other firm, presumably the Dempsey-Jacobs alliance.

Hitting the Headpin

Lucky Strike gathered in the most pins, but Georgetown won their District League match by a score of 2 to 1 at Lucky Strike. Georgetown rolled 584, 607 and 603 for a 1,796 total, to Lucky Strike's 631, 604 and 578, or 1,813 total. Jack Talburtt rolled a 387 set.

With Boots Halloran leading the way, Hyattsville took the odd game from Columbia in another District League engagement at Hyattsville. Carl Gochenour topped the losers with a 375 total.

The revamped Ye Old Tobacco Shoppe pinmen whitewashed Fountain Hams in the National Capital Loop at Lucky Strike. Bill Mayo had a high game of 135 and set of 378.

Mary Fox's 121 and Anna Vito's 312 were prize winners in the C. & P. Telephone Ladies' League at Lucky Strike. Dial No. 1 toppled 489 pins for high game with West Exchange turning in a 1,388.

Minte Paint rolled home with team honors in the Building Contractors League at Arcadia with a 613 game and 1,731 set. Mike Kapneck's 138 and 380 accounted for individual honors.

B. Boss' 153 game and Harris' 363 set led the scoring in the Interstate Commerce loop at Arcadia. Valuation's 582 and Mails and Files' 1,638 were high.

Phipps bagged individual honors in the Golf Club League at Silver Spring, massaging the lumber for a 136 game and 350 set. Manor garnered team honors with its 562 game and 1,642 set.

St. Alban's Defeated By Friends, 31 to 28

Friends School defeated St. Alban's by a score of 31-28, in a hotly contested game yesterday on the former's court. It was their first meeting this season.

Friends rolled up a 28-14, lead in the first half, but barely managed to withstand the savage attack of the visitors in the final period when St. Alban's held its opponent to three points.

Henry Clark and Junior Eakin starred for the visitors, while McGee was outstanding for St. Alban's. Friends was handicapped in the second half by the absence of its regular guards, May and White, who were banished from the fray via the four fouls route.

NATS OF 1924 FULFILLED HOPES

Stirring Days Under Bucky Harris Are Again Recalled.

to start the outfield he used against right-handers, then, after Ogden had pitched to one batter, he called the southpaw Mogridge to the mound. McGraw immediately rushed his alternate set of flyhawks into action, thus making them ineligible to return to the game when Mogridge later was withdrawn and first Marberry and then Johnson were called upon.

No other series game has quite matched this one. The Nationals took a one-run lead in the fourth on Harris' homer, with the Giants scoring three time in the sixth. In the eighth, Harris singled two runs to knot the string at three-all. It was here that Johnson lumbered to the mound. Frisch, with one out, tripled, and things looked mighty bad for the home team. Johnson, however, purposely walked Young to bring the heavy-hitting Kelly to the tee and then fanned him. Again in the eleventh, Johnson showed his mastery. With Southworth, running for Groh, on second as a result of the latter's single and Lindstrom's sacrifice, Johnson fanned Frisch, again purposely passed Young, and once more pulled out of the hole by fanning Kelly.

Then came the twelfth and victory. After Muesel's single had been wasted by the Giants, the Nats came in and packed away victory. With one gone, "Lady Luck" stepped in and gave the Harrismen a break, Catcher Hank Gowdy tripping over his mask and missing a foul off Ruel's bat. Muddy then doubled for his first hit of the series, Jackson fumbled Johnson's roller and Ruel took third with the pitcher getting life at first. It was here that McNeely contributed his $50,000 hit. It was a hot bounder directly at Third Baseman Lindstrom. As he was about to field it the ball hit a pebble and bounded over his head—and the Nats were home.

Central's Swimmers Beaten in Baltimore

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 10.—Baltimore City College's swimming team avenged a previous defeat when it conquered Central High School of Washington today in the City College pool, 42 to 33. In an earlier meet in Washington this season City was on the short end of a 49-to-46 score.

Eight events were run off today, and to the Capital natators went only three—the 100-yard backstroke, diving and 240-yard medley relay.

160-YARD RELAY—Won by City College (Doetsch, Kardash, Horn and Meginnis); second, Central. Time, 1:24.4.

RED CROSS CHAPTER OFFICERS ELECTED

Roger Sullivan Chairman of Alexandria Branch of Organization.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria Chapter of the American Red Cross, at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon, elected Roger C. Sullivan chairman for the ensuing year, with Armistead L. Boothe as vice chairman; Mrs. Leroy E. Peabody, secretary; C. S. Taylor Burke, treasurer; R. C. Bowton, chairman of Junior Red Cross; G. R. Fletcher, chairman of first aid; Miss Margary A. Hall, chairman of production corps; Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, chairman of publicity; Mrs. Ivan M. Green, chairman of home service; Mrs. C. E. Taylor Burke, chairman of nursing committee; Francis H. Fannon, chairman of disaster preparedness, and Robert M. Reese, chairman of flour distribution.

The board of directors is composed of the following: Irving Diener, Clyde C. Lamond, Albert V. Bryan, Miss Irma Coleman, Mrs. L. E. Tull, Mrs. Albert A. Smoot, Mrs. John W. Howard and Miss Laura E. Hulfish. Meetings will be held the second Friday in each month at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Sadie James, Virginia field representative of the American Red Cross, was present and addressed the meeting on her activities.

The distribution of clothing, sweaters and flour continues from the Westminster Building, and the report was made yesterday that between Wednesday night and yesterday 71 sweaters have been stolen from the supply at the building. Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims has been notified to investigate the theft.

The officers and a delegation of members of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons will go to Richmond Monday afternoon, where they will confer the Master Mason's degree before the grand lodge of Virginia. The Alexandria-Washington lodge officers will wear Colonial costumes. The Masonic choir will also accompany the officers to take part in the exercises. The party will leave Alexandria at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon and make the trip in special buses, returning the same evening.

The officers of the other two lodges in Alexandria—the Andrew Jackson and the Henry Knox Field lodges—will also attend the grand lodge meeting.

A special grand jury in the Corporation Court of Alexandria has been summoned to meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning, when seven criminal cases will be presented. Judge William P. Woolls will preside.

Among the cases is that of Warren Jones, colored, charged with murder in the shooting of George Christian on December 16, 1932. There are also two cases of alleged robbery, two of felonious assault and two of perjury.

Those summoned to serve on the jury include Edmund F. Ticer, Aubrey Shuman, George W. Kimball, George E. Warfield and J. W. Varney. Heretofore grand juries have been composed of eleven members, but under the State economy act this number has been reduced to five.

Judge William P. Woolls, of the Alexandria Corporation Court, has announced the appointment of these commissioners: Jail commissioners, the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church; J. William Goods and Clarence N. Moore. These will, within a short time, make the annual inspection of the city jail as required by law. The jury commissioners are John D. Normoyle and J. R. Eddington, who will hold a meeting in the near future and select names from which jurymen will be summoned for duty.

The monthly report of Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer of Alexandria, shows that during January there were 30 deaths and 36 births recorded. Included in the list of communicable diseases are two cases of scarlet fever and 12 of chicken pox. The health office gave 235 treatments and made 888 visits. The child welfare clinic reports 258 visits and 83 patients. The visiting nurse made 15 visits.

The board of directors of the Virginia Public Service Co., at its meeting on February 9 held in Alexandria, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1.50 per share on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, both payable April 1, 1933, to stockholders of record March 10, 1933, according to an announcement by L. W. Van Bibber, secretary-treasurer of the company.

The Ford distributing plant at the foot of Franklin street, Alexandria, which was closed down January 26, following the walkout of a large number of body workers in the Detroit plants, has resumed operations with its full force of 150 men. The plant is now delivering automobiles and parts on regular schedule.

An unidentified Negro, about 25 years old, stole 15 pairs of women's hose from Bradshaw's shoe store on King street, Alexandria, and escaped. The merchandise is valued at $20.

Funeral services for Virgil Bain, who died Wednesday, were conducted yesterday at the home of J. Frank Hibbs, in Alexandria, where he had lived many years, by the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Church, and the Rev. E. W. Aaron, pastor of the Washington Street Methodist Church. Pallbearers were George E. Warfield, J. Frank Hibbs, Luther H. Dudley, Dr. Arthur Snowden, Aubrey Shuman and R. Samuel Luckett. The body was taken to Bealeton, Va., for burial.

Rover Quashes Accusation of False Pretense Against Dr. Wilson's Man.

(Associated Press.)

The district attorney's office yesterday dropped a charge of false pretense against John R. Sasser, publicity agent for Dr. Clarence True Wilson, prohibition leader.

Sasser was charged with having obtained $75 from Lonnie G. Bray, of Washington, to be used in a parade advertising a prohibition debate between Dr. Wilson and Clarence Darrow. It was charged the parade was not held. Sasser was in Richmond, Va., arranging for the debate when the charge was made.

Michael F. Keogh, assistant district attorney, said Sasser and Bray had adjusted the financial matter and that there was insufficient evidence to support the charge.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Vignettes of the town:

Times Square at its calmest and barest—9 a. m., on a Sunday morning. . . . Overplump girls in pink tights in the court back of that Forty-second street burlesque house. . . . Few people bother seriously to follow the red and green lines which guide them through the subway terminals.

Manhattan Medley.

There's a restaurant in the West Forties that specializes in mushroom dishes. . . . And one next door serves only a vegetable menu, with a vegetable substitute for the meat. . . . STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

2-11-33

GIVE Dixie Junger, Los Angeles smoke ring champion, three packs of cigarettes and he can blow more than 1,000,000 rings for you. Mr. Junger has developed the ability to take a deep breath and exhale it slowly over a long period, blowing hundreds of rings. He has made 18,000 from a single cigarette. At this rate he could blow 360,000 from a pack of 20, or more than a million with three packs.

If I am not mistaken, Mr. Junger can puff rings around any competitors. If I am mistaken send in your record, together with photos and ample proof, and it will appear in Strange As It Seems.

The remote ancestor of the modern motion picture was a series of pictures arranged on a disk which, when turned, showed one at a time the pictures in the series in apparent motion. This type of "moving" picture followed announcement of Peter Mark Roget in 1824 in England, of the results of his investigations into human vision.

As the experiments came before photography was adapted to motion pictures, drawings were necessarily used. These drawings were similar, in principle, to the ones used in the animated cartoons of the modern movie.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MAYBE HANK WAS RIGHT.

BUSINESS MEN are still talking about Hank Ford's recent statement, and admitting that this time his remarks did not sound like body squeaks. Henry says that the boom period was the bad period for American business and that the depression is doing it a lot of good.

* * * *

These are the good times, declares Hank, because the business men of the country are pruning, planting and pushing, instead of picnicking, promoting and putting.

* * * *

The so-called prosperity era was an era of waste and inefficiency, thinks Mr. Ford. Nobody was doing any real work and the rarest thing in America was a man perspiring.

* * * *

According to Henry's way of thinking, American industry was merely looking at itself in duplicate mirrors, jumping through the paper hoops of market speculations and surf-bathing in a chain of mirages.

* * * *

There is much to what the Great White Father of the Tin Can Tourists says. Our industrial bigwigs were having an emotional workout with Hans Christian Anderson. They were doing an Aladdin-and-His-Wonderful-Lamp act, but they let water get into the kerosene.

* * * *

The country was merely passing through a Roman orgy, which it mistook for an industrial triumph.

* * * *

"Don't sell America short," was the national slogan at a time when it should have been, "Stop, Look and Listen!"

* * * *

Many corporations had presidents who couldn't locate their own offices without a guide and who went in only to dictate another letter to a couple of yacht agencies.

* * * *

Vice presidents were chosen for their ability to ignore what was going on at the office, and the best test for membership on a board of directors was a man's reputation for concentrating on his niblick shots and keeping his mind free from any business worries.

* * * *

But the big boys were no worse than the little fellows. We were all regarding life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as something done through a slot machine, a deck of cards and a wheel of fortune.

* * * *

The main idea was to get plenty of money without removing our coats, hats or gloves.

* * * *

We have been very slow coming out of the ether and a little reluctant about opening our eyes and recognizing the doctor, but during the past few months we have been getting back to normal both in point of brains and vision.

* * * *

Work, common sense and thrift once more loom as essential to any through trip to happy days. And, as Henry says, the slump may turn out to have been the best thing that ever happened to the country, always excepting Paul Revere's ride.

HOME—SWEET HOME.

Jack Spratt was a Technocrat—
His wife, though, had the money;
And so his speeches seemed so flat
To her that they were funny.

Our notion of swank: A man who attended both the motor and the yacht show and didn't give the salesman an assumed name.

VERY ANNOYING.

Mr. Paderewski is fed up with the machine age. It gets, in a manner of speaking, in his hair.

Members of the United States Senate during 1932 consumed 500 aspirin tablets at Government expense, it is announced. That's nothing; many a taxpayer was so distressed by Senate actions that he consumed that many at a sitting, and still didn't get rid of the headache!

Cyclist, 17, Is Arrested As Boy, 8, Is Injured

Having allegedly disregarded the signal of a schoolboy traffic patrol and ridden his bicycle into a group of children, seriously injuring an 8-year-old boy, George A. Meigs, 17, 301 Second street northwest, was arrested by police yesterday afternoon on a charge of failing to observe traffic signals.

LeRoy Desboro, the injured boy, was treated by Casualty Hospital for lacerations.

Bank Plot Thwarted, Police Hunt for Gang

Having successfully thwarted the plot to rob a branch of a downtown Washington bank yesterday, detectives are making a concerted effort to learn the identity of the alleged plotters, who are believed to be ruling members of a gambling ring.

A police guard was maintained through the day at the branch bank, but apparently the robbery was called off by the instigators of the plot.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

The regulations set down in the traffic manual of the District of Columbia were drawn up, passed upon and considered laws by the Commissioners to prevent accidents and for the protection of all.

It is apparent that there are many motorists unfamiliar with these traffic laws. If there is to be any appreciable decrease in the annual traffic toll, they must be known and understood.

A little booklet issued by the Police Department contains all the traffic regulations for the District. A copy may be obtained at either the Traffic Bureau or any of the precinct stations.

The accident figures to date are:

	1932	1933
Deaths	12	6
Injuries	410	405
Accidents	885	972

14 CADET COMPANIES FROM HIGH SCHOOLS WIN PARADE PLACES

Decoration Plan Progressing for Inaugural Ball at Auditorium.

The limitation placed on the number of high school cadets in the Roosevelt inaugural parade which will enable only 14 of 40 companies to march was made necessary, officials of the parade committee said yesterday, by the space limitations by which the parade is governed.

The question had been taken up, it was stated, with Col. E. M. Craigie, who is in charge of the cadet corps, before any decision was reached.

A limit as to number has already been placed on all units which will be embraced in the first division and which will include, in addition to the high school cadets, all regulars, National Guardsmen and other uniformed bodies connected with any of the military establishments. It is entirely possible that other divisions of the parade will have to be limited, too, so that the entire body of marchers may be reviewed before nightfall.

Decoration of Auditorium.

Details incident to the transformation of the Washington Auditorium into the scene of beauty in which it is to be for the night of the inaugural ball were discussed at a meeting, at which Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the inaugural ball committee, had yesterday morning at the Washington Auditorium with representatives of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, Police and Fire Department, corporation counsel and Traffic Bureau and the radio company. The plan of decoration which the representatives of the Navy will provide under the direction of Admiral H. V. Butler, was decided upon, broadcasting booth located and the necessary plans made for police, traffic and fire protection.

The jam at the Washington Auditorium the night of the inaugural ball is expected to come between 9:30 and 10:00 o'clock since the schedule agreed upon yesterday provides for the entry of the governors and other distinguished guests, beginning promptly at 10 o'clock. Participants who arrive earlier will be entertained with music by the Oklahoma Indian Band and the Philadelphia Harmonica Band on the lower floor of the auditorium.

Tickets for Concert.

Warren Delano Robbins, vice chairman of the committee on distinguished guests, discussed the details of the entertainment, which will be provided for those who fall within that category, in an address last night over Station WJSV.

Tickets for the inaugural concert will go on sale this morning at the National Symphony box office at Garfinckel's.

A letter was addressed yesterday by the committee on grandstand ticket sales to all of the chief clerks and personnel officers of the various Government departments enlisting their cooperation in making reservations for seats for Government employes. Under the plan of cooperation which has been evolved these officials will receive applications from their various departments and forward them to the ticket committee in the Washington Building.

Bedford's Mixed Band To March in Inaugural

(Associated Press.)

The brilliantly attired Co-ed Firemen's Band of Bedford, Va., was assigned a place yesterday in the inaugural parade.

Arrangements for the band's participation were made by Representative Woodrum, of Roanoke, at conferences with Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman, and others at inaugural headquarters as scores of other bands clamored for places. So many bands have applied many will be turned down.

The Bedford organization was the first civilian band in Virginia to be given a place in the parade. Three military bands, the Richmond Blues, John Marshall High School Cadets, and Massanutten Military Academy, previously were given assignments.

With its 24 women and 46 men musicians, the Bedford band twice before has marched down Pennsylvania avenue. In firemen's parades here in 1930 and 1932, the band won many prizes including the capital prize in the latter year.

F. K. Saunders, band president, and Claude Harrison, business manager, were in Washington yesterday to discuss the parade arrangements with Representative Woodrum and Admiral Grayson.

DEFUNCT BANKS PAY SHARE OF DEPOSITS

Two Making Partial Refunds and Two Others Will Follow Suit.

As two Washington banks, which suspended operations last July, opened their doors yesterday for the first payment of depositors' claims, announcement came from Acting Comptroller of Currency F. G. Awalt that two more would start payment within a short time.

With depositors filing into the Bank of Brightwood and the Departmental Bank throughout yesterday to collect a total of $375,000, Mr. Awalt said that the International Exchange Bank and the North Capitol Savings Bank would make payments as soon as cash on hand permits.

Approximately 7,500 depositors will file claims with the two banks which started payments yesterday. To aid distribution the Departmental Bank will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight, resuming its regular hours of 8:30 to 5 Monday. The Bank of Brightwood will remain open until 5 p. m. today.

At the Departmental, depositors are being paid 30 per cent of their claims, while the Brightwood Bank is paying 20 per cent.

Capital Realtors Oppose Copeland's Housing Bill

Three Washington realtors called on the District Commissioners yesterday afternoon in the capacity of private citizens to present their arguments against indorsement of the Copeland housing corporation bill in its present form.

The realtors, W. C. Miller, Waverly Taylor and Harry K. Boss, declared they believed the project should be left to private initiative. Earlier in the week a delegation from the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects urged the commissioners to indorse the measure, which is being sponsored by the architects.

WOR Will Feature Helen Heinl Tonight

Helen Corbin Heinl, Washington pianist, will be the guest of the Little Symphony Orchestra, over Station WOR, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. Heinl, a former MacDowell pupil, will play MacDowell's "Concerto in D Minor." Philip James will direct the orchestra. In the National Broadcasting Co. contest conducted by Deems Taylor last year Mr. James won the $5,000 prize for the best orchestral composition.

LILLIE TO FACE JURY UNDER $20,000 BOND

Expert Counterfeit Plant Is Laid to Man Who Shot Two Policemen.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage yesterday, Lester L. Lillie, 1201 Thirteenth street northwest, was ordered held for the District grand jury. Bond was set at $20,000.

Lillie was arrested Monday night when he allegedly attempted to pass a counterfeit $10 bill in a lunchroom near Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest. Two policemen, Herman Lay and Arthur Gernhofer, were shot by the youth in the ensuing melee.

Lillie later was found to have a well-equipped counterfeiting plant and when he was arraigned yesterday three bogus money charges and two assault charges were placed against him.

Attorney E. Russell Kelly appeared for Lillie, who waived a hearing and entered pleas of not guilty.

Three Boys Admit Senate Cafe Theft

Ate Little of Everything in Capitol Restaurant, Police Declare.

An orgy of feasting and cream puff throwing in the Senate restaurant at the Capitol was revealed yesterday in the arrest of three youths, held on open charges at First Precinct station.

Police said the three admit entering the lawmakers' eating place through a door which was inadvertently left ajar. They ate crab meat and pies, in fact a little bit of everything that was there, police said.

The youths arrested are Emmet Waller, 18, of 652 East Capitol street; Dan Scocca, 19, of 206 East Capitol street, and George O. Auguste, 19, of 3915 Illinois avenue northwest.

Veteran Found in Attic With Wrists Slashed

William C. Wolfe, 33, of 3012 Porter street northwest, was under treatment at Walter Reed Hospital last night after self-inflicting wounds on his wrists with a safety razor blade, according to police.

A former service man, Wolfe has been in ill health for some time. He was discovered in the attic of the home of a friend, W. Leo Marshall, 5405 Thirty-ninth street northwest, with his wrists bleeding, yesterday afternon. Hurried first aid was administered by Fire Rescue Squad men and he was then taken to Emergency Hospital, and later to Walter Reed.

Butcher Fined $300 In Short Weight Case

Ellis Levy, proprietor of a meat market at 1508 Seventh street northwest, was fined $300 by Judge Ralph Given in Police Court yesterday on charges of selling meats at short weight. It was his third conviction on the same charge.

George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights and measures, said his office had been investigating the Levy market for some time. His agents, Mr. Roberts declared, had made purchases which, when tested, were found to be ½ to 4 pounds short in weight on each sale. Judge Given suspended a 90-day jail sentence.

Garges Says Municipal Center Funds Lacking

Answering a protest from the Cleveland Park Citizens Association against cessation of work on the Municipal Center, Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the Board of Commissioners, yesterday wrote in part as follows:

"While some funds are available from previous appropriations applicable to the Municipal Center, there was no opportunity to reinforce such balances with sufficient funds to enable the first unit, or even a portion of the first unit, to be constructed."

$250 Dresses Stolen From Store.

Dresses worth $250 were reported stolen from the store of Lowell Lane at 2911 Fourteenth street northwest by burglars who forced open a rear door Thursday night.

BALLOU WOULD END SCHOOL CHILDREN'S RELIEF DUPLICATION

Wants Welfare Agencies to Study Family Needs From Pupil List.

To avoid duplication in relief work, Dr. Frank W. Ballou yesterday suggested to Miss Mary A. Dilger, administrative principal of the Gales, Seaton and Blake Schools, that she send a list of names of all pupils to the Council of Social Agencies and the Board of Public Welfare so these agencies may make an investigation into family needs.

He also suggested that children at the schools be permitted on written request of their parents "to leave the building during the noon recess for any purpose, including the securing of hot lunches at the quarters of the Volunteers of America until such time as the welfare agencies shall otherwise advise the superintendent."

Parents to Be Warned.

He asked that Miss Dilger make it clear to parents that the school officials can not assume responsibility for the supervision, protection and care of children who leave the school premises during the noon recess period.

Dr. Ballou made public a letter from Miss Dilger, declaring that she had stopped allowing the children to lunch at the Volunteers of America because of a statement by Capt. Arthur E. Wise, of the Volunteers, that restrictions would have to be placed on the other work of the organization because of the "expense of providing warm lunch for 100 school children daily."

"Provided Lunch Not Eaten."

The letter read in part:

"I felt that in spite of requests from the parents, a number were going who did not really need the lunch. This was verified by reports that came from the pupils saying that all of the children were not eating the lunch furnished.

"I should like to state that milk-and-cracker lunches are being given to all children whom we have reason to believe can not afford to bring the money for the same."

Use of Bus Terminal During Rush Accepted

The Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday accepted the offer of the Short Line System Bus Co. of their new terminal at 633 F street northwest, for the use of special buses coming into the city for the inaugural celebration.

Ernest Kelly, general manager of the bus system, stated that announcements of the terminal accommodations will be sent to every bus company. The site was chosen because of its downtown location which will not interfere with the inaugural ceremonies.

33 Students at A. U. Win Semester Honors

Semester honors for 33 students in the College of Liberal Arts of American University, were announced by Dean George B. Woods yesterday morning at the student assembly.

Twenty-two of the students are graduates of local high schools. They are Martin Allwine, Elwood Backenstoss, Mrs. Genevieve Blew, George Barber, aCtherine Church, Kirkley Coulter, Jane Esch, Alice Louise Ford, Henrietta Goodner, Margaret Hedgcock, Georgeanna Hild, Anne King, Dorothy Kirsch, Sara Motley, Nell Moon, Helen Nordlinger, Pauline Pariseau, George Sanderlin, Meta Scantlin, Esther Smith, Joseph Summers and Mary Lesta Wakeman.

Sales Regulation Says 'Keep Moving'

Police Amendment Will Not Permit Peddlers to Loiter.

Responding to the demands of Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association and other trade groups, the District Commissioners yesterday modified a police regulation so as to prohibit all street vendors from stopping longer than to make a sale in the congested area of Washington and at certain circles.

Previously, vendors have been limited to 30 minutes on any block, but police reported that they have been remaining within the same congested district while technically complying with the regulation.

The new regulation specifies fixed stands at which the vendors are permitted to remain and outlines the congested areas from which they are barred as under the former ordinance. Penalty for violation is set at not more than $300.

PLAY PRESENTED BY PUPILS

As a feature of the Founders' Day program conducted by the Parent-Teachers Association at the John Burroughs School yesterday, the second grand pupils, under direction of Mrs. Florence B. Lawson, teacher, presented a play, "The Flower Show." Left to right, upper—Verna Helen Staaf, Clare Norris and Katherine Ann Menafee. Lower—John Parker and Richard Mattingly.

$36,000 AUTHORIZED FOR STREET REPAIRS

D.C. Commissioners Approve Whitehurst's Program on 23 Highways.

Improvements on 23 streets at an approximate cost of $36,000 were authorized yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways. Payments will come out of the gasoline tax funds, now available, and from assessments against abutting property owners. The work will be done this spring and summer.

Streets listed for improvements, which consist chiefly of paving of center strips and the resurfacing of the entire width of the highway with asphaltic concrete, follow:

Reno road, from Ellicott to Fessenden streets; Ellicott street, Thirty-sixth street to Reno road; Davenport street, Thirty-second street to Connecticut avenue; Locust road, Thirteenth street to Fourteenth street; Fourteenth street, Kalmia to Locust road; Thirteenth street, Kalmia to Locust road; Peabody street, Fifth to Seventh street; Oneida place, Fifth to Seventh street; Oglethorpe street, Sixth to Seventh street; Nicholson street, Fifth to Sixth street.

Longfellow street, Third street to Third place and from alley east to Second street; Second street, Kennedy to Kansas avenue; Ingraham street, Fifth street to Kansas avenue; Fourth street, Hamilton to Ingraham street; South Dakota avenue northeast, Webster street to alley north of Allison street; Thirteenth place northeast, Varnum to Webster street; Varnum street northeast, Thirteenth place to Fourteenth street; Fourteenth street northeast, Michigan avenue to South Dakota avenue.

Twenty-first street northeast, Randolph street to Bunker Hill road; Isherwood street northeast, Sixteenth to Seventeenth street; Third place, Madison to Nicholson street; Nicholson street, Third to Fourth street.

Child Hurt by Insurance Firm Car Gets $4,200

Verdicts of $4,200 for Lois Potter, 4 years old, and $2,800 for her father, D. W. Potter, of 1224 Quincy street northwest, were given in District Supreme Court yesterday because of injuries sustained by the girl when she was struck by an automobile of the Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., of 925 Fifteenth street northwest.

The child was struck at Quincy street and Kansas avenue northwest on January 16. Through Attorneys Welch, Daily & Welch, it was shown that the girl had undergone four major operations on her right leg, which will be permanently disfigured and shortened.

GASOLINE TAX BOOST IS BLOCKED BY ODDIE

Action on District Increase Is Thwarted After Brief Debate.

Action on the Senate District Committee's bill to boost the District tax on gasoline from 2 to 3 cents was blocked in the Senate yesterday by Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada.

Senator Oddie served notice when the bill was reported out of committee that he would object when the measure was called up on the unanimous consent calendar.

His objection followed a brief debate participated in by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut; Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District Committee, and Senator Kean (Republican), New Jersey.

"I have been informed the present tax is more than sufficient to provide for the upkeep of roads," said Senator Bingham, "and I do not understand why the additional tax is necessary."

Senator Capper made the point that the present 2-cent gasoline tax is lower than in most States, and that the additional funds resulting would be used to finance bridge and park road construction and pay the salaries of crossing policemen if the traction merger becomes law.

Senator Bingham said Connecticut has only a 2-cent tax.

Senator Kean observed that automobile license taxes in the District ought to be based on weight.

15 Violation Driver Fined Total of $115

Defendant Claimed 'Twas Another Man But He Failed to Produce.

Convicted two weeks ago of violation of fifteen traffic regulations, John T. Gray, colored, yesterday was sentenced to pay fines totaling $115 by Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court.

Motorcycle Policemen L. E. Sikes and J. T. White testified Gray drove past numerous red lights and stop signs, and was guilty of speeding at approximately 70 miles an hour. When he was tried, Gray informed the judge he was a victim of mistaken identity and that he had not been driving the car.

He said that he could produce the driver, and yesterday when he failed to do so he was sentenced.

Five Sewer Contracts For $15,000 Awarded

Five sewer contracts totaling approximately $15,000 were awarded yesterday by the District Commissioners. The R. D. Schlegel Co., of Bethesda, obtained three jobs: Klingle street sanitary sewer, between Fifty-first place and Weaver terrace, $1,099.34; North Dakota avenue service sewer, between Peabody and Quackenbos streets, $1,870.05; Piney Branch road service sewer, between Georgia avenue and Van Buren street, $2,623.45.

James Parreco & Son, Washington, was awarded a contract to build the Nineteenth street replacement sewer, between I and L streets, for $3,581.23, and the M. Cain Co., of Washington, obtained the job to construct the I street replacement sewer, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets, on a bid of $6,071.93.

HOUSE REPORT DUE TODAY ON SLASHED DISTRICT CASH BILL

Commissioners to Testify at Budget Hearing on Second Deficiency.

The District appropriations bill, shorn more than $2,000,000 below the $39,743,270 budget estimates, and carrying additional tax levies to provide for local unemployment relief, will be reported to the House of Representatives shortly after noon today.

Earlier, the House District Appropriations subcommittee will meet to put final touches on the measure before turning it over to the full House Appropriations Committee at 10 o'clock this morning.

Although a confidential committee print of the bill has been prepared, there are several items in the tentative draft on which members are said not to be in agreement. Differences will be ironed out at this morning's preliminary meeting.

Points Agreed Upon.

Items reported tentatively agreed to include:

1. Either an increase in the present tax on intangibles, or a new excess profits tax, to finance relief activities.

2. An appropriation of $625,000 for unemployed relief in the last six months of 1933.

3. A Federal "lump-sum" contribution to the District of $6,500,000.

4. A provision restricting the Public Utilities Commission from enforcing its taxicab meter order, and a clause requiring cab operators to post liability security.

5. Provision for a 10 per cent deduction in water rates as reward for prompt payment.

Funds for a new eight-room elementary school were to have been provided by trimming other school construction items, but a delayed report from the Budget Bureau made this impossible. They will be provided instead in the second deficiency bill.

Commissioners to Appear.

The District Commissioners today will appear before the Budget Bureau in behalf of the second deficiency measure, calling for total appropriations of $605,349. Because of the short time remaining before adjournment of Congress, they will urge speedy transmission to Capitol Hill.

Although details of the legislation are withheld until it is sent to Congress, the measure is known to provide $325,399 for payment of refunds to property owners on street improvement levies and the like. One item of $217,399 is to meet further refunds to property holders who paid assessments under the erstwhile Borland law.

Also included in the bill is an item of $108,000 to cover judgments against the District in District courts, likewise rendered as a result of the rescinding of the Borland law. Other judgments totaling $77,983 not associated with street assessments, are provided for in the bill.

A resolution introduced in the House yesterday by Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, would authorize the President to stop all unnecessary public construction activities in the District.

Brightwood Citizens Ask New High School

Resolutions requesting a new senior high school in Northwest Washington and an addition to Paul Junior High School were adopted last night by the Brightwood Citizens Association.

The association also recommended to Maj. E. W. Brown that the Sixth Police Precinct be returned to its former designation of Thirteenth. In another resolution, it was recommended that a member of the Fire Department deliver one lecture a semester in the schools on fire prevention. Capt. H. A. Chapman, of the Fire Department, spoke at the meeting, and demonstrated the proper way to pull a fire box.

Abandoned Taxi Bares Accident

Man Held for Quiz After Cab Is Discovered Near Alexandria.

An investigation started by Sergt. R. B. Jenkins and Private W. E. Riley, of the Park Police, following the finding of a badly damaged taxicab abandoned near Alexandria, Va., early yesterday, brought about the disclosure of an accident near Ashland, Va., in which two persons were seriously injured Thursday night.

It was learned that the abandonment of the cab had been reported by Jessie Roundy, 22, of 235 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The questioning of Roundy, who was held for investigation, revealed the cab had been rented three days ago from George Mandes, of 1412 Taylor street northwest. Samuel L. Breadon, 27, of 117 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, is said to have rented the car, and driven it to Richmond, taking Roundy and a girl identified as Hilda Kline, 22, no address given, with him.

In returning to Washington Thursday night, police learned that the car was wrecked, injuring Breadon and the girl. Police said Roundy admitted abandoning the car.

Federation Arranges Campaign for Funds

To meet expenses of the ensuing fiscal year, which begins April 1, the Washington Federation of Churches will launch a campaign for funds February 26. In addition to securing funds through the efforts of the Woman's Council, which has been the custom of the past, money will be solicited for the general treasury this year by male members of the churches.

The beginning of the drive observed with the celebration of eration Sunday," by churches which are members of the organization. The drive will end in March. The drive will be under the direction of Dr. E. M. Ellison, chairman of the campaign committee, and Mrs. B. B. Ellenberger, chairman of the finance committee of the church council.
